Peterson Makes Bid To Ward Off Oil Strike

Walkout Set For Midnight

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today made a last-ditch attempt to ward off a province-wide strike against all oil companies set for midnight.

He sent telegrams to all the parties urging them not to permit a total tie-up of the oil and gas industry.

PETERSON
. . . cancells trip

"This will confirm that my department has offered any assistance you may care to take advantage of to effect a settlement of the oil industry dispute," said the telegrams.

"Government considers the continued supply of oil and gas essential and urges you to settle your differences with employers (employees) and in any event to avoid the complete tie-up of this essential industry."

Union and management spokesmen were not available for comment on the telegrams.

Mr. Peterson released the texts without comment after declining to see reporters in the morning.

Mr. Peterson cancelled a trip to Washington, D.C., Tuesday. He was to attend a meeting of the International Conference of Government Labor Officials, of which he is president.

On Sunday, he repeated earlier comments saying "I am not prepared to tolerate any action which would result in a total shutdown of this industry."

There was speculation the government will use the emergency powers of the Civil Defence Act if the strike occurs. This was first used nine years ago to stop a ferry strike.

A regular meeting of the cabinet was being held this afternoon at which the ministers would likely discuss the next move.

Before the telegrams were sent, the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' International Union completed plans for its extended strike against Shell, Home, Texaco and Standard.

The union has been on strike against British American for two months and since Nov. 5 against Imperial's Port Moody refinery. BA operations on the Prairies and in Ontario have also been on strike since mid-September.

Sunday, 95 oil workers at Pacific Petroleums' McMahon Refinery in Taylor, B.C., were locked out. The company said this morning it had "relieved" the men to effect a more orderly takeover by supervisors.

Pickets were established at the refinery and at a nearby petro-

Gibbs Defies Smith

(Times News Services)

SALISBURY — Loyalist Governor-General Sir Humphrey Gibbs today defied rebel Premier Ian Smith in a face-to-face confrontation over who is legally in charge of the Rhodesian government.

Faced with growing internal opposition to the breakaway government, Smith and two aides drove to government house for a 70-minute meeting with Gibbs, who had refused orders Sunday night to step down.

A spokesman for the governor-general, who remains loyal to the orders of Queen Elizabeth and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, said Gibbs remained adamant in his position.

Gibbs, who settled in Rhodesia in 1923, dismissed Smith and his cabinet after last Thursday's unilateral declaration of independence. Smith in turn ordered Sir Humphrey to vacate Government House. Gibbs said Sunday night he would resign only if "asked by Her Majesty to do so."

100 SIGN BOOK

While Smith was inside Government House with Deputy Premier Clifford Dupont and Justice Minister Desmond Lardner, more than 100 visitors signed the guest book—a sign of solidarity with Gibbs.

In Bulawayo, 220 miles southwest of Salisbury, black Nationalist leaders failed today when they tried to organize a general strike by African workers. Police riding shotgun on buses told the workers not to be intimidated by the Nationalists, who were urging persons at bus stops not to board the vehicles.

Rhodesia's foremost Anglican prelate, the Right Rev. Cecil Alderson, Bishop of Masonaland, declared at a memorial service in Salisbury honoring Second World War dead the illegality of the Smith government was "quite clear."

Bishop Alderson declared Sunday to a crowd of several hundred persons at the service "there is a Christian rights and maybe a Christian duty to disobey" orders of the rebel government.

"I would be gravely insincere and cowardly if I did not state again here the united judgment of almost all Christian leaders of this land . . . I believe what has been done to be wrong."

He added Rhodesians have "the responsibility and the right to make up their own minds on great moral issues and be answerable to God in their own consciences."

White senior civil servants and army officers with close ties to Britain were also reported in dissent. Gloom fell over business circles in Salisbury.

Smith, however, appeared confident and firmly in control.

Informants said David Hall, chief of protocol and a former regular British officer, had resigned. Many others were believed to be also considering resignation.

Temporary restrictions on banking facilities and a general uncertainty of the country's future have caused commercial circles to delay transactions.

No positive reaction was expected before Britain and other countries made clear the actions they planned taking to counter Rhodesia's seizure of independence.

Tory Die-Hards Fight Sanctions

LONDON (AP) — Emergency legislation enabling the British government to clamp stiff economic sanctions on the white settler regime in Rhodesia began passage through Parliament today. Britain's chief legal official termed the bill "extremely urgent."

Debate began in the Commons and the House of Lords. The government is trying to rush the bill through in one day and Queen Elizabeth was expected to sign the measure after midnight tonight.

The Conservative party Commons leadership decided at a one-hour meeting before Parliament met to help the Labor government speed the legislation through.

But a handful of right-wing Conservative MPs planned to contest the legislative time limits in the Commons.

In the House of Lords, the Marquess of Salisbury, a former Conservative kingmaker and long a supporter of white Rhodesian interests, planned to introduce an amendment that would delay application of the sanctions—particularly a proposed ban on tobacco imports.

Opening the debate in the House of Lords was Lord Gardiner, the Lord Chancellor and head of the British judiciary.

He has been one of the government's chief legal advisers through the crisis that reached a climax last Thursday when Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia's independence from Britain.

He was the first of 40 speakers on the Lords' agenda.

Stressing the urgency of the bill, Lord Gardiner said Britain must act quickly against the Rhodesian regime. He said Smith appeared to have been acting under pressure—"He has a lot of extremists in his cabinet and I am afraid they have carried the day."

Armed Police Break Up Negro Strike

BULAWAYO (Reuters) — Police armed with shotguns today broke up an attempted strike by Negroes in this Rhodesian industrial centre.

Thousands of Negroes leaving the township for work had been ordered by African nationalists to get off their bicycles and not to use public transport.

Armed police in jeeps drove through the streets and ordered the Negroes back on to buses.

Some Negroes alleged to have intimidated others were arrested.

Factories and offices later reported little absenteeism although many Negroes turned up late.

A police spokesman said the mail and passenger train from Salisbury to Bulawayo was stoned Sunday night near Gwelo, about 100 miles north of here. Several windows were shattered but no one was injured.

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Wilson may agree to an oil embargo against Rhodesia because of pressure from the United Nations, British newspapers suggest today.

The Daily Telegraph says there is a threat to government unity over Rhodesia because many Labor parliamentarians feel Wilson's administration has applied fewer bans and control than should have been exerted.

The Daily Mail reports: "Britain, opposed to the use of force, is ready to compromise by supporting a UN ban on oil supplies to Rhodesia, providing the major oil-producing countries can demonstrate it will be effective."

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — More than 100 Negro students smashed windows of the British embassy with stones and clashed with Israeli police here today in a protest over Britain's Rhodesia policy. At least one policeman was injured.

NO RUSH FOR SESSION, HOUSE OPENS JAN. 18

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament will reassemble Tuesday, Jan. 18, the cabinet decided today.

The announcement was made by an aide to Prime Minister Pearson while the cabinet still was in session.

Mr. Pearson had indicated during the campaign that Parliament might be summoned for a week before Christmas when the eight-day throne speech debate could be completed but said no definite plans had been made.

This will be the first session of Canada's 27th Parliament, with the Liberals holding 131 seats, three short of a clear majority in the 265-seat House of Commons.

UN 'Presence' Bid Sidelined

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Uruguay suggested today that the Security Council establish a UN "presence" in rebellious Rhodesia but back-stage negotiations failed to produce a middle-road resolution.

Delegates' efforts to agree on a resolution on the issue of whether to give China's UN seat to the Peking regime also bogged down and it appeared that the General Assembly would move on to other business without voting on that question.

Sen. Hector Paysse Reyes of Uruguay told the council his proposal for a UN "presence" in Rhodesia would not conflict with moves being undertaken there by Britain to put down the white minority secession stemming from the territorial government's unilateral declaration of independence last week.

Paysse Reyes did not present a resolution but said the council should establish the "presence" as a means of underlining its concern for the Rhodesian situation and its competence to deal with the situation there.

The asesmbly was scheduled this afternoon to wind up its perennial debate on a seat for Red China. But sponsors of this year's move still had not agreed on a resolution strong enough to face the confidence of the United States and Nationalist China that the move would be defeated, even if by the narrowest margin in history.

Slaying In Colorado Traced to B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are investigating two men here in the shooting death of an unidentified youth in Colorado.

A Colorado prosecuting officer will arrive here tonight to interview the men, police said today.

The youth's body was found Oct. 23 under a tree half a mile off a highway 16 miles east of Durango, Colo.

Durango is a highway junction town about 180 miles southwest of Denver.

Sheriff Walter Conrad of Durango said in a telephone interview today it is believed the victim was shot in a Durango motel and taken to the spot where the body was found.

BLOOD IN MOTEL

Blood was found in the motel, which had been occupied the night before by the victim and two other persons.

The motel operator told police he believed the three men came from Canada.

The victim died of a bullet wound in the temple.

Investigators said a shirt manufactured in Edmonton was found near the body.

The men being investigated here were picked up recently in connection with another case.

Rail Workers Ask Pay Hike

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 53,000 non-operating railway workers presented new contract proposals to Canada's railways today calling for a general 55-cent hourly wage increase plus additional pay increases for skilled and night shift workers.

The non-ops' joint negotiating committee, speaking for members of seven unions, asked for a 20-per-cent wage increase for skilled workers to adjust what it called existing wage inequities and a 10-per-cent increase for regularly scheduled night workers.

Jet Circling Globe Around Both Poles

HONOLULU (AP)—A Boeing 707 jet—crammed with instruments, scientists and observers —flew out of Honolulu today on an around-the-world flight over both the earth's poles.

The jet will cruise at between 30,000 and 41,000 feet to allow scientists to study high-altitude meteorology and clear-air turbulence. The plane was to land in London for its first refuelling stop.

Then, it is to speed on, passing Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Christchurch, N.Z., before returning to Honolulu in 52 to 56 hours.

The planned 26,203-mile flight over the poles never has been accomplished.

The battery of scientists aboard is headed by Dr. Serge A. Korff, professor of physics at New York University. Time-lapse cameras will photograph the weather at five-minute intervals. Studies also will be made on the jet stream, cosmic radiation, flight - crew fatigue and cockpit design.

CRASH KILLS AIRLINE CHIEF'S SON

INDIO, Calif. (UPI) — All eight passengers were found dead today in the wreckage of a twin-jet aircraft missing since Sunday on a flight from Palm Springs to Burbank, Calif.

The wreckage was found about six miles north of this desert community in a hilly area.

Among the dead were veteran flier Paul Kelly, the pilot, and 11-year-old Peter Prescott, son of Robert W. Prescott, president of Flying Tiger Lines.

The elder Prescott is aboard a jet transport on a polar circling of the earth.

'Gov't Robbing Hospitals' Of Promised Financial Aid

By PETE LOUDON

(Why is a rich city in a rich district in a rich province going without sufficient hospital beds? Why is this issue building into a controversy involving two layers of government instead of being quietly and efficiently solved? The Times asked reporter Pete Loudon to explore the issue. This is his second report in a four-part series.)

Loudon

A group of municipal leaders in the capital region has charged the provincial government with robbing community hospitals of their promised financial support.

They say the province has diverted to other purposes $44 million collected from the 5 per cent sales tax over the past seven years and earmarked for hospital use.

Now, they object, the property owners of the capital region are to be asked to raise $5.7 million dollars through a referendum on Dec. 11 toward a $13.5 million hospital program

Three municipal leaders have so far openly condemned the proposed system of financing the needed beds for district hospitals. They charge it will be the province's responsibility if property-owners reject the hospital vote.

Dilemma

The figures backing the objections and cited in this article are now being studied by other municipal elected officials. Councils will be meeting in the next few weeks and coping with their dilemma.

Should they tell their voters to support the hospital vote and thus answer a vital need they all recognize?

Or should they urge defeat of the referendum to fight a principle—their belief that the province is loading more and more of the cost of public service on the property-owner?

Before going further into the municipal position of protest it should be pointed out that the provincial government, as represented in the issue by Health Minister Eric Martin, objects in turn to their contentions. In the next article in this series he gives reasons supporting the government position.

Higher Share

The municipal leaders who have so far expressed themselves, and those who will do so in the next few weeks, say

'Find a Guy Named Terry . . . That's the Real Hero'

(See also Page 17)

MIAMI (UPI)—"If you are looking for a real hero, find a purser on that ship named Terry Wise."

"He grabbed older people, who were just too shocked or afraid to jump, put life jackets on them and bodily threw them into the sea."

These were the words of General Motors executive Robert White describing the rescue of 466 passengers and crew members of the ill fated Caribbean cruise ship Yarmouth Castle.

Mr. White, of Roanoke, Va., said he watched Wise (of Markham, Ont.) and Bahama Star Captain Carl L. Brown in action from the flying bridge of the burning cruiser.

He said "that's the only reason some of the passengers are alive today. Wise was among the last to leave the ship."

White, a former navy man, described the Bahama Star's captain as "one hell of a man —I never saw such marvelous seamanship."

At one point, White said, Capt. Brown manoeuvred the Bahama Star to within 250 yards of the flaming ship—"close enough to feel the heat and hear the people shouting and screaming for help."

"He kept repeating instructions over the bull horn: 'Put on your life jackets and jump into the sea. You'll be picked up immediately.

WISE
. . . among last to leave

" 'Be careful. Don't jump into the lifeboats. Jump into the sea. Jump into the sea.'

"One man jumped into a lifeboat, fractured both his legs and his pelvis."

White said Brown ordered his own lifeboats to "move in close, the fire's on the top deck, the ship will not explode. Go in close and get them.

"And brother, that's exactly what they did," White said. "At one time I saw five or six lifeboats, right next to the hull."

Capt. Brown said the doomed ship's bridge and control centre collapsed in fiery rubble as the rescue vessel pulled alongside.

"The radio room would have gone before that," he said. "I definitely think the fire area was the reason no distress signal was sent."

Many passengers said no alarm was sounded aboard the Yarmouth Castle, but coast guard Capt. V. G. Niebergall said there were conflicting reports as to whether or not an alarm had been sounded.

Brown said he did not know what caused the fire but said "I think the officers of the Yarmouth Castle know where the fire started and who reported it."

there should be a higher contribution by the province to hospital costs instead of a higher share by property-owners through their annual property taxes.

They say that in 1954 in his budget speech, Premier W. A. C. Bennett abolished hospital insurance premiums and increased the then 3 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent.

He made it clear that the additional tax, two-fifths of the tax total, would be for hospital purposes. These municipal spokesmen say Mr. Bennett anticipated this would be inadequate and said he would spend half the tax revenue if necessary, for hospitals.

'No Question'

The premier, in announcing the increase of the 3 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent, said, "An increase of 2 per cent in the rate is anticipated to yield $23.5 million. This amount, supplemented by $8,375,000 from current revenue sources and by $990,000 from municipalities, will cover the cost of the hospital insurance service, as well as the provincial share of hospital construction, amounting in all to $32,865,000 . . ."

"There is no question that the people of B.C. were led to believe that B.C. hospitals would be financed by this means," says one reeve.

This table is going the rounds of municipal halls:

Year	5% tax Yield	2%	BCHIS from B.C.
1959	$81.9 mil	$32 mil	$31.2 mil
1960	87.3	35	28.3
1961	84.9	34	31.1
1962	89.9	36	32.7
1963	96.9	39	32.4
1964	107.8	43	33.6
1965	125.2	50	36
		269	225.3

From these figures, taken from public accounts, it is apparent that the $225.3 million transferred to hospital use is $43.7 million less than the amount represented by two-fifths of the 5% sales tax.

The municipal protesters say they believe this makes up a major part of the $64 million over-all budget surplus attained by the Bennett budget last year.

They say if it went to hospitals there would be little need to come back to the property owner.

Federal Grants

At the same time, they point out, that BCHIS has been in receipt from the federal government of growing contributions.

In 1959	$12.7 million
1960	20.4
1961	22.5
1962	25.7
1963	30
1964	33.6
1965	36

They say these contributions have nearly trebled in the past seven years.

They say the sales tax revenues are obtained from people who buy goods—who can afford to buy goods—and who thus have an ability to pay. But property tax is charged equally against the property owner who has a small income as against those with large incomes.

People with investments in homes are hit—people with investments in stocks or bonds are not.

And they point out that Premier Bennett, in the same budget speech said:

Ability To Pay

"Any hospital insurance plan sponsored and operated by the government must fail or meet with acrimonious opposition if the benefits it provides are not universally and equitably distributed and if its cost to the people is not fairly distributed in accordance with the ability to pay of the individual."

Further . . . "The logical solution therefore is the abolition of premiums and the imposition of a tax levy with an incidence that reflects in the most equitable manner possible, the income currently available to the people."

The municipal people see this as a statement that sales tax should pay for hospital costs. And the province collects the sales tax.

Some of the municipal leaders say they want a municipal-provincial conference on this matter.

They agree that the hospital program here will suffer if they dig in and recommend a "no" vote.

One municipal spokesman says, "The government has put us in a position where we have to fight against the hospitals' best interest in order to pursue a principle.

"When we have a surplus we shouldn't have to have land taxes boosted."

He points out that area ratepayers already face a healthy boost for school costs with teachers requesting another raise—and in Saanich at least there is a 2 mill increase proposed for capital expenditures.

Boost Taxes

He said many residents in his area, living in modest homes on modest pensions can't afford the taxes now and many of them are forced to sell out and move into cheap downtown hotel rooms.

He says the provincial government hasn't had to increase taxes since 1954 and the federal government from time to time has cut taxes—but the municipalities have to boost taxes each year.

The municipal objectors also take issue with the contention by those who support the referendum that a two-mill tax rate boost will yield the needed $5.7 million before the district growth requires millions more. They say this levy would raise only $554,000 each year or $2½ million in five years, when new needs will be apparent.

The balance would have to come from borrowing with interest rates greatly increasing the amount needed.

They say too that a two-mill levy in the capital region means different amounts in different areas. They say it means about $5 a resident in Oak Bay but only $2.50 to $3 per resident in Saanich. Why should Oak Bay pay twice as much per head?

Gibbs, to be empowered to withdraw Rhodesian troops from their positions along the Zambian border, he told a national rally here.

"We expect Britain to act and act quickly," he said. "If the Queen's representative in Rhodesia (the governor) is going to be forced to make a dishonorable exit from Government House in Salisbury, chased out by a rebel government, it will go down in history that the British people failed all of mankind."

Kaunda then launched an attack on Rhodesia's Negro nationalist leaders based in Zambia with the most violent public criticism he has ever made against anyone—including the former colonial government in this erstwhile colony of Northern Rhodesia.

"They are not nationalists, they are stupid idiots," he declared.

Kaunda said it is stupid for exiled Rhodesian nationalists, the representatives of Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples' Union and Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole's Zimbabwe African National Union to shout from the comfort of Zambia: "We are going to kill all the whites in Rhodesia."

"Not all the whites are guilty," Kauda said.

HOME GARDEN

Watching Clock Helpful

By HILDA BEASTALL

The hobby greenhouses glimpsed in Victoria gardens need thoughtful treatment at this season, if they are to be successful.

Hilda

As custodians of living plants, the first essential is air. Ventilation is the word where greenhouses are concerned.

So far this season, artificial heat has not been required for the general run of hardy or near-hardy plants.

The shelter provided by the glass structure has been sufficient if close attention has been given to daily routines. Colder weather will require a different routine adapted to the conditions.

OPEN VENTILATOR

First thing in the morning, a ventilator should be opened, much or little, according to the wind and outside temperature.

As the temperature rises outdoors, more ventilation can be allowed. On sunny days with outside temperature between 45 and 50 deg. F., the greenhouse door may be left wide open without ill effects.

One needs to be a clock-watcher, or have a time instinct as some gardeners are blessed with, in order to begin closing the vents around three-thirty while the sun is still shining on the glass.

By four o'clock all vents and the door should be closed. This scheme prolongs the period of warmth around the plants by as much as two hours.

ACCURATE GUESS

A tested thermometer, preferably a maximum-minimum indicating type, is useful for the owner of a greenhouse during the first few years, but after several years' experience one can give a guess accurately before checking the instrument.

Watering before artificial heat is started has to be kept to a minimum, and given only to those plants in need of it.

Avoid Spilling water on benches and floor, since a surplus will lower the night temperature and raise the humidity—an undesirable condition at this time of year.

To be safe, do the small amount of necessary watering early in the day on the rising temperature.

If heat is used later, the routine has to be altered.

Fishermen Voting

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's herring fishermen held meetings along the coast this weekend to vote on a wage offer by the Fisheries Association of B.C. The negotiating committee of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union is recommending that the striking fishermen reject the offer of a $1.52-per-ton increase in the price paid for herring.

chemicals plant where 20 men refused to enter the building.

A Pacific Petroleums bulk plant in Dawson Creek and Pacific 66 service stations in Fort St. John also were picketed.

The extended strike was called after oil companies did not reply to an amended bargaining position submitted by the union.

The oil workers asked for an extra 50 cents an hour in a two-year contract, instead of 40 cents in one year. In the important job security field, they sought six months notification of new processes instead of 18 months.

A second reason is that, under the Labor Relations Act, a union that doesn't strike within three months of a strike vote loses the right to strike.

At the same time, officials of the province's major trade unions were meeting in Vancouver.

E. P. O'Neal, secretary of the 110,000-member B.C. Federation of Labour, said the talks were called "to state the seriousness of the situation and to map strategy to ensure 100 per cent support for the oil workers in their fight for job security."

Major unions have pledged support for the oil workers by agreeing that petroleum products from strike-bound companies will be considered "hot."

Widespread labor support for the oil workers could shut down massive sections of the B.C. economy, amounting, in effect, to a general strike.

This morning, Premier Bennett sent telegrams to the International Woodworkers of America and the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, which together represent 42,000 forest industry workers.

The unions, in a telegram to the premier, warned that complete disruption throughout the forest industry would result from a province-wide oil strike.

The premier said in reply: "You are requested to advise the membership of your unions to act in a lawful and responsible manner and help avoid a shutdown of this essential industry."

Locally, motorists needn't worry immediately about getting gasoline for their cars.

Service stations normally carry a week's reserve and tankers have been filling up company storage depots around the Inner Harbor for the last few days.

150 Cong Killed In Savage Battle

SAIGON (AP)—B-52 bombers pounded rear positions of a North Vietnamese regiment today as two U.S. infantry battalions continued to slug it out with them in heavy fighting near the Cambodian border.

The two U.S. battalions held their own through 36 hours of at times savage fighting. At least 129 enemy bodies were counted and as many as 150 were believed to litter the battlefield in front of U.S. lines.

U.S. casualties were termed "moderate," but it required more than a dozen helicopters to take out the American wounded. Most of the dead were still in the battle zone. It was too dangerous for helicopters to fly except on urgent missions.

In earlier air action, North Vietnamese gunners shot down an American A-1E Skyraider. A U.S. military spokesman reported the pilot was killed when the plane exploded near the battleground 200 miles north of Saigon in the central highlands.

Three North Vietnamese battalions—about 2,000 men—were engaging the American troops and it was possible that others were waiting farther back.

The fighting broke out Sunday afternoon.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Clear skies overnight in the northern interior of B.C. produced fairly low temperatures in that area early this morning. Prince George was coldest with a reading of 8 above followed by Smithers with 13 above. Clearing was expected in south coastal areas this afternoon as the storm centre off the northern coast of California continues to weaken. A disturbance crossing the Gulf of Alaska however was to spread cloud over the north coast by noon today with rain beginning there this evening. Cloudiness from this system will reach the south coast Tuesday morning. Chilly Arctic air will continue to affect most interior sections of the province.

ONTARIO TAKES BLAME FOR GIANT BLACKOUT

TORONTO (UPI) — The initial cause of the massive blackout which covered some 80,000 square miles in northeastern United States and Ontario was in the backup relay system in the Sir Adam Beck No. 2 distribution centre at Queenston, Ont., Ontario Hydro officials disclosed today.

W. Ross Strike, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Authority, said the backup relay system on one of six lines distributing power to Ontario tripped suddenly Tuesday evening.

He said this caused a massive charge of electricity to surge into the United States electrical system, tripping relays throughout northeastern United States. Strike said the charge which was flowing over the malfunctioning line short-circuited electricity in the other five lines and turned it back to the eastern grid system.

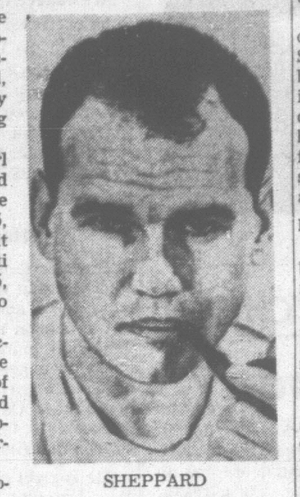
High Court Agrees To Review Conviction



SHEPPARD
. . . free on bond

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court agreed today to review the 1954 conviction of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, Cleveland osteopath found guilty at a sensational trial of having bludgeoned his wife to death.

Federal District Judge Carl Weinman of Dayton ordered Sheppard's release from the Ohio Penitentiary on July 15, 1964. But the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati overruled Weinman on May 5, 1965, and ordered him back to jail.

Meantime, the 41-year-old doctor has been free on bond. He lives in the Cleveland suburb of Rocky River with his second wife, the former Arianne Tebbenjohanns, with whom he corresponded while in jail.

Numerous efforts to free Sheppard have been made since his sentence began. Today's appeal focused largely on coverage of the bizarre case by the newspapers.

The doctor always has denied he committed the crime. He told police it was perpetrated by a "bushy-haired intruder," with whom he grappled in his home after he heard his wife cry out in the night.

A jury convicted Sheppard of second-degree murder. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Missing Moroccan Allegedly Kidnapped

PARIS (UPI) — The chief of the Paris narcotics squad and his assistant were in jail here today, charged with having kidnapped Moroccan opposition leader Mehdi Ben Barka "to do a favor" to one of their informers.

Chief Louis Souchon, 49, and detective Roger Voitot, 37, allegedly admitted after two days of questioning they were the men who showed police cards to Ben Barka on a crowded Paris street Oct. 29 and drove him away—allegedly in their official squad car.

Police sources said the two officers claimed they were doing a favor for Antoine Lopez, an airline official already charged with complicity in the kidnap, in return for valuable drug smuggling tips he picked up in his work at Paris Orly airport.

Ben Barka's whereabouts are unknown.

Meanwhile, reports from Morocco said Interior Minister Gen. Mohamed Oufkir has denied being involved in any way in the kidnap. The French press openly has charged him with instigating it for political reasons.

Judge Andre Zollinger, in charge of investigations, issued a request to Moroccan authorities to take evidence from Oufkir and his secret police chief on the affair. Oufkir reportedly said he would refuse to make any such statements.

S. AFRICA SUPPRESSES PEACE STORY

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — "Finding Out," a British-published children's magazine, containing an article on Nobel Peace Prize winner Albert Luthili, has been banned by the South African government.

Ex-Chief Luthuli, a Zulu, is confined to his Natal Province farm as a banned person under the suppression of Communism laws.

The offending article is titled "The Chief Who Loves Peace" and is described by magazine sales representative F. A. Low as completely factual.

WON'T COMMIT MILITARY AID

Verwoerd 'Plays Cool' In Rhodesian Crisis

VERWOERD
. . . forces strong

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—A large crowd of white South Africans joined lustily at the weekend in singing "we are marching to Rhodesia."

They were government party supporters whose impromptu songs filled the hall while they waited for Premier Hendrik Verwoerd to make his first public speech since his Rhodesian neighbor, Ian Smith, seized independence from Britain.

But Verwoerd gave them no indication they would soon be marching, at least in the military sense, to the assistance of their white kinsfolk in Rhodesia.

Deep in their hearts, the bulk of white South Africans applaud Smith's seizure of independence, but meantime Verwoerd is playing it cool. Nothing he has said or done points to his permitting his country's powerful military forces to be used in a power struggle that might develop around Rhodesia.

FORCES READY

These forces are reputed to be the best-trained and equipped in Africa.

They have modern weapons, a powerful air force (its exact size is secret) equipped with jet fighters, bombers and long-range reconnaissance aircraft.

Their small navy is considered militarily adequate for effective coastal patrol. Behind the troops stands the continent's largest armed police force ready to take complete command of the home front if required.

Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster recently surveyed South Africa's military preparations, matched it against what black Africa might be able to muster and concluded, "We could finish these people off before breakfast" if it came to a showdown.

Defence Minister Jim Fouche is to open Monday what officials have called a new "deterrent to South Africa's potential enemies" from the north.

It is an early-warning radar system 100 miles southeast of the country's administrative capital, Pretoria, and effective over an area of 60,000 square miles. The system's major aim is to search for, locate and identify approaching aircraft and to intercept and destroy enemy planes.

INCLUDES FEW BLACKS

Unlike most African states South Africa's security forces are almost entirely white. Only a handful of non-whites are used in non-combatant duties.

While he is clearly, at least meantime, not considering military support for Rhodesia, Verwoerd has emphasized he envisages continued economic and friendly relations with Rhodesia.

He has publicly defined his policy as: He won't be dragged into a domestic struggle in Rhodesia between that country and Britain, he will not participate in any kind of boycott against Rhodesia and he will continue to be friendly with whatever government is chosen by the Rhodesian people.

"For us Rhodesia is our immediate neighbor with whom we have lived in good co-operation and great friendship for many years. We are bound by bonds of contiguity and blood."

Automation Action High On NDP List

VANCOUVER (CP) — NDP leader T. C. Douglas Sunday demanded legislative action by the Liberal government on the problems of automation.

He described automation's effects as "the greatest problem of our time."

"We will use whatever political influence we have, what leverage we have, to put good legislation on the statute books," he told a meeting of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC).

"There is one issue that is of paramount importance — that issue is automation."

The benefits of automation don't "just belong to the boss, to the shareholders, to the coupon clippers.

"The benefits belong to all the people. It is you and I who educated the scientists and workers who invented and made these new machines, educated them through our tax dollars.

"Human society made possible automation. The benefits must also go to society."

He called for legislation providing that profits accruing from automation be plowed back into retraining those replaced by it.

Mr. Douglas said the NDP would not enter a coalition with the Liberals or Conservatives. His party holds 21 seats in the 265-seat House of Commons. The Liberals have 131, the Conservatives 97.

TSHOMBE
. . . making comeback

New Congo PM Toppled

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Moise Tshombe's chances of ousting Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu next year were on the rise today after Parliament overthrew the premier Kasavubu named to replace Tshombe.

The month-old government of Premier Evariste Kimba was declared dismissed Sunday after Tshombe's forces defeated a confidence motion during a joint session of the Senate and the chamber of deputies. The vote was 121 for Kimba, 134 against and seven abstentions.

Kasavubu kicked out Tshombe Oct. 13 after 15 months as premier and replaced him five days later with Kimba.

Castro Blames U.S. For Havana Raid

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has blamed the United States for a hit-and-run attack by two boats on a residential section of the Havana waterfront. One woman was reported slightly injured.

Meanwhile the U.S. government began a sealift of refugees from Matanzas, Cuba. The chartered excursion boat Skipper K took 108 Cubans to Key West, Fla., Saturday night and another 94 Sunday.

The state department had no comment on Castro's charge of U.S. responsibility for the strafing attack early Sunday. But Cuban exile sources in Miami said it was the work of RECE—the Cuban representation in exile—and that the two boats returned safely to their base "somewhere in the Caribbean."

Castro, in a televised speech, said gunfire from one of the boats was intended to hit the waterfront residence of President Osvaldo Dorticos but hit the nearby national aquarium instead.

Public Invited To University Psychology Panel

The psychology department heads from B.C.'s three public universities will meet at the University of Victoria Tuesday to discuss graduate studies in psychology.

The meeting will take the form of a panel discussion which the public is invited to attend in Room 210 of the Young Building on the Lansdowne campus.

Dr. William Gaddes of the University of Victoria, Dr. Douglas Kenny of the University of B.C. and Dr. Lorne Kendall of Simon Fraser University are meeting in an attempt to formulate graduate psychology programs in the province which will complement each other.

The discussions will begin at 3:30 p.m.

'A Deep Sense of Tragedy'

THERE IS NO DOUBT OF THE wide international support which Britain will receive in its dealings with the rebel regime in Rhodesia. The chief disagreement seems to be in the degree of action to be taken against Mr. Ian Smith and his colleagues.

Many African states have urged military action through Article 42 of the United Nations Charter, but Prime Minister Wilson has made it plain that, unless British troops are called in to "avert tragic actions, subversion or murder", there will be no use of force.

The economic and other measures to be taken, however, raise some questions as to their efficacy. One African critic says it will take two years for such sanctions to become fully effective. And embargoes on tobacco and sugar imports from Rhodesia can have a significant effect only on next year's crops. A full ostracism of the country, including restrictions on oil supplies, postal services, and other normal communications and contacts, would have the strongest and most immediate effect, but this has not been proposed by Mr. Wilson. The retaliation he has recommended may for the time being carry little more than token importance.

Mr. Wilson, in effect, seems to be steering a course that will satisfy the Negro leaders in Rhodesia to the extent of refraining from violence, while still not alienating the white population beyond any hope of peaceful settlement of the problem. In trying to work with two totally diverse elements he may satisfy neither, but it is difficult to see what other course is open to the British government. Having abandoned any thought of military intervention to enforce the government's will, Mr. Wilson's only hope can be for an eventually negotiated settlement.

How will the Rhodesian rebels —backed by most of the 225,000 white population—be brought back to the conference table, particularly with South Africa almost certain to provide aid across their common border? The British moves which will deny Rhodesia access to London's money markets, remove it from the preferential Commonwealth trade list, and impose other financial and economic penalties, may in time be persuasive. But any attempt to starve out the rebels can only result first in hardship to the 3,800,000 Negroes whose fortunes are at stake.

There remain two strong potential factors: world opinion and Negro revolt. The first could have some effect, and already there are reports of dissent by Rhodesian civil servants and other white residents with strong ties to Britain. The latter also could have effect, and it is the danger of mass violence which looms largest in Mr. Wilson's vision. Domestic violence on a large scale would inevitably invite support from neighboring Negro countries, with all that warfare would entail in human suffering.

Mr. Wilson's address to the Commons last week stressed continually the tragedy of the Rhodesian action and the desire to prevent its expansion. It also stressed, without being explicit, the underlying problem of Rhodesia: the determination of the white residents to maintain permanently their supremacy in running the country, and the urge of the Negroes—outnumbering them by 16 to 1—to find expression and political freedom on a "one man one vote" basis.

Obviously the Negroes could not successfully take over the government of the country immediately, but it is the British government's intent to ensure that Rhodesian independence is fashioned so as to work toward the eventual enfranchisement of the Negroes and rule by the majority.

This result must be inevitable, since it is taking place in every other part of the globe. But whether the future transfer of authority is orderly and successful, as it has been in some carefully prepared cases, or tragic and chaotic, as it was in the Belgian Congo, may depend on developments during the next few weeks.

Less Enthusiasm for Loans

THE INCREASING COOLNESS toward foreign aid projects which was commented on by Mr. George D. Woods, president of the World Bank, in his annual report in September, has resulted in that organization's decision to drop plans for action on a project vital to a large number of under-developed countries.

The project, which has been under study by the World Bank for more than a year, was to provide poor countries with fast, easy-term loans when rapid drops in their export earnings jeopardized development schemes. With most poor countries largely dependent on exports of raw materials to finance development, sharp fluctuations in market prices have a devastating effect.

According to sources in Paris, where World Bank officials have been considering the loan plan, it has been decided that instead of presenting it as a plan for action now it will be published as a staff study to be implemented when the climate is more favorable.

The reason for this decision is not hard to find. Right now the organization's affiliate, the International Development Association, is finding it difficult to raise funds in the wealthier nations to lend to soft-currency countries, despite the fact that the IDA will be completely out of money by the middle of next year.

The United States and Great Britain, the only two countries which donate large amounts of multi-lateral funds, are both suffering balance-of-payments problems and are not in the mood right now to increase their contributions. Most of the other wealthy countries prefer unilateral foreign aid programs tied to purchases in their own countries.

Potential supporters of the World Bank's latest loan plan may be quite logical, from their own points of view, in being cool at this time. The logic is not likely to be nearly as apparent to the under-developed countries whose raw materials are no longer in demand and who, as a consequence, see their hopes of a more affluent way of life thwarted.

A Question of Prestige

WELL IN ADVANCE OF WEST German Chancellor Erhard's visit to Washington next month, his spokesmen in Washington have let it be known that only direct sharing in a nuclear weapons system will satisfy the urge of the German people to be restored to first-class world status.

Twice last week, Mr. Erhard's emissaries told United States government officials that a consultative role in Western nuclear policy was not enough. They said that Washington must adhere to some variation of the multi-lateral force plan which would give West Germany a physical share in the alliance's nuclear forces. They also wanted an extension to the Bonn government of the "two key" system of nuclear control by which the United States must turn one key in a lock and an allied country another before nuclear weapons could be fired.

Insistence on this line will present grave difficulties. Most members of the alliance do not favor an expanded role for West Germany in nuclear weapons control. There is also the certainty that allowing the Germans a degree of physical control over the weapons, rather than a voice in policy, would almost certainly destroy hopes of a Western-Soviet detente at this time.

As Mr. Walter Lippmann pointed out on this page last week, there is no need for West Germany to have this sort of control of nuclear weapons in terms of the country's defence. The reason for wanting it is almost entirely a matter of prestige. But that does not diminish the importance of the question in German eyes.

Life of Laurier: A Guide for Us Today

Hutchison

WILFRED LAURIER has been dead almost 47 years. After so long a time the puzzled voters of 1965, in their election hangover, may wonder what this man has to do with their contemporary business. The question has been answered by what I take to be the finest biography ever written in Canada and, at this particular moment, one of the most important. As a literary work Mr. Joseph Schull's book "Laurier" (Macmillan of Canada) must be left to the whimsical mercies of the expert reviewers but as a study of our affairs today it is public property. And this extraordinary tour de force suddenly illuminates, in one lightning flash, the present crisis of our nation (as we are pleased to call it.)

Before we can understand Quebec in our time we must understand Laurier who, through his own life, compressed, articulated, and forecast a long way ahead, the experience of his race. The resulting triumph and tragedy which killed him belongs to the ages. The lesson belongs to us and as we learn or fail to learn it the nation will flourish or decay.

Clumsy Entrance

In one sense the young Laurier entered unobtrusively, clumsily and rather pathetically the life of a nation very different from ours—hardly a nation at all, only the makings, and they were dubious. In another sense the days of his youth were exactly like ours. That is what makes his career a case history of the process now disrupting our politics and, much more important, threatening our prospects as a people.

With the agonizing birth of Confederation four quite separate and hostile communities began to adjust themselves to an entirely new situation, legal, economic, racial and psychological. Overnight they were asked to call themselves, and to be, Canadian.

At first it was too much for Laurier. As a green politician from the backwoods he opposed Confederation, thinking it could never work. What was it but a clever plot by that artful old dodger, Sir John A., to catch the French Canadians in a constitutional trap where outright coercion had failed?

Small-Town Lawyer

Later, when Macdonald undertook to build the CPR, Laurier opposed it also as a final act of madness. He was still a small-town lawyer with no briefs, no money, no reputation and many prejudices.

But the painful readjustment was being made in the infant state and in the man who would ultimately dominate it. Once in Parliament he grew with the nation until its English-speaking majority not only accepted but worshipped him.

Without his assistance, for he was too young then to count for much, the first crisis passed under the management of a different kind of genius. Macdonald finished his work, already half suspecting that Laurier was his unlikely heir.

To be sure, no human problem is ever solved without leaving two or more new ones in its place but Canada had become a viable organism when Laurier took office in 1896. The current problems stemming out of the first solution alarm us today. Like our grandfathers we must adjust ourselves to a new situation which is really the re-emergence of the old. It will be wrenching but the life of Laurier should enable us to keep it in proportion.

Surely it is far easier to manage a modern economic apparatus well able to produce all we need than to create an apparatus in the first place out of nothing. That was Macdonald's task and Laurier's, and they succeeded.

It should be easier to come to terms with a French Canada which has discovered its own purposes and entered the twentieth century than it was to deal with a Quebec which, in Laurier's youth, had withdrawn into almost total isolation and the snarling impotence of despair.

No Longer Ignorant

In English-speaking Canada we negotiate no longer with an enclave of ignorant, bitter habitants but with an industrial urban and rapidly changing society, much like our own and directed by men at least as able as our leaders, perhaps abler. But, alas, we have no Laurier to bridge the gulf.

Mr. Diefenbaker was doomed to failure from the start because he could not find, and apparently did not try to find, a Quebec lieutenant as Macdonald found Cartier.

Mr. Pearson's basic dilemma was the same and he has not overcome it even yet. Quebec did not vote for the Pearson government on November 8. It voted against Mr. Diefenbaker, not to give Mr. Pearson its full confidence but to give him another chance. As a result, he has the authority (whether he has the capacity or not) to resume, in modern terms, the joint work of Macdonald and Laurier. It will be fascinating, if a little terrifying, to see how he does it.

The politics of the day excite us, but only for the day. Beneath these superficial events the deep currents move on, and Laurier foresaw them better than any other Canadian, of either race, as Mr. Schull's book fully demonstrates.

River Comparison

In one of those speeches that make our recent election campaign sound like the shouts of small boys quarreling in a back alley, Laurier pointed to the confluence of the Ottawa River and its parent, the St. Lawrence. The two streams did not mix and amalgamate, he said, but flowed eastward in distinct parallel and separate colors, clearly visible to the eye. Nevertheless, they had become one river, its flow sure and irresistible.

Such was his concept of the two-sided nation. The question facing us now is whether Laurier's heirs in Quebec can catch the grandeur of his dream, and whether the rest of Canada will wait long and patiently enough for them to catch it. In their gropings toward the reconciliation which Laurier achieved for a time and his successors lost it will help both sides to read Mr. Schull's book. It should encourage them, too, by showing with naked human evidence the great, untapped and complementary qualities of two races that must live together or, in parting, end the dream.

Voices Of Quebec

Montreal La Presse

We should always have known it, but unhappily we tend to forget it: On this planet, water is the source of all life. It is necessary to visit certain foreign countries to find out that in this field Canada is one of the best supplied and most privileged in the world. And what about Quebec, whose enormous territory bathes in almost 1,000,000 lakes?

For the first time in this federal election campaign—and perhaps for the first time in our political history—we are making an issue of possible talks with the United States about this precious natural resource which we have in such abundance. Our neighbors, who are starting to run short, are thinking about getting some from us.

We believe the greatest care will have to be exercised when the time comes for talks with the United States on this subject. We must consider this resource in the same way as we consider our wheat, our forests, our gas and our mines in general. And especially, we must not repeat certain errors of the past which were really too costly.

Ottawa Le Droit

Premier Robarts of Ontario agrees to duality within unity. He says he favors bilingualism and biculturalism. . . He is of the opinion that French and English-Canadians must be equal partners to make up a great nation. On the other hand, as a partisan of autonomy, he believes it is Ontario's business and not Quebec's to take care of the fate of Franco-Ontarians.

He is right all the way down the line. . . . But that is a legal opinion. The heart always has sentiments the mind does not understand. Without doubt, he has given proof of goodwill. The new finance plan for separate schools at the primary levels is a great improvement. He did not object to certain bilingual signs. He allowed the teaching of certain subjects in French at the secondary school level, thus opening the door. In reality, in most cases this is nothing but "tolerance." There is a long way to go before bilingualism will be recognized, from educational and legal points of view as well as others. . .

Granby La Voix de l'Est

Although the public usually considers the Canadian National Railways as a state-run enterprise, that's not the opinion of its president, Mr. Donald Gordon. It is, he says, a commercial enterprise which is administered in the same way as all other commercial enterprises in North America. It has to solve the same problems and overcome the same difficulties as any other. One of the encouraging prospects for the future, Mr. Gordon says, is the prospect of less, rather than more government control and of greater freedom of competition within the field of transport.

If its situation is analyzed today, taking into account only its revenues and expenses, one comes to the conclusion that the CNR is not unprofitable. The CNR is really on the road to progress, thanks to energetic and efficient policy.

The Hope: Sanctions Instead of Violence

FRYE

UNITED Nations diplomats believe the ultimate result of Rhodesia's declaration of independence will indeed be self-rule—but under a Black African, not a white-supremacy, government in Salisbury. Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith has flung down a challenge which most, if not all, of Africa is prepared to join Britain in accepting. Africans see this challenge as precipitating in dead earnest a struggle between blacks and whites for control of the southern third of the African continent, the so-called "white redoubt" which alone has resisted the wave of African nationalism.

Different Views

Whereas previously Britain was working for a compromise involving a gradual and controlled transition, at least in Rhodesia, from black to white rule, much of the U.N. now sees it as a winner-take-all struggle. Other portions of the "redoubt" are involved in a parallel fight.

Guerrilla war is under way on a small scale in the two halves of Portuguese Africa: Angola and Mozambique. Buttressed by diplomatic pressure currently being applied in the U.N. Security Council, the guerrillas seek to drive "colonial Portugal" from its portion of Africa.

Diplomatic pressure has wrung from Britain a promise of early independence for its three remaining enclaves, Basutoland, Bechuanaland and Swaziland.

Legal action in the World Court brought by Liberia and Ethiopia in 1960 is seeking to pry South-West Africa from South Africa's white supremacy grip.

Await Court Ruling

A decision in the five-year-old case is due in a few months, and if favorable to Black Africa is sure to be followed by a major diplomatic showdown. And an assault on the core of the redoubt, Premier H. F. Verwoerd's South Africa, awaits just over the diplomatic horizon.

The struggle for Rhodesia is seen in the U.N. as a fuse with which the whole keg of dynamite may be set off.

It is specifically a test of the efficacy of economic sanctions, the weapon Africans hope to use against Verwoerd and Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar as well as Smith.

The battle for Rhodesia also is likely to indicate how much substance there is behind rumors and threats of guerrilla warfare by native terrorists trained in Algeria, Tanzania and behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains.

Such terrorists have often been said to be awaiting the right moment to strike in Rhodesia and South Africa, as they have been trying to do—without much success—in Portuguese Africa.

One of the elements of the Rhodesian crisis which most frightens sober U.N. diplomats is that Rhodesia can be viewed, and is viewed by many, as a challenge to "crank up" just such guerrilla war in its ugliest form, that of race war.

Alternative to Bloodshed

Co-operation by Britain and the United States, among many others, in applying economic sanctions is being impelled in part by a desire to offer African extremists a practical alternative to bloodshed on a frightening scale.

If Africans see economic pressure beginning to get results on Smith, they may be under less temptation to begin tossing Molotov cocktails, rioting and knifing, it is hoped.

Another major worry here is that the Soviet Union and Red China may climb aboard the African bandwagon and, exploiting the emotions stirred by Smith, provide money and weapons for guerrilla fighting on a bigger scale than hitherto—thus gaining an ideological foothold in central Africa.

Economic sanctions are seen as an alternative to this outcome, as well.

Few U.N. people accept the facile description of Smith's action Thursday as "another 1776." The American Declaration of Independence, they point out, sprang from a conviction that "all men are created equal" and that "government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed."

Rhodesia, it is noted, has grabbed for independence in an effort to establish precisely the opposite propositions—that men are created unequal and must be kept so; and that rule by a small white minority, outnumbered 17-1, must be perpetuated regardless of the consent of the black majority.

Reversing 1776, Britain is attempting in Rhodesia to insist upon progress toward rule by consent of the governed, it is pointed out.

UN Diplomacy

U.N. diplomacy in forthcoming weeks, beginning with immediate crisis meetings of the Security Council, will be directed primarily toward pressure on Britain to maintain its firm stand and secondarily toward reinforcing the British crackdown on Smith.

Diplomats here believe U.N. debate and action can help close loopholes which might otherwise open up in sanctions on Rhodesia—dissuading France, West Germany and others from breaking the boycott and threatening Portugal and South Africa with retribution if they do so.

Looking Back

From The Times of Nov. 15, 1905:

H. E. Sims, the well-known Port Townsend boarding-house man, is to open a home for unemployed sailors in the building adjoining the Globe Hotel in Esquimalt.

Mr. Sims said it was to be a first-class house, orderly and without a bar.

It is believed the introduction of such a house in the area will bring many of the big fleet of sailing ships that find harbor on the Pacific coast to Esquimalt for needed crew members.

Drunken Driving

It was very gratifying to read in recent newspapers that Magistrate Cyril White of Vancouver intends to impose maximum sentences on impaired drivers. Namely, three months in jail, $500 fine and licence suspension for three years, irrespective of whether or not the driver earns his livelihood with his car. He has been warned.

In Norway if a man is had up for drunken driving that is the end, His licence is suspended for life.

No doubt if magistrates all over the province would follow the example of Magistrate White, accidents from impaired driving could be reduced. Consequently there would be more available beds in hospitals because fewer would be occupied by innocent victims of drunken driving.—Doris Ashdown, Vancouver, B.C.

Call for a Majority Was Too Mundane

By DOUGLAS FISHER
Former NDP MP for Port Arthur

What went wrong? Who is to blame? As one of Mr. Pearson's most loyal reporters put it, the calling of the election was a most egregious miscalculation. The decision was the prime minister's.

Fisher

If we go back to the stories at the time of the call almost all the cabinet wanted it.

No one canvassed the individual Liberal MPs when the election was called and everyone puts a brave face on once the call is made. But it is my impression that more than three-quarters of these MPs welcomed the election and thought the party would easily roll to a majority.

We all know that the party organizers in Ottawa, including the rainmaker, Keith Davey, wanted the election very much this year. Further, they were supremely confident right up until the results came pouring in.

Probably the best way to approach the question of what went wrong is to begin with the reasons why the Liberals felt this was the time.

Over-riding all other reasons was the contempt and low regard they held for John Diefenbaker. They looked on him as a fumbling anachronism, the greatest asset to their party, and a thoroughly discredited man after the flag debate and the departure of Leon Balcer.

The other side of this discounting of John Diefenbaker was an immense, growing confidence in their own leader and in their own performance as a government. Liberal Ottawa is a curiously inward-turning place where the ministers, their covey of assistants, the senior civil servants, and the respectfulness of most of the press, all tend to buttress the self-regard of those who are "in."

The third reason for the call was the assumption that "Liberal times are better times" was unbeatable as an argument. All forgotten was the fact that the end of their era in 1957 was precipitated by high-handedness in Parliament rather than by an economic issue.

It may have seemed somewhat cynical or even over-simple as a reason but one can hardly fault the Liberals for believing they could make much of the good times.

* * *

The fourth reason for the call was a convoluted argument that the parliamentary system and the place of the cabinet in it was wrung out of place by the demands in time, compromise and concession within the House of Commons. To proud, confident ministers with a poor opinion of their cluster of rivals, especially as we have said of John Diefenbaker, but also of Real Caouette, Bob Thompson and Tommy Douglas, it was hard to take the slowness of the House and the kind of criticism which prevailed there.

The fifth reason for the call was very important to the prime minister and to most of his Quebec followers. Simply, this was to cover the marks of scandal and charges of scandal with the whitewash of an avalanche of Liberal votes.

When you scan these reasons for the election call which circulated in the consciousness of those in on the decision, it is apparent that the missing reason, the vital reason, is one we have alluded to before.

Majority for what? Or, as a cartoonist put it: "Don't ask — vote."

They had nothing which they had a terrific desire to do as a government. Their purpose was too mundane, too set on efficient government their way.

This brings me to the man and the men who take much of the blame within the party. That unlikely combination of Walter Gordon and Keith Davey. Davey is the fast-talking political operator par excellence. To his credit, he is out in the open with his belief in the merits of manipulating with the big sell and the modern techniques.

Most of his critics miss the paradox within his personality of a moral puritanism which makes the self-righteousness of New Democrats seem pretty pale.

* * *

To my knowledge Davey has never had a political idea in his life in terms of some major policy goal he wants to achieve.

Like most modern manipulators he finds his goals personified in men—heroes. If you want.

And his two heroes are Walter Gordon and Mike Pearson.

Pearson because Davey knows that he is indefinably a "good guy" and a great man.

Walter Gordon because he does want to do certain things. Davey concludes Gordon must be altruistic and right in these goals because he gave up the elevation of a distinguished business career to achieve them.

Keith Davey knows that the Liberal party in terms of Mike Pearson and Walter Gordon is right. From that flows all the hocus-pocus and the breezy confidence that knows no turning back or quartering slowly into the storm. The perfect skipper is at the helm and the navigator is the wisest and most dedicated of all.

Basically, Davey and Gordon are very simple men and they take a very simple view of the land.

Their leader is just the reverse but it seems to me that he delights in the support, the adulation, and the advice of such persons.

Their urgings were persistent and direct and finally conclusive in the decision announced on Sept. 8.

Curb the Tearful Tyrants Who Weep Way Through Life

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The little girl who sat opposite me in the coffee shop was the kind of youngster you looked at more than once. She had fair curling hair, blue eyes and a pink and white complexion. Her mother had her dressed in cherry red.

Forbes

Vanilla ice cream had been ordered for the young miss but it was obvious it wasn't her choice. She wanted a chocolate sundae.

Her mother vetoed the idea. The little girl turned sulky and pushed the ice cream away. The mother spoke pleadingly. Tears welled up in the little girl's eyes, spilled over and ran down her cheeks. She began to sob.

Eyes were drawn in her direction. Even with face distorted and weepy, she was an attractive picture.

Someone muttered "give the little dear her sundae." Another voice was heard suggesting it was "a crime" to make such "a darling" cry in public.

The mother blushed a deep crimson, called the waitress and ordered the chocolate sundae.

Immediately the tears stopped flowing. The little girl was all smiles as she spooned the rich confection.

* * *

When they left the coffee counter, a woman sitting beside me said: "There goes the makings of a first-class tyrant."

She blew cigarette smoke vigorously down her nose and tamped the cigarette butt out on her plate.

"That child is exceptionally pretty. Consequently she is being spoiled, no doubt by everyone in her family. She already knows that she can get what she wants by dissolving into tears. What will she be like when she grows up?"

I was sure she didn't expect an answer to that question so I sat still and sipped my coffee while she lighted another cigarette.

"Tyrants like that go steadily on through life, weeping their way toward their own particular goals," she continued. "They are completely selfish and they absolutely disregard the feelings of others."

She leaned closer to add, "I wonder how many young men have failed to realize that a fiancee who dissolves into tears to gain concessions before marriage could turn into a tyrannical wife who uses those tears every time she wants her own way."

We both looked contemplatively toward the door where a cherry red coat was disappearing out into the street.

* * *

"I'd like to tell that mother to take a firm stand now," said the woman who sat beside me. "She should make it clear that tears are wasted on her. If she did, she might be surprised how quickly the child would respond.

"Tearful tyrants need to be taught early in their existence to accept life as a gift to be treasured and not as a plaything," she concluded as she finished her coffee and prepared to leave.

Up to this point I had done very little but nod my head in approval. Now I ventured to ask what made her so sure that children like the little girl in the cherry red ensemble could be weaned away from unnecessary tears.

Before answering she buttoned her coat high around her throat, pulled on her gloves and, for the first time she smiled.

"I know . . . because I was one of the little weepers."

Then she looked down at me and said quietly:

"I had a very wise mother. It didn't take me long to learn that my easily-shed tears were a waste of time."

Nuclear Desalination Practical

'Background to Britain'
(British Information Service)

Much is heard nowadays of the need to step up food production if the world's growing population is ever to be adequately fed. But equally important, if less publicized, is the need to provide enough fresh water.

This explains the increasing importance of producing fresh water from the sea.

Since the first successful commercial desalination plant —it was for marine use—was made in Glasgow in 1884, Britain has headed development in distillation. Three-quarters of the world's desalination plant is British made.

Post War Work

The modern method of multiple flash distillation, by which heated seawater is vaporized in chambers at successively lower pressures and the condensed steam collected as pure water, owes much to British research and invention in the years after the end of the Second World War.

By the end of the 1950s commercial plant based on the process was in operation. The largest yet installed has a capacity of nearly two million gallons of fresh water a day.

But the really new factor in the situation, as in so many others, is the advent of nuclear energy. Since it became possible to use the heat of fission to produce steam for electricity generation, it has also been feasible to employ some of the steam not to drive generators but to heat salt water for flash distillation.

Until early this year, nuclear stations have not been able to produce power more cheaply than conventional ones. Now it has been proved that the British Advanced Gas Cooled Reactor can do so and later generations of nuclear power stations are likely to bring the cost right down.

This puts another big improvement in desalination firmly on the cards. It should now be a relatively simple problem to design nuclear stations which would work in combination with multiple flash distillation equipment and produce both power and water. As Britain has more experience in nuclear power generation than any other country in the world, and the same is true of desalination plants, the combination looks a promising one.

Stepped Up

This year, the British Government has directed the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority to be responsible for the national desalination program. At the same time, this is being stepped up.

In collaboration with Weir-Westgarth, Ltd., the Authority has already completed a design study for a plant to produce 30 million gallons of fresh water a day, the plant being in units of 10 million gallons capacity. An Advanced Gas Cooled Reactor could very well be linked with this and, although the cost of the water from such a system would at first be higher than desirable, the study has shown that there is a great potential to work for.

Eastern Europe's Attitude Shifting

By JOHN RUTHERFORD

VIENNA — If Khrushchev preached revisionism, some latter-day thought in Moscow is getting close to another word which, normally, is equally anathema in the orthodox Marxist calendar—reformism.

Deference is still paid to "Lenin's teaching." But many Russians and their Eastern bloc friends are at last recognizing that not only much of Marx but a lot of Lenin too was written under conditions which bore no relation to the realities of the second half of the twentieth century.

At the same time, in all the bloc capitals, there is intensified emphasis on the necessity to "sharpen Communism's ideological weapons" against "reactionary" Western bourgeois influence. Strong forces are pushing this line in an effort to halt the trend towards more liberal and realistic thinking. The recent replacement of a critically-minded Pravda editor, Alexei M. Rumyantsev, by a man likely, on the face of it, to pursue a tougher line in culture and ideology was a possible reflection of this rearguard campaign.

Slow Shift

Between two tours of East bloc capitals this summer, I have noted a slow shift of attitude. On the first, Viet Nam was alone the obstacle to further rapprochement between East and West. "We want better relations with the West but America does not want to reciprocate," was the constant theme. That was that and further discussion was pointless. The goodwill was all on one side.

On the second tour, including some of the capitals visited earlier, a slightly different note was struck. Viet Nam was still a subject for passionate denunciation. But it had become stylized. Viet Cong missions were still being promised material aid—even "volunteers." If Hanoi asked for them, of course. And there was no mistaking the relief with which spokesmen quickly added: "But it hasn't asked yet."

They also, moreover, betrayed doubts of their ability to justify to their own people the sort of prolonged aid which the present outlook in Viet Nam suggested as inevitable. Not long ago it seemed the Russians felt themselves being forced into a situation where they had no alternative but react more strongly against the West.

Other Signs

The last two months suggest otherwise. There have been other signs beside these newly-evident misgivings about letting Viet Nam govern policy vis-a-vis the West and upset the chances of advantageous co-existence in Europe and almost everywhere except Southeast Asia. (There are signs that the American stake there is now better appreciated).

It is not only a question of the most recent, to-be-expected warmth with France. The frequent talks lately between Soviet and other leaders like Gomulka (Poland), Novotny (Czechoslovakia) and Ulbricht (East Germany) have been concerned not only with the bloc's pressing economic problems. The German question has loomed large and there is ample evidence of a mood to improve relations with Bonn.

Normalization

"We are willing to talk with West Germany provided she accepts the consequences of the war and of postwar developments," says Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet Union Communist Party Secretary. "We would welcome a normalization of relations with the Federal Republic."

Nothing would be more logical, with most of the East bloc states already doing big business, despite the lack of diplomatic relations, with giant West German concerns like Krupp. The Hallstein doctrine (barring West German diplomatic relations with governments which recognize the East German regime) is clearly on the way out.

China has forced something of a truce between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. in the United Nations. Despite sebacks in cultural contacts, the two top powers are still minded to talk seriously on questions of nuclear controls. They have just agreed to exchange scientists for joint research in peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Russ Responsive

Britain's foreign secretary, Mr. Michael Stewart, may not, on his coming Moscow visit, get quite the red carpet treatment given France's M. Couve de Murville. But the signs are that the Russians — like the East Europeans he has thus far visited—are responsive to British efforts to promote better relations with the East bloc.

Immediate major results are not to be expected. But the stars certainly look more propitious for an increase in the talking between East and West than at any time since the promising advance of two years ago.

Strong Pressures Work For a Unilingual Quebec

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Quebec Correspondent

MONTREAL—"Quebec soon unilingual?"

The question is the title of a paperback book published here last month. It is also the heart of a running debate that has been more interesting than the election campaign to many people in Quebec in the past few weeks.

McDowell

All sorts of viewpoints have been expressed but the strongest argument seems to be in favor of giving French priority in the province without abolishing the rights of the English-speaking.

The motive of those who take this view is not a desire to put the English-speaking of Quebec in the same boat as the French-speaking of the other provinces.

Rene Levesque, minister of family affairs and social welfare, says for example, that if people who ask for unilingualism want to take away the rights of the English-speaking, especially the English system of education, "then I am against it."

"Why? For reasons which stem from the fact that I want to be civilized,"he declared.

RENE LEVESQUE
. . . to be civilized

But Mr. Levesque also agrees with Pierre Laporte, minister of culture, who says that it is not the English language that is in danger in Quebec, it is the French language.

Mr. Laporte, "speaking for myself," and not for the provincial government, said recently there might soon be legislation to give French priority in the province.

Work Language

He did not go into detail. But he said that for French to thrive in Quebc it must become the language of work and of the economy, an area in which English is now dominant, even in a province in which more than 80 per cent of the population is French-speaking.

Quebec is now mainly urban. And most of the great urban enterprises in which an ever-increasing number of people earn their living are operated in English.

For many French-Canadians, getting a good job, or getting a promotion, means learning English. In effect this puts the French-Canadian in a position similar to that of a first-generation immigrant.

How it feels to be in this position can perhaps be gathered from the reaction of one young engineer who escaped it by going to work at the publicly-owned Hydro-Quebec, where French is the operating language.

A Discovery

"You have no idea what it is to discover that you can work in a great enterprise in French, to discover that you can speak, think and practise your profession in French."

Hydro-Quebec is the exception. The rule is that one must learn English to succed. And the effect of the rule is that there is every incentive for an ambitious French-Canadian to improve his English but precious little incentive to speak good French.

"I will insist that my children speak real French the day that they can earn their living with it," was the way one workman expressed a common attitude.

In the meantime the language is neglected and deteriorates.

In the long run there is hope that the state of French in Quebec will be improved by a system of education whose keystone is the language, rather than the faith as it has been in the past.

But in the meantime, a great many people feel, there must be some incentive to encourage the man in the street to speak French well, and this incentive must be the opportunity to speak French in the office, or the laboratory, or the factory.

Enthusiastic

So a great many organizations and associations gave an enthusiastic welcome to Mr. Laporte's suggestion that there might be legislation to give French this sort of priority.

There are some who think nothing short of unilingualism will do. The president of the Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies is one of these—although not all chapters agree with him. Some students' groups hold out for unilingualism. And so does Professor Raymond Barbeau, author of "Quebec Soon Unilingual?"

Two of his arguments are that French is a vastly superior language to English and that bilingual people are generally intellectually inferior.

The answer to Professor Barbeau's question seems pretty clearly to be that Quebec will not soon be unilingual.

As Premier Lesage asks, "How do you expect to make a cosmopolitan city like Montreal unilingual?"

And there appears to be wide agreement with Rene Levesque's view that depriving the English minority of their rights would not be "civilized."

But many also agree with Mr. Levesque that it is not civilized either for companies operating in a largely French-speaking province, with largely French-speaking personnel except perhaps at the top, to continue making English their working language.

A growing number of people in the province feel that this situation must change. And they look to the provincial government, as the one great organization in which the French-speaking have the strength of numbers, to see that it does change.

Russian Workers Wary of Reforms

MOSCOW—The Soviet government has moved to quash a popular impression that its new economic reforms empower managers to fire workers for the sake of efficiency and "profit."

The newspaper Izvestia attributed this fear to "several readers" of an early article which told how a hundred workers lost their jobs in a transport pool where a profit experiment was conducted.

In a two column reply, the paper declared that the reforms do not let managers cut or cudgel workers, that such practices occur in pursuit of capitalist profit but not in pursuit of socialist profit, and that trade unions and local Communist party groups would protect workers against them.

Giving the Word

Izvestia seemed to be giving a word to the wise managers who might be tempted to apply to energetically the "rights" formally given them in the new reforms. Its word was "whoa."

It quoted one worker as saying "What interests me is not money but the relations between people. In search of profit one man will not treat another man right."

NEW RESOLUTION PASSED

Servants Insist on Strike Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — The 33,000-member Civil Service Association of Canada intends to insist that federal employees have the right to strike under the system of collective bargaining proposed by a federal committee.

The association, in a statement today, said its national council, which met here last week, adopted a resolution unanimously "opposing any attempt to place a strike ban in the proposed collective bargaining legislation."

The report of the preparatory committee on collective bargaining in the public service, the Heeney committee) proposed that the Civil Service Act continue to skirt around the subject of strike, neither permitting nor prohibiting them. Legislation based on the report will be placed before the next session of Parliament.

In the preface to its resolution the council said both federal and provincial legislation "in no way prohibits" employees from withdrawing their labor or other forms of economic sanctions.

Any legislation banning strikes or lockouts was "not consistent" with Canadian practices and would be discriminatory. Such legislation would "not be fully enforceable" and would put employee representatives at a "considerable disadvantage."

The association also called for other amendments to the proposed system of bargaining in respect of appointment of members of the public service staff relations board and arbitration tribunals — both proposed new bodies — and the right of the government to set aside arbitration awards.

Winnipeg Lass Wins Miss Canada Title

TORONTO (CP) — Diane Landry of Winnipeg, a 20-year-old petite, brown-eyed brunette, was crowned Miss Canada for 1966 at the final of the Miss Canada Pageant here Sunday night.

Harriet Hedley, 20, of London, Ont., was first runner-up, followed by Judy Adrews, 21, St. John's Nfld., Nicole Lessard, 18, of Quebec City and Margaret MacInnis 20, Dartmouth, N.S.

Miss Landry was crowned by Linda Douma, this year's Miss Canada, a third-year arts student at the University of Victoria. She received her sash from Ellen Fairclough, chairman of the board of trustees of the Miss Canada Foundation.

Washing Machines, TV Sets Featured In Russian Plans

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet people were promised today more clothing and household goods in the shops next year.

There will be more textiles, more knitted goods and more household hardware like washing machines, television sets, refrigerators and radios, it was promised in a joint statement by the government and Communist party central committee.

It was published in Pravda, the party newspaper, and set out the draft plan and budget for 1966.

Boosted consumer goods production is a result of new methods of industrial management introduced last autumn which made profit the main criterion for running a business.

The party-government statement said the new plans were aimed at improving living standards and strengthening the country's defence potential.

The Russians also were promised more apartments, schools and hospitals and larger appropriations for educational and health services.

Farmers were told they would get more agricultural machinery. There will be more investment in the meat and milk industries.

Under the management system industrial managers were given a wide field for independent action.

The plan and budget will go before the Supreme Soviet for approval Dec. 7.

NEW RIDE FOR PYRAMID

Good Test Sparks Rise

Most mining stocks pushed ahead on big volumes today as the Vancouver Stock Exchange reacted busily to more assay results from the Pint Point area of the Northwest Territories.

Pyramid Mines, with its news of three "very satisfactory" tests, opened at $20 and settled back at noon to $17.50, up .25 from Friday's close. It traded 97,800 hrase to noon.

Volume after five hours of trading was 4,386,636 shares, despite delays of up to 80 minutes in release of stocks for trading while buy and sell orders were being matched.

Ace, which opened .30 higher at $2, slipped back to $1.65 on 233,000 shares.

Prosper gained .25 to a new high of $1.05 on 545,000 shares and Chataway was up .25 to $1.75 on 7,100 shares.

Blue Star slipped .01 to .26, Croydon gained .06 to a new high of $1.49 and Orecan was up .13 to a new high of $1.40. Rodstrom gained .17 to .75 and Dynasty was unchanged at $13.

Lornex was a loser, off .60 at $2.30 and New Cronin dropped .05 to .40.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Electronics Feature Wall Street Trading

Strength in electronics and aerospace issues featured heavy trading on Wall Street this afternoon. Toronto prices were generally stronger in moderate mid-afternoon trading.

AT NEW YORK—Volume for the day was estimated at 8,400,000 shares compared with 7,790,000 Friday.

Three-point gains by Boeing and United Aircraft were outstanding in the aerospace section.

Up about two points were Radio Corp., Raytheon, IBM and SCM Corp.

AT TORONTO in the main list, Supertest was up 1⅛ to 24⅛, Dofasco ½ to 28½, Distillers Seagram ⅝ to 38, Massey-Ferguson ⅜ to 33⅞ and Simpsons ¼ to 30¼.

Among primary metals, Noranda advanced ½ to 54½, Inco ¼ to 101¾ and Falconbridge was unchanged at 110.

Companies with interests in the Northwest Territories Pine Point area were active and moved higher. Pine Point was ahead 1½ to 80, Cominco ⅛ to 51⅜, CPR ½ to 71, Conwest 25 cents to 8.10, Newconex 10 cents to 8.10 and Central Patricia 4 cents to 1.94.

Place, in the western oils group, pushed up 2 cents to 2.08.

AT MONTREAL metals and speculative mines were off but most other sections were fractionally higher in moderately active trading towards 2 p.m. today.

Industrial volume was 117,200 and mines and oils 774,900.

Utilities were higher with CPR climbing one point to 71½ and Trans-Canada Pipeline ¼ to 34⅞.

Among the industrials Moore Corp. added ¼ to 81½ and Asbestos ⅛ to 25.

AT LONDON the stock market was subdued today, with Rhodesia acting as a restraining influence, while there was little to encourage buyers.

However, there were few sellers and small selective demand produced a sprinkling of useful gains.

Gilt-edged issues were extremely quiet with prices hardly tested. Speculative buying of Rhodesia stocks produced gains of between 1 and 4 points.

Dept. Store Takeover Bid 'Defeated'

LONDON (AP)—Lewis' Investment Trust, a $154,000,000 concern that owns Selfridge's of Oxford Street, the famous London department store, claims it has beaten off a take-over attempt.

But the bid, made by Charles Clore, British store and real estate millionaire, is being kept open.

Clore made the bid last month through his British Shoe Corp. Lewis' chairman, Sir Rex Cohen, immediately advised his shareholders to turn it down.

Clore—veteran of take-over bids whose acquisitions have made him Britain's biggest purveyor of shoes and brought him interests in knitting machines, office blocks, gold mines and nuclear-power stations—later issued a statement through BSC declaring:

"It (BSC) does not intend to withdraw its offers for Lewis' Investment Trust . . ."

L.I.T. has been run by Cohen's family for 109 years. Though Selfridge's in London is its plum, the company also owns a chain of provincial stores and is based in Liverpool.

Clore's bid offers them about 16 shillings ($2.40) a share—a bid which more or less equalled the stock market value of Lewis shares when it was made last month.

Since then, however, Lewis shares have slid on the market, dropping Friday to around 14 shillings ($2.10). Some £9,000,000 ($27,000,000) has been lopped off the company's value.

It now stands in the market at a value just over £46,000,000.

GIANT SHIP AWAITS TIDE

SYDNEY (UPI)—The largest ship ever built in Australia will be launched next month.

The 49,000-ton bulk ore carrier Darling River is under construction at the Broken Hill Proprietary company's Whyalla Shipyard.

Because the ship is so big and the launching harbor so small launching will depend on weather and tidal conditions.

The ship cost $14 million and will be launched between Dec. 8 and 14.

Canadians In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Twenty-seven Canadian businessmen arrived here Saturday night to attend the third Canada-Japan Businessmen's Conference, beginning in Tokyo Nov. 16. The group is headed by Maj.-Gen. R. H. Keefler, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Banks buying cheques at 7¼ premium, notes 7¼ premium and buying silver at 5⅛. Selling cheques at 8 premium, notes 8⅛ premium.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar up 1/16 at 92 61/64 in terms of U.S. fund. Pound sterling up 1/64 at $2.80 23/64.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a premium down 3/32 at $1.07 9/16 in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Pound sterling down ¼ at $3.01 9/16.

LAST MONTH DAVE HOLLAND OWNED TWO FACTORIES . . . AND ONE ULCER

Dave Holland's problem is shared by a great many senior businessmen. He didn't know how to retire. He was reluctant to make a complete break with his life's work; he was concerned for the future of his employees; he lacked the time and the specialized knowledge to find and appraise potential buyers. Hence the ulcer.

Corpex Services Limited solved the problem. We arranged financing for Dave's employees to buy the business, plus a part-time management contract for Dave to ease the shock of retirement for himself and his company.

If your business problem involves the sale or acquisition of a business, an amalgamation or merger, corporate financing, industrial or marketing studies, consult Corpex Services Limited for experienced and confidential advisory services on all facets of business.

YIELD UP TO 5.5 PER CENT

Canada Bonds on Sale

OTTAWA (CP) — Government of Canada bonds are being offered at prices and interest rates which will yield investors up to 5½ per cent, it was announced today.

Acting Finance Minister Sharp said the issues to be dated Dec. 1, which are to redeem 3½ per cent bonds maturing then, will be:

—One year and six months 4 per cent bonds, offered at 98.85 per cent, yielding about 5.15 per cent if held to maturity on Dec. 15, 1966.

—Three year and four months 5½ per cent bonds, offered at 100.25 per cent, to yield about 5.41 to maturity on April 1, 1969.

—Nine year and 10 months 5½ per cent bonds, offered at par to yield 5½ per cent to maturity on Oct. 1, 1975.

The government is offering $300,000,000 in the bonds, of which the Bank of Canada has agreed to take at least $100,000,000, open as to maturity.

The announcement said the books of the loan will close at 6 p.m. EST, Tuesday, Nov. 16.

Except for the 4 per cent issue, the new bonds are in addition to issues already outstanding at the same rates and maturity dates.

The new 5½ per cent bonds due April 1, 1969, are an addition to $180,000,000 dated April 1, 1930, and Oct. 1, 1952. The new 5½ per cent bonds due Oct. 1, 1975, are an addition to $310,000,000 worth of 5½ per cent bonds dated Oct. 1, 1959.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rapeseed swung broadly in light erratic trade and other commodities moved narrowly in moderate trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Export interest was quiet.

Rapeseed was ahead as much as 11 cents at the high in thin, irregular trade. The gain was attributed to light hedging sales and small offerings. All months established new seasonal highs.

Flax was firmer but moved irregularly. Prices were down fractionally.

Oats and barley continued steady in light domestic trade. Oats were aided by a weekend sale of 10,000 tons to Holland.

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices in the grain futures market ranged from weak in wheat to strong in soybeans in the early afternoon today with trade active.

Although wheat attracted support at times, the rallies were rather limited and setbacks ranged to a cent or so a bushel. Analysts said there appeared to have been only scattered commercial buying even on the setbacks. However, some resting orders to reinstate long speculative positions were reached.

Overtime Boosts Wage Averages

OTTAWA (CP) — Overtime work in the iron and steel industry and in some other fields increased average weekly wages and the work-week of the manufacturing industries during August, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Average weekly wages for all manufacturing amounted to $86.10, compared with $85.36 in July, and the average work-amounted to 41.1 hours compared with 40.8. Average hourly earnings were one cent higher at $2.10.

The bureau said weekly wages in durable goods manufacturing rose to $94.71 from $93.33. They rose in non-durable goods to $77.83 from $77.40.

The bureau said average hourly earnings in construction were two cents higher at $2.41, due to more higher-paid employment in building and general engineering.

Closer Links Seen With U.S.

TORONTO (CP) — Canada and the United States will both have to spend more in the next 10 years on production and distribution of electricity than they have in the last 80 years, U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall said today.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Canadian and Empire Clubs of Toronto, Udall said U.S. power requirements will double in the next decade and Canada's will more than double.

"The industrial prosperity of both our countries is fully depenent on an abundance of low-cost electrical power. Our countries will get the most for their money only through strong international and regional pooling."

Udall appealed for more coordination between Canada and the United States in continental development of all sources of energy.

"In oil, in natural gas, in coal, uranium and hydro-electric power, our two nations must go through a constant balancing of short-term considerations versus long-term interests.

"The growing interdependence of our two peoples, along with their growing numbers, requires closer co-ordination than ever before in the management of the resources on which our hopes for a better world depend."

CUT OIL EXPORTS

Discussing a pending revision of U.S. oil import policy that could curb imports from Canada, Udall indicated Canada is expected to slow down its rate of crude oil exports. He noted that Canadian shipments totalling 92,000 barrels daily in 1959 are running right now at about 315,000 barrels daily, due to the impetus given Canada's oil industry by the 1961 national oil policy.

"This growth, which has averaged a remarkable 23 per cent annually, has been levelling off in recent months, but it will continue to be an important element in Canada's dollar earnings and export trade," he said.

Canada has been selling well above the rate of natural U.S. market increase. This has stiffened opposition from U.S. oil producers and increased pressure from Venezuela to get the same access to the U.S. market.

Manitoba Opens Power Station

GRAND RAPIDS, Man. (CP) —The Manitoba hydro's $140,000,000 power generating station which took five years to build has been officially opened here.

Premier Duff Roblin pulled the switch to send the world's largest and most advanced turbines chugging away at the site, 250 miles north of Winnipeg.

Manitoba hydro chairman D. M. Stephens said the station is capable of producing a quantity of energy which would be equivalent to that of a thermal plant burning more than 200 railway carloads of coal a day.

He said the project helped to close the gap that existed between southern Manitoba and the province's major resources in the north on the Nelson River.

The keeper of the Old Dun Cow hoists his Gold Keg Beer.

Englishmen have become terribly fond of Gold Keg Beer.

To Canada.

"Business has been brisk," said George Longmate, raising his mug, "since you chaps brought Gold Keg to England."

George's pub, the Old Dun Cow, has been in the family since 1600. The men who bide their time there are among the world's best beer-drinkers.

Ideal prospects for Operation Gold Keg.

We took Gold Keg to England, to see how Englishmen would like it. And we've been mildly astonished ever since.

As Mr. Longmate says: "My regulars are very taken with the brew. For that matter, so am I."

More than anything, these hardy Britons like Gold Keg's rich flavour. They claim it's as mellow as the best English beers—and much easier to drink.

You should try a case of Gold Keg soon.

Englishmen are usually right about these things.

Go for action in the MGB

The MGB photographed at high speed in the Moss corner at Canada's famous Mosport track.

Hairpin turn. Needle at 65. Now, watch how beautifully the MGB holds the track!

Read how the MGB can outperform bigger, costlier sports cars... with power and handling qualities perfected through 35 years of international racing experience.

Racing speed through a tight turn. Here's where a sports car really shows its breeding . . . and the MGB performed like a champion when put to this challenging test.

A high-speed camera was set up at the tricky Moss corner at Canada's Mosport track. A competition driver took the MGB's wheel. Down the chute at 95. Gear down. Hard on the brakes, then in and through the hairpin at 65. In a perfectly controlled drift, the MGB held the track beautifully right through the turn!

How can the MGB gun through a corner that slows bigger, heavier cars down to a walk by comparison?

BMC does it with the perfect combination of top performance features—rack-and-pinion steering, disc brakes, close-ratio gearbox. If you can find a sports car with performance features to equal the MGB's, go buy it . . . but be prepared to pay hundreds of dollars more!

Ask your dealer for a demonstration of MGB performance, the result of 35 years of championship breeding. You'll agree . . . nobody puts more into car-making than BMC.

U.S. SUPREME COURT

Red Registration Ruled Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court declared today as unconstitutional a requirement that members of the U.S. Communist party must register with the government.

The requirement is contained in a section of the 1950 Subversive Activities Control Act.

Justice William J. Brennan delivered the 8-to-0 decision.

The decision held that the act's requirement conflicts with a U.S. constitutional provision that nobody can be compelled to give evidence against himself in any criminal case.

The Communist Party itself now is on trial in federal district court here on charges of not registering as a representative of the Soviet Union.

There was no immediate indication just how today's supreme court decision — based upon registration of individuals—may eventually apply to the case against the party itself.

TRIAL CONTINUES

However, justice department officials said this trial will continue while government lawyers study the supreme court's opinion.

Specifically involved in today's decision were William Albertson of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Roscoe Quincy Proctor of Oakland, Calif.

The justice department said Proctor was a member of the Communist party of New York state governing board. The Communist party of New York expelled Albertson July 7, 1964, calling him a "police agent." He asked, however, that the supreme court rule in his case as well as that of Proctor.

Albertson and Proctor appealed to the Supreme Court after the U.S. Court of Appeals upheld the board orders.

They contended the individual registration requirement violates the U.S. constitutional privilege against self-incrimination and impinges on constitutional rights of freedom of belief and association.

The Supreme Court was told that outcome of the case would affect board orders against 34 other persons and seven similar cases pending at the board level.

Justice Brennan said the risks of self-incrimination involved in individual registration "are obvious."

The requirement to fill out and file a specified form, he declared, "is inconsistent with the protection of the self-incrimination clause" of the Constitution.

Brennan said the claims of the two individuals specifically involved in today's case "are not asserted in an essentially non-criminal and regulatory area of inquiry, but against an inquiry in an area permeated with criminal statutes, where response to any of the form's questions in context might involve the petitioners (the two individuals) in the admission of a crucial element of a crime."

Brennan said an admission of membership, such as required in the registration statement, "may be used to prosecute the registrant under (for example) a section of the Subversive Activities Control Act."

China Aids Pakistan

KARACHI (Reuters) — Aid and technical help from China will be used to set up an industrial centre in West Pakistan under an agreement signed between the two countries today. It will include cement and sugar factories, and production of railway equipment, low pressure boilers, power and other factory equipment.

CUBAN ambassador to Canada, Dr. Americo Cruz, will address University of Victoria students and faculty Nov. 23. He will speak on his country's foreign policy and the public is invited. The lecture will be held in Room 106 of the Clearihue Building.

Outbursts Trigger New Cyprus War Scare

FAMAGUSTA, Cyprus (AP)—Storm signals are again flying over the eastern Mediterranean.

Turkey has put its army on the alert once more amid talk of a possible invasion of Cyprus, if there is renewed bloodletting between the island's Turkish and Greek populations.

The newest war scare was triggered by recent outbursts of violence between the two factions in this ancient, walled and moated city. One Turkish-Cypriot was killed and a half dozen others from both sides were wounded.

The United Nations Security Council urged all parties to refrain from further provocations.

The United Nations peacekeepers, who include 1,100 Canadian troops, are desperately trying to defuse the bomb by seeking agreement from both sides to demilitarize new fortifications that led to the latest incidents.

If Famagusta or any other island city explodes again, it could prod Turkey and Greece into open war.

The solution to Cyprus' anguish still appears far away.

Makarios wants unfettered independence, with majority rule. The Turkish - Cypriots say the Greek - Cypriots really want to join the island to Greece. The Turks seek "separate but equal" rule under some kind of federal or cantonal system.

And so the Cyprus problem drags on, while UN soldiers try to soothe edgy tempers. Fresh violence is averted by only the thinness of a bayonet blade.

Now—B.C. Tel's TWX lets you cut the oceans down to size

We must feel rather sorry for the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. For 40 years or more they have been made to feel smaller and smaller. First, Alcock and Brown, then Lindbergh, cut the Atlantic down to size. Then, the "Queens" and "Empress" luxury cruise ships pared down travel times; and today, the arrogant jetliners whisk you to other continents between meals.

And now . . . B.C. TEL'S "dial-'n-type" TWX service across North America has been linked with the corresponding systems in Europe, Africa, Central and South America, Asia and Australia. In just seconds you can send your own messages across the oceans (as well as across the street!)

TRICKY, DANGEROUS

Dramatic Pot-Hole Rescue; Girl 'Wonderfully Brave'

GLOSSOP, England (CP)—A 25-year-old Alberta woman was resting comfortably in hospital at Sheffield today after being pulled from an underground cave in one of the biggest and most difficult rescue operations in British "pot-holing" history.

DONNA CARR
. . . cheerful now

Donna Carr of Calgary, a student at the Imperial College of Science in London, was being examined for a possible minor skull fracture and other injuries suffered in a cave fall near this community 10 miles east of Manchester.

Her father, Donald Carr, arrived at Sheffield Infirmary today after a flight from Calgary.

A hospital spokesman said later: "Miss Carr's condition is satisfactory. She is very cheerful and seems to have got over her ordeal extremely well.

Rescuers were full of praise for the way the Canadian woman bore up during a 22-hour rescue operation, in which she was carried and dragged nearly a mile through treacherous underground tunnels.

"The girl was wonderfully brave," said nurse Margaret Alldred, who spent eight hours with the rescue team underground. "There were even times when she managed a smile, but she was very ill."

The nurse, an experienced cave - climber, said the conditions in the cave, known as the Giant's Hole, were extremely difficult.

COLD TERRIBLE

"The cold down there was terrible. Icy water runs through the length of the cavern. At stages, there is only a tiny gap—a rift in the rock—to get through. I think this is the worst and most tricky rescue I have come across."

Miss Carr and six other students at the Imperial College, all men, went into the cave Saturday afternoon.

A mile inside, about 450 feet underground, Miss Carr began climbing a steep face of rock when she fell 40 feet into an icy stream, losing consciousness.

While some of the students with her crawled outside for help, others stripped off their jackets to keep her warm. Within an hour, rescuers were on the scene and by Sunday afternoon, some 150 people were involved in the operation.

The rescue team comprised 28 men in four sections, taking turns hauling a flexible wooden stretcher to which Miss Carr was strapped.

Dr. Hugh Kidd, medical officer for the rescue organization, spent most of the time with the party and said later: "She never complained. She joked with us and even told us to pull faster."

ALMOST SUBMERGED

At times we had to hold her vertically to negotiate corners. Other times she was almost completely submerged in water."

Miss Carr, a graduate of the University of Toronto, arrived in London last month for post-graduate study in physics at the Imperial College.

The girl, a member of the college caving club, was the latest in a long list of casualties suffered in one of Britain's fastest growing pastimes—caving, or pot-holing.

The pot-holers rig themselves out in coveralls with miner's helmets and lamps. They also take down portable rope ladders, nylon ropes and inflatable dinghies for negotiating underground caves.

Three Die, Two Saved

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Two Swedes were saved in an underground rescue in Sweden while three Italians fell to their death in a cave Sunday.

The two Swedes were in good condition when they emerged from a flooded tunnel in which they spent more than 107 hours 142 feet below a busy Stockholm street.

The construction workers had been trapped by water and mud last Tuesday.

But near Trieste, three amateur cave explorers fell 150 feet to their deaths while climbing out of a grotto.

Police said they were thrown off balance and fell when one side of their rope ladder apparently came apart.

SNOWDONS IN WASHINGTON

Hectic Schedule Ahead

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, leave today for Washington after a 10-day visit to the western United States.

They will stay at the British embassy as guests of Ambassador Sir Patrick Dean and Lady Dean and attend a reception given by the National Press Club and the women's National Press Club tonight.

Tuesday, they will place a wreath at Arlington Cemetery on president John F. Kennedy's grave, tour Mount Vernon, have lunch at the British embassy, visit Washington Cathedral and attend a reception given by Ambassador and Lady Dean.

Public engagements Wednesday include a visit to the National Gallery of Art and dinner that night with President and Mrs. Johnson at the White House. In the afternoon, the Princess will have tea with wives of U.S. senators at the the home of Mrs. Edward Kennedy.

Thursday, Lord Snowdon will visit the Washington Zoo and, with the Princess, tour the Smithsonian Institution.

'Flu-Racked Millar Sparks Gallant Win

Portland 2, Victoria 5

By DOUG PEDEN

Courage can be many things.

It can be refusing to give up in disgust and continuing to give until it hurts when so many breaks go against you that people would find no fault if you yielded.

It can be defying physical ailments and fatigue to give your best—almost more than your best—when you feel your teammates need you most.

Or it can be merely getting yourself in the right frame of mind to whip your most formidable foe.

Courage can be many other things, but those three were the ones that served Victoria Maple Leafs best Saturday night at Memorial Arena.

They were going against Portland Buckaroos, who had knocked the Leafs out of the Western League lead by whipping them 6-0 in Portland Wednesday and following up with Friday night triumph in Seattle.

Largest Turnout

This was the first "must" game of the young season and the Leafs had themselves in a mood to wrestle tigers. Before the night was over they had turned in some superb hockey and delighted a packed house of 5,150 fans by manhandling the Bucks 5-2 and regaining a tie for the lead—until the Bucks beat Vancouver 5-1 Sunday night in Portland.

But before they could get around to the business of pounding the Portlanders, they had a struggle to survive a series of setbacks that might have crushed a lesser team.

These were in the form of a parade of Leafs to the penalty box and they left the Victorians playing shorthanded most of the first period.

Youthful referee Barry Ballance, following the fine print in the rule book as closely as a blind midget reading it in Braille, handed out 11 minor penalties in the opening 20 minutes. And somehow he managed to tag the Leafs with eight of them, including the last five.

Leafs Held Out

Playing two men short for almost four minutes of the first period, and one or more short for one stretch of more than seven minutes, the Leafs managed to hold out against the club with the league's most potent power play for almost 18 minutes.

They did it on the strength of coach Frank Mario's collection of eager penalty-killers and some remarkable acrobatics by goalie Al Millar.

Millar was the man who should have been under blankets instead of being wrapped in hockey pads.

Hit by an attack of 'flu early Saturday morning, Millar spent the day without food and developing a sizzling temperature. When he showed up for the game, few expected him to last one period. Probably none of the Leafs expected him to be around at the finish.

Holland Steps In

He wasn't around at the finish, but he stayed until there were only 10 minutes remaining and the Leafs were sitting pretty with a 5-1 lead.

Rookie Gary Holland stepped into the nets after Millar's empty stomach had complained too vigorously for the second time in the final session. Gary had only one chance as his mates continued their great defending but couldn't see the screened shot that produced Jim Hay's first goal of the season.

Temperature and all, Millar has probably never been more effective and at least five of his saves were almost unbelievable. The only shot that eluded him was a close-in flip by Gerry Goyer at 17:56 of the opening session while the Leafs were two men short.

They were at full strength a minute later and suddenly school was out for the Bucks.

Barlow Scores Two

Gordie Redahl evened the count on a play with Lou Jankowski and 13 seconds later defenceman Aut Erickson got his first goal of the season on a shot deflected past goalie Don Head by Portland rearguard Connie Madigan.

With Millar kicking out everything thrown his way, the Victorians wrapped it up in the second period on a goal by Milan Marcetta and a pair by Bob Barlow.

The first-period penalty parade could have wrecked Victoria and spoiled the evening for the largest Victoria crowd to watch the Leafs. However, the way things turned out, the fans found extra satisfaction in watching their club beat the breaks and then rout the Bucks with spectacular hockey.

As Mario later pointed out, there were many local heroes.

"It was," he said, "a tremendous team effort. They were all great."

Bucks Hold Sway

Vancouver Canucks won one and lost one for their new owners in two of the four games played during the weekend in the Western Hockey League.

Canucks, purchased by a syndicate from Fred Hume for $500,000 last week, defeated Los Angeles Blades 5-2 Saturday night, then fell 5-1 to Portland Buckaroos Sunday.

Los Angeles came out of the league basement with a 3-1 victory over Seattle Sunday.

BUCKS TAKE LEAD

Portland's Sunday victory moved the Buckaroos once again into the league lead with 20 points, two more than Victoria. Vancouver is third with 12 points.

Phil Maloney scored three times as Vancouver came from behind a 2-0 first-period deficit before 6,252 Los Angeles fans Saturday night. Maloney scored once in the second and he and Larry Popein and Howie Hughes scored four goals in the third. Howie Young and Brian Smith got the Los Angeles' goals.

Sunday the Canucks broke a four-game win streak as Portland, playing before more than 7,000 in their home town, scored their seventh win in eight games.

VEJPRAVA, BOONE SWITCH

The Vancouver goal was scored by Gordon Vejprava, acquired in a trade Saturday in which right-winger Buddy Boone went to Los Angeles. In another weekend change, the Blades sold defenceman Harley Hodgson to San Francisco.

Cliff Schmautz of Portland, moved into a tie with Bob Barlow of Victoria for the scoring lead when he got his 10th of the season Sunday.

The 6,000 fans in Seattle were treated to a rough contest. Jack Hendrickson of Los Angeles was assessed 20 minutes for fighting with Len Haley of Seattle in the third period.

Leo Labine, Willie O'Ree and Bill Orban scored for the Blades. Bill Dineen scored for Seattle in the second period to make the score 1-1.

There are no games tonight. Tuesday Los Angeles is at Vancouver.

Two-Under 68 Puts MacLeod In Top Spot

Professional Ron MacLeod fired a one-under-par 68 Sunday at Victoria Golf Club to jump into the lead after 36 holes of the 72-hole fall medal golf series.

Pro Dick Munn, who had started the day with a two-stroke advantage after a two-under 68 in the opening round at Uplands, skidded out of contention with an 83.

Tom McIntyre followed MacLeod with 71 and his handicap gave him low-net honors at 65. Bill Wightman and Laurie Carroll each had a 72 and Wightman earned the second low-net award with a net 67.

The final round will be played next month.

Nixons Gain Ground On Cross-Town Rivals

Victoria Nixons climbed within one point of second-place Esquimalt McLarens in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Hockey League by trimming Port Alberni Legion 6-2 at Memorial Arena.

McLarens had dropped three points behind league-leading Nanaimo Saturday when they were bounced 8-2 by the Clippers at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Don Brown set the victory pace for the Clippers by scoring five goals. Wayne MacCauley and Greg Gow each counted twice and Terry Mitchell added the other Nanaimo tally. Dunston scored both Esquimalt goals.

Mike Derry and Dave Williams each scored two goals for Nixons, who also got singles from Lawrence Scott and Dunc McLean.

BLANKS LEAFS

Bruins' Parent The 'Right Guy'

By UP International

Boston Bruin fans finally have something to cheer about.

He's Bernie Parent, a 20-year-old netminder recently called up from Oklahoma City, who Sunday night turned in his first National Hockey League shutout, 2-0 over Toronto Maple Leafs.

"That was a great standup performance," Bruin coach Milt Schmidt said after the game. "He made some terrific saves and has given this club the lift it needs."

Third-period goals by veterans Forbes Kennedy and Al Langlois gave Parent his initial big league whitewash in only his sixth game with the Bruins.

In other NHL action, New York topped Chicago, 4-2, and Detroit and Montreal played to a 2-2 tie.

ANOTHER BRIMSEK

Schmidt admitted after the game that Parent has looked better than any goalie Boston has had since Frank Brimsek who starred for the New Englanders in the late 1930s and 1940s.

The victim of Parent's impressive showing in the opposing nets was Johnny Bower, who played his first game of professional hockey in 1945 — the year Parent was born. Bower matched his young colleague for two periods before faltering. He stopped 28 shots, two less than Parent.

HULL HANDCUFFED

First period goals by New York's Rod Seiling, Jean Ratelle and Rod Gilbert gave the Rangers and goalie Ed Giacomin all the cushion he needed. Garry Peters added one to the pot in the final period. Red Hay and Fred Stanfield tallied for the Hawks. All-star winger Bobby Hull was held without a point for the second time in nine games.

Norm Ullman's two second-period goals lifted Detroit to its tie with the Canadiens. Montreal had taken a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Jacques Laperriere and Bobby Rousseau.

Ottawa Up In Arms; Stampeders Up In Air

Roughies' Clair Can't Buy Rulings As Ticats Prevail

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders are up in arms about the refereeing but Hamilton Tiger-Cats are up five points in their two-game, total-point Eastern Football Conference final after an 18-13 triumph Sunday.

Coach Frank Clair of the Riders not only was unhappy with a fourth-quarter ruling that gave the ball back to Hamilton after Ottawa had apparently recovered a fumble, but also was fuming about three first-quarter infractions that the officials missed completely.

Hamilton had 13 men on the field for each of Ottawa's first two punts, and had 14—12 on the line and two receivers—for the third Ottawa kick, Clair moaned.

The Ottawa bench and many of the 20,271 fans hollered that Hamilton had too many men on the field, but officials didn't notice it.

The crowd, chilled by the 31-degree temperature, really let loose in the fourth quarter on the apparent fumble that was nullified by a quick whistle.

The play started with Ottawa on the Hamilton 52-yard line when quarterback Russ Jackson tried to find end Ted Watkins with a long pass. Hamilton halfback Garney Henley intercepted the pass on his own 23 and ran the ball to the Ottawa 40 where he was tackled from behind by fullback Jim Dillard.

The ball popped loose and Rider flanker Whit Tucker dived on the ball near the sidelines. Field judge Jim King of Montreal signalled Ottawa had possession of the ball.

PLAY KILLED

But umpire Bob Shepherd of Toronto ran over to tell referee Seymour Wilson that he had whistled the play dead before the fumble, meaning Hamilton retained the ball.

"When they said it was Hamilton's ball I nearly dropped dead," Clair said after the game.

The play proved to be the turning point in the game. Hamilton trailed 13-10 at the time, but Willie Bethea scored a touchdown four plays later. That and a single on a wide 29-yard field goal attempt by Don Sutherin—who converted twice—gave the Ticats the five-point margin they will carry into the final game at Hamilton next Saturday.

A big factor in Hamilton's resurgence was their containment of Dillard's inside running in the second half.

The big fullback helped stake Ottawa to a 13-0 half-time lead with a sparkling display of running and pass-catching. Riders amassed 220 of their 273-yard net offence in the first half and Dillard accounted for 165 yards himself. He wound up with a total of 204 yards—116 rushing on 22 carries and 88 through the air on five pass receptions.

INTERCEPTION COSTLY

Rider's only touchdown of the game came in the second quarter after defensive halfback Joe Poirier intercepted a broken-play pass from Ticat halfback Dick Cohee giving Ottawa the ball on the Hamilton 28.

On the next play Jackson hit Dillard with a touchdown pass.

Moe Racine booted the convert and added two field goals—from 27 and 38 yards out—to raise the count to 13-0 at the half.

Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio (above) shouts disapproval at referee Seymour Wilson during Sunday's Eastern Conference playoff in Ottawa. FIVE TD'S

Unitas' Shadow Sets Pass Mark

By The Canadian Press

Gary Cuozzo, who has spent three years in the lengthy shadow of the great Johnny Unitas, has his name in the record book today where Johnny's used to be.

With Unitas absent because of a back injury, Cuozzo was the starting quarterback for Baltimore Colts Sunday in their National Football League game against Minnesota Vikings and threw five touchdown passes as the Colts romped to a 41-21 victory.

The five scoring tosses set a team record. The brilliant Unitas has thrown touchdowns four times in 12 different games but has never managed five.

The victory, their seventh straight, kept the Colts one game in front of Green Bay Packers in the Western Conference.

PACKERS EDGE RAMS

In other NFL games, Green Bay edged Los Angeles Rams 6-3, Cleveland Browns thumped New York Giants 34-21, Chicago Bears trounced St. Louis Cardinals 34-13, San Francisco '49ers defeated Detroit Lions 27-21, Dallas Cowboys downed Pittsburgh Steelers 24-17 and Philadelphia Eagles topped Washinton Red Skins 21-14.

Cuozzo, recovering from a brutal Viking rush through most of the first half, passed 43 yards to Jimmy Orr for a touchdown with 23 seconds left in the half. He then threw scoring tosses of 22 yards to Orr, 29 to Lenny Moore, six to Ray Berry and 14 to Willie Richardson in the second half.

Jimmy Brown ran for 156 yards and scored three touchdowns while Ernie Green caught seven passes for 160 yards and one touchdown as Cleveland opened a two-game lead in the Eastern Conference. Earl Morrall passed for all three New York touchdowns.

Boomhower Rink Takes Top Money

Arnold Boomhower, a University of Victoria student, skipped his rink to a victory over Keith Dagg's quartet at Allan's Curling Club Sunday to win the "A" event final of a cash bonspiel staged by the Sunny Commercial Curling Club.

Lyall Gordon captured "B" event honors.

In a mixed bonspiel at Duncan Curling Club, in which the ladies did the skipping, Marg Sturrock of Victoria defeated Duncan's Marg Harper to win the first event.

In the finals of the other events, Pat Williams beat Grace Deans, Betty Chessa of Vancouver defeated Betty Panzer and Vera Wilson downed Nancy Robertson.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Oregon State freshmen walloped fledgling Simon Fraser University Clansmen 30-6 here Saturday night in an exhibition American football game at Empire Stadium.

Day-Harrison Combo Too Much For Grant's Men

CALGARY (CP)—Opposition coaches Jerry Williams and Bud Grant Saturday selected the same play as the key in Calgary Stampeders' 27-9 triumph over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the first game of a best-of-three Western Football Conference final.

Calgary has a chance to wrap it up when the clubs meet Wednesday in Winnipeg. The game, scheduled for 7 p.m., PST, will be televised on the CBC national network. If necessary, the third game will be played next Saturday in Calgary.

"I thought we had played well enough to win," Grant said, "until Herman Harrison made that fine catch."

The play started from the Calgary 18 on the first play of the fourth quarter. Quarterback Eagle Day lofted the toss just beyond the reach of defensive back Barrie Hansen, who had Harrison virtually smothered until the lanky tight end threw himself headlong for the ball and nabbed it inches from the ground.

The play moved the ball from deep in Stampeder territory and four plays later, Robinson missed an attempted field goal but the defence forced a punt and the Stamps took possession on their 35.

BROKE TWO TACKLES

After three plays, Harrison shook himself free behind Hansen to combine with Day on his 53-yard scoring play.

The same play was effective on two other occasions. The first time Day called it, Harrison was upset by Winnipeg backfielder Ed Ullmer and pass interference was called. The third time it was received. Harrison freed himself behind Hansen and rambled into the end zone for a 53-yard touchdown.

Day credited sound running by power-backs Lovell Coleman and Ted Woods for helping make the play work.

"You have to establish a sound inside running game to compensate for Winnipeg's blitz, Day said. "And that's what we did."

Woods and Coleman registered Calgary's other touchdowns. Robinson kicked two field goals, two converts and a single.

FUNSTON HIT PAY DIRT

End Farrell Funston took a 10-yard pass from quarterback Kenny Ploen in the third quarter for Winnipeg's only touchdown. Two punt singles by Ed Ulmer and a convert by tackle Norm Winton completed scoring.

Coleman's 58-yard touchdown run was a classic. He sprung into the clear on a delay and eluded three tackles before being confronted by Dick Thornton about the Winnipeg five. Thornton was sent sprawling into the end zone as Coleman blasted free.

"I guess he was a victim of circumstances," Coleman said. "I'd gone too far by that time to stop, even if I'd wanted to."

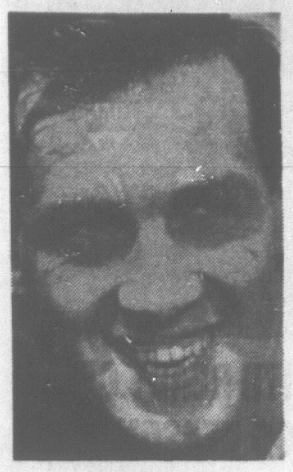
Thunderbird Jinx Holds United Back



GEORGE PAUL
. . . superb effort

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The soccer shoe seems to be on the other foot now for the University of British Columbia Thunderbirds.

Joe Johnston's T-Birds, easy prey for Victoria United last season, seem to have a "thing" going for them in this Pacific Coast Soccer League campaign.

They defeated United 2-0 in their first meeting this season and Saturday came from behind a 2-0 deficit to eke out a 2-2 draw with Victoria.

Saturday's split in points, before a crowd of about 500 fans at Royal Athletic Park, cost United a share of second place. Instead, United shares fourth with Burnaby Villa and Columbus.

Columbus made its move Sunday, defeating North Shore 2-0. Burnaby, like United, missed a chance to climb up the ladder Saturday when upset 3-1 by New Westminster Royals.

United turned in its best performance in over a month, but it still wasn't enough to stop the speedy collegians.

Goals by Peter Gooding and Jim Jamieson gave United a 2-0 lead in the first 10 minutes. That, plus United's crisp play, indicated that the Victorians were heading for an easy triumph.

But it wasn't to be. Thunderbirds got one goal back at the 35-minute mark, by Russ Hillman, and stayed in the running with the brilliant goalkeeping of Bruce Ballam.

Jim Berry scored UBC's equalizer 28 minutes into the second half, breaking through United's defence after a fine through-pass from Paul Beckow.

SAW IT COMING

The goal came against the run of play, and brought realization to fears harbored by Victoria coach Frank Grealy.

"When Johnston moved Berry to the forward line, I knew what was coming. UBC was playing for the big break . . . and they got it," said Grealy.

Grealy was disappointed with the split in points, but more than pleased with the generally-improved play of United. Fullback Don McIntosh, handyman George Paul and Soutar were particularly impressive for Victoria. Paul was perhaps the most outstanding player on the field.

FIREMEN NEXT

United, which meets the unbeaten Vancouver Firefighters at Athletic Park next Saturday, moved the ball much better than in its last three games. Particularly effective was United's short passes.

Inside left Sergio Berti and substitute forward Rino DiFant scored the goals that gave Columbus its victory over the still-winless North Shore side. Sunday's shutout was the second of the year for Columbus goalie Csaba Kondora.

Royals spotted Burnaby the first goal and then charged back to pull out the victory on goals by Keith Commons, Jack James and Siggi Gohringer. Roy Nosella scored for Burnaby, which suffered its first loss.

POLLOCK SECOND

Holding Leading In Zone Rolloffs

Jessie Holding held a narrow 23-pin lead today at the halfway mark of the women's city zone tenpin tournament.

But Jessie can hear footsteps in the background.

The footsteps belong to Lorna Pollock and Viv Morgan.

Jessie rolled a five-game block of 928 at Aurora Lanes Sunday which, coupled with her 901 set at Mayfair Saturday, gave her 1,829 pins.

Lorna, seventh Saturday with 837, pounded the pins Sunday for a 969 series, best of the day, to move into second place with 1,806.

Vivian, sixth Saturday after rolling 839, came through with 901 Sunday to move into third place with 1,740.

Anne Goodman fired high single both days, reeling off a 220 Saturday and a 211 Sunday.

The final two blocks in the 20-game competition will be rolled Saturday and Sunday.

The top three finishers will roll in the B.C. tourney Nov. 28 at Mayfair.

BASEBALL BUILDER . . . . . . IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Rickey Remains in a Coma

BRANCH RICKEY
. . . still critical

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Branch Rickey, 84-year-old baseball great who collapsed at the speaker's rostrum Saturday night, remained in a coma today in the intensive care section of the Boone County Hospital.

"He is holding his own but still is in critical condition," a hospital spokesman said. He was being administered oxygen.

Rickey, a veteran of nearly half a century in the major leagues, was stricken with a heart attack while accepting membership in the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame in ceremonies in Columbia.

Shortly after he started speaking, Rickey said he couldn't go on, sank to a chair and collapsed onto the floor. A resuscitator was rushed to the scene and Rickey was taken to hospital.

He had left a hospital bed in St. Louis Saturday to attend the ceremonies after being in hospital in St. Louis for 16 days for an ailment, not fully diagnosed, which had raised his temperature to 105.

Rickey has had two previous heart attacks, one at Pittsburgh in 1958 and the other at his summer home in Sudbury, Ont., in 1961.

A front office baseball genius, Rickey had built the old St. Louis Cardinal Gas House Gang into champions and later led Brooklyn Dodgers to fame.

He went from the Dodgers to Pittsburgh Pirates, retired and returned to the game as a player consultant for the Cardinals. He retired again after the Cardinals won the 1964 world championship.

LOSE TO KICKERS

Scots Continue Soccer Stumble

What's happened to Canadian Scottish in the first division of the Victoria and District Soccer League?

Packing a good collection of talent, the Scots this season were expected to be one of the top clubs of the circuit. They got away to a good start by winning the McGavin Cup but in league play they have managed one win and a tie in four starts and are now deadlocked in fifth place.

Scottish came a-cropper again Sunday, dropping a 4-1 decision to Hourigan's Kickers at Central Park.

Playing one of their better games, Kickers got two goals from Jim Schulz and singles from Jurgen Stoessel and Bill Cameron. Scoring for Scottish was Jack Magi.

Front-running Gorge Molsons remained two points ahead of Kickers by defeating Navy at Naden for their fifth straight win. Brians Figgins (2), Ray Bauckham, Cliff Newman and Chummy Crabbe counted for Gorge and Dan Lawson fired two goals for the tars.

In another first division game, Ced Robb scored twice to pace Luckies to a 5-2 victory over Victoria West. Alex Stewart, Tim Walker and Alan Wyatt also hit the nets for the winners, and Doug Hill and Nirmal Dillon counted for Wests.

Esquimalt continued its unbeaten run in the second division, blanking Colony Inn 2-0 on goals by Don Tregear and Theo Vandenberg.

In other second division matches, Sidney Hotel blasted Victoria West 7-2 and University Vikings played to a 2-2 draw with Gorge.

Haidas Suffer Double Defeat

ALBERNI — Victoria Haida Chiefs held Alberni's big men under control here Sunday but still dropped their second straight senior men's basketball exhibition to the Athletics.

Alberni's towering pair of Don Krego and Neil Dirom, who had scored 25 and 22 points as the Athletics trimmed the Chiefs 87-65 here Saturday night, were each held to 10 points Sunday but the Athletics still carved out a 67-49 triumph.

Chiefs played their best basketball of the series in the opening half of Sunday's game, but were hampered by poor shooting after many times working plays off a double post for good shots at the basket.

Leading snipers for the Chiefs, who gave away considerable height to the reigning Canadian champions, were Darrell Lorimer and John Lauvass. Lorimer scored 24 points Saturday and 21 Sunday. Lauvaas potted 16 and 18.

Scoring:

SATURDAY

Alberni — Jim Bishop, Colin McPherson 6, Larry Lehtonen 10, Marv Johnson 16, Raynor Devries 2, Don Krego 25, Neil Dirom 22, Bill Pitcher 2, Tom Watt 4. Total — 87.

Victoria — John Lauvaas 16, Darrell Lorimer 24, Ken Gregory 11, Rick Barnswell, Bill Spotswood, John Devlin 2, Gordie Jones 6, Bill Wilson 4, Chuck Bennett, Mike Gallo 2. Total — 65.

SUNDAY

Alberni—Bishop 6, McPherson 3, Lehtonen 14, Johnson 14, Krego 10, Dirom 10, Watt 7, Pitcher 3. Total 67.

Victoria — Lauvaas 18, Lorimer 21, Barnswell 3, Gregory 6, Devlin 5, Wilson 2. Total 49.

Breedlove Cracks 600 MPH Barrier

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Craig Breedlove cracked the 600-mile-per-hour barrier today and set a world land speed record on the western Utah salt flats, the Utah Highway Patrol reported.

His two-way average was 600.6 miles per hour.

Rees Sparks Cowichan XV

Alan Rees scored 12 points on three converts and two drop goals Sunday to spark Cowichan to a 24-11 Victoria Rugby Union victory over Oak Bay Wanderers.

Tom Browne (2), Fred Osborne and Barry Leach scored tries for Cowichan, which led 13-0 at the half.

Don Burgess scored a try, one convert and a drop goal to pace Oak Bay's scoring. Paul Carnes also scored a try for Wanderers.

In second division play Saturday, Oak Bay defeated University of Victoria Norsemen 11-6.

Wayne Wins Bird Crown

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wayne Macdonnell of Vancouver won the men's singles title at the Vancouver Racquets invitational badminton tournament here Sunday.

He defeated Bert Fergus, also of Vancouver, 15-9, 15-11 in the final.

Caroline Jensen of Port Angeles, Wash., won the women's singles and later teamed with Susie Wilson, also of Port Angeles, to take the women's doubles. Macdonnell and Fergus won the men's doubles.

McLaren Juniors Thump Norsemen

Esquimalt McLarens thumped Norsemen 4-2 in a Vancouver Island Junior Hockey League game Sunday at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Paul Morrison led the winners with two goals. Singles were scored by Rick Mitchell and Don Robinson.

Swiss Edge Dutch

BERN (AP)—Switzerland defeated Holland 2-1 in a World Soccer Cup qualifying match played Sunday.

Hearts Had a Workout Until Chinooks Rallied

Victoria Chinooks are still riding a two-point lead in the Inter-City Junior Basketball League but they gave their fans more than a few heart flutters at Central Junior High School Saturday night before they finally walked away with their fourth straight victory.

Battling a stubborn Kerrisdale club that was shooting for a share of the top spot, Chinooks dropped behind 34-26 in the third quarter and were unable to catch the Merchants until six minutes from the end.

By that time coach Ollie Goldsmith's charges were in high gear and the Chinooks charged ahead for a 70-59 triumph.

Probably saving the Chinook bacon was Barney Spaven, returning to action after being sidelined by an ouchy ankle.

Spaven teamed up with quick Don Frampton to keep the Canadian champs from falling apart when it appeared Merchants might run away and hide.

Barney scored 20 points in that hectic second half, 10 of them from the free-throw line to finish as leading sniper for the night with 22 points.

Frampton was the first-half sparkplug, scoring Victoria's first six points, settling down the champs in tough spots and breaking up several Kerrisdale plays.

Frampton clicked for a total of 12 points, long-shot ace Ken Gregory swished 18 and Ron Bowker added 13 for Chinooks.

Victory enabled Chinooks to retain a two-point edge over Vancouver YMCA, which kept pace Saturday in Vancouver by trimming hapless Killarney 78-30.

Victoria—Brian Brumwell, Brian McIntyre 1, Rick Humber, Don Frampton 12, Barry Burch 2, Ken Jackson 18, Barry Turner, Barney Spaven 22, Doug Gregory 2, Ron Bowker 13. Total 70.

Kerrisdale—Bazeley 2, Cooper 7, Kendall, McLean 10, Cox 2, Inrig 14, Lockhart, Humphries 13, Wejr, Dugas 5, Cooke 6, Ellis. Total 59.

Spring Double Wins Via Foul

By Canadian Press

Spring Double, a 55-to-1 shot, won the $134,543 pot of the Pimlico Futurity at Baltimore Saturday on a foul by Father's Image, which led all the way and finished first by a length.

Father's Image was disqualified for ducking out and bumping into Spring Double as the pair slammed out of the second turn and headed down the stretch.

Spring Double's returns on $2 were $112.40, $35.40 and $16.60. Father's Image paid $5.40 and $4.20. Amberoid paid $12.20 to show.

A total of $213,990, most ever in a Maryland horse race, was distributed for the 43rd Futurity which attracted 13 two-year-old colts.

SURVIVED FOUL

Terry's Secret survived a foul claim and won the 17th running of the Roamer Handicap Saturday.

The objection was lodged by Eldon Nelson, aboard Bold Bidder, who finished third behind Valley Farm's Selari. Nelson claimed interference at the top of the stretch in the $55,000 race.

Stewards examined the movies and disallowed the protest.

Terry's Secret raced the 1 3-16 miles in 1:56 2-5 and paid $10.40.

FIRST STAKES RACE

At Louisville, Ky., War Censor, running in his first stakes race, scored a three-length victory over Tensley to win the $53,280 Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes at Churchill Downs

The two-year-old gelding covered one mile in 1:37 3-5 and returned $18.60, $6 and $3.40. Old Bag finished third.

Ramblin Road scored a one-length victory in the $28,300 National Jockey Club Handicap at Chicago.

The four-year-old son of Lincoln Road led Take Over and Unbested to the wire in the 1 1-16-mile race.

Gaels Claim First Place

St. Louis College Gaels wrapped up first place in the Norm Fieldgate Bantam Football League at Bullen Park Sunday by defeating Gordon Head Chargers 12-7 in the last game on the league schedule.

Dan Jordens and Ted Kissinger scored touchdowns for the Gaels and Ron Thom scored a converted touchdown for the second-place Chargers.

In another game played Sunday, Oak Bay grabbed third place by bombing Victoria Trojans 45-13 as Terry Karpiuk collected three TDs and Phil Pimlott went over for a pair.

Semifinal playoffs start next Sunday at Macdonald Park with Gordon Head facing Oak Bay at 11:30 and St. Louis meeting Esquimalt Lions at 1 in sudden-death battles.

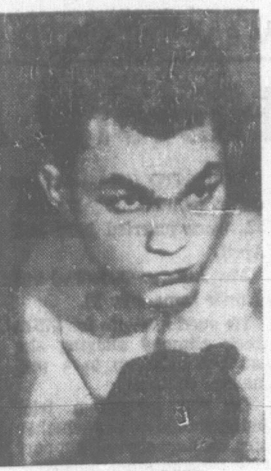
TAKES DECISION . . . . . . FROM LAGUNA

Ortiz Regains Crown



CARLOS ORTIZ

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Ismael Laguna of Panama leaves for home today, convinced that he lost his world lightweight title to Carlos Ortiz because of overtraining.

"I'm ready to fight Ortiz again, at any time or any place," Laguna said. "Ortiz outfought me Saturday night, but his punches never hurt. I lost because I over-trained."

The 22-year-old Laguna stuck to an arduous schedule of daily exercises, roadwork and sparring until the two days before the 15-round fight.

Lacking Ortiz's punching power, he counted on speed and endurance to win on points. This was the formula that won him the lightweight crown from Ortiz in Panama April 10.

But the 29-year-old Ortiz, with two months' training under his belt, kept the pace. His left hook and rights had Laguna in trouble briefly in the eighth, 12th and 13th rounds.

"I never was tired, but I was cautious," Ortiz said. "I knew I had the fight won and I didn't want to take any chances."

Laguna was guaranteed $30,000 for the fight. Ortiz earned 30 per cent of a gate which exceeded $100,000. He now has a 45-5-1 record compared with Laguna's 39-3-1.

AGAINST A NUCLEAR GERMANY

Anxieties Still Plague Allies

BONN (AP) — West Germany's armed forces, born only 10 yearss ago last week, will soon be actively involved in NATO muclear strategy if Chancellor Ludwig Erhard had his way.

In one decade the Budeswehr has become the biggest single component in the Atlantic Alliance after the United States armed forces.

By official tally, 436,000 men are wearing Bundeswehr uniforms.

When the first West Germans began joining the Bundeswehr 10 years after the collapse of the Nazi regime, doubts and fears were expressed on both sides of the Atlantic. Ten years of loyal service in the Atlantic Alliance have not dissolved all these anxieties. The question of nuclear involvement has helped to keep them alive.

Thre is still a reservoir of anxiety about the Germans in the minds of their neighbors, U.S. military observers here concede.

DOMINATES AGENDA

The nuclear question will dominate Erhard's agenda when he meets U.S. President Johnson in December. The chancellor wants his country to share in NATO's nuclear might, he says, in a way that corresponds to its commitment of conventional forces.

He says that the country should defend itself with the same types of weapons as those menacing it from the East. And West German industrialists say nuclear participation is needed in order to gain manufacturing know - how derived from atomic military research.

U.S. military men say sharing of nuclear command would not actually alter the military situation.

They say that the Bundswehr already is involved in strategic nuclear planning, through Gen. Wolf Von Baudissin, chief of operations on the Supreme Allied Command for Europe. Also, a bilateral arrangement with the United States exists on tactical nuclear weapons.

Bundeswehr officers think their country will be the first battlefield in the event of an East-West clash in Europe, no matter how many fingers they have in the atomic pie.

"They have a small strip of land that offers no military flexibility, their major industrial centres would be immediately under fire, and there is no room for a real line of communications," one U.S. military source explained.

RUSSIAN poet Yevgeny Yettushenko, whose bluntness concerning Russian life has got him into trouble, has blasted Soviet youth leaders in a new poem. Efforts to 'control young poets" do not terrify me, he wrote.

MAN 'INDUCED TO WED OLDER WOMAN'

Historic Alimony Decision

TORONTO (CP) — Larry Adler, 32, and Moly Spiegel, 52, were married here last April.

Mr. Adler was locked out of their home July 30.

He sued his wife for $75-a-week alimony alleging she had not lived up to a pre-marital contract.

On the ground a trial judge should decide whether Mrs. Adler should support and maintain her husband, Mr. Justice William J. Henderson of the Ontario Supreme Court this week rejected the wife's application to have her husband's suit dismissed or stayed.

The judge's decision was believed without precedent in Ontario legal history.

Mr. Justice Henderson said circumstances last spring were such that "this man was induced to marry a woman 20 years older than him."

He noted a pre-marital contract wiped out Mr. Adler's $2,300 debt to his bride, gave him $10,000 for his own use and agreed that the bride would support him for the rest of his life or until she died.

Mr. Adler claimed his wife has assets of $400,000 while he has never made more than $60 a week. Now unemployed, he previously worked as a barbershop equipment salesman.

Mrs. Adler's lawyer, F. J. Sparham, said she has initiated several actions against her husband. She wants to get back a car and money from him and also to have her husband support her.

Mr. Adler said he first met his future wife at a Toronto dance hall last February when he helped her on with a fur coat she told him was worth $10,000.

Two days before their April 7 wedding, Mr. Adler and Mrs. Spiegel, who previously had been married three times, made the contract.

Mr. Sparham, however, said the husband's suit for alimony was intended only to harass Mrs. Adler.

Donald Ruwald, the husband's lawyer, said Mr. Adler had carried out his part of the contract by marrying Mrs. Spiegel. Now it is up to her to fulfil her part.

ANIMALS GIVEN TURN

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Ground was broken during the weekend for a building at the Baltimore zoo in which the people will be caged and stared at by giraffes. Dr. Arthur Watson, the zoo director, said the building will be circular. "We will put the people in the centre and let the giraffes roam around and stare down at them."

Forces Give Ideas To Mark Centennial

Canadian forces personnel of the Pacific region have been asked for ideas to help the services commemorate Canada's 1967 centennial.

And a number of suggestions have already been received and forwarded to Canadian forces headquarters in Ottawa.

Here are some of them:

- A fleet sail-past off Victoria to which countries bordering the Pacific Ocean will be invited to send ships;
- A series of visits to west coast ports by RCN ships;
- A military caravan tour of the interior of the province with displays of civil disaster procedures;
- An aerobatic display of RCAF aircraft; and
- Tours by army teams featuring motorcycle rides, unarmed combat and gymnastic displays.

Reopening of roads built decades ago in this area by the British army is also under consideration.

One petty officer suggested a section of the long beach in front of Royal Roads be cleared of logs and the driftwood be used for a huge Centennial fire beacon.

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners of this week's junior bridge club's game were: N/S: 1. Dorothy and Ted Colgate; 2. Percy and Florence Edwards; 3. Frank Annis and Bill Badyk; 4. Doris Asserlind and Maureen Rabey.

E/W: 1. Yvonne Cummings and Jack Edwards; 2. Marnie and Gerry Thate; 3. Dick Almas and Iola Riches; 4. Isobel Carr and Len Horncastle.

Winners of the allmasters duplicate bridge club's monthly master point event played Thursday at Broughton club rooms were: Section A. N/S: 1. Gwen and Harry Brawn; 2 and 3 (tie) Mable and Bill Peck, Florence Curran and Edgerton Robertson.

E/W: 1. Joan Smith and Gordon Eaton; 2. Marianne Powell and Liliane LeButt; 3. Jack Edwards and Bob Turner.

Section B. N/S: 1. Elizabeth Warren and Maria Collm; 2. Ian Smith and Pete Nixon; 3. Les Stewart and Joe Lukas.

E/W: 1. Marjorie Fortye and Earle Dye; 2. Joan Strank and Tony Marsh; 3. Margaret and Jack McAvoy.

Winners of the third game in the Victoria duplicate bridge club's six-week series were: Section A. 1. Bill Chisholm and Mike O'Brien; 2. Marianne Powell and Marjorie Fortye; 3. Helen Vandervliet and Gordon de Long; 4. Chris Murray and Bud Waddington; 5. Norman Loomer and Gordon Eaton; 6. Violet and Douglas Hawkes.

Section B: 1. Joan Smith and Harry Brawn; 2. Phil Hagel and Earle Dye; 3. Hilda Price and Pat Bishop; 4. Jo Waddington and Maria Collm; 5. Margaret and Jack McAvoy; 6. Tony Marsh and Bill Browne-Cave.

There were 20 tables in play.

SURVIVORS TELL GRIM STORIES

Crewmen Watched Couple Struggle

MISSING AND PRESUMED dead are honeymooners Mr. and Mrs. Alan Gillen of Mount Hope, five miles south of Hamilton. They were married one week ago and were on board the ill-fated cruise ship Yarmouth Castle which burned and sank in the Bahamas Saturday. (CP Wirephoto)

By ROD CURRIE

MIAMI (CP)—Canadians who survived the Yarmouth Castle ship tragedy told during the weekend of confusion on board when fire broke out and one survivor said the crew was "badly organized."

One of the survivors reaching here was Murray Bell, 50-year-old Burlington, Ont., resident, who criticized the crew.

"I am sure there were many cases of bravery among individual members of the crew," he said, "but on the whole they were badly organized and there had been no lifeboat drill."

Bell and his 50-year-old wife, Stella, started to leave the ship by climbing down a rope with his wife on his back.

However, when they had climbed down only about 12 feet, Mrs. Bell screamed, "I can't hold on, goodbye." She then dropped the remaining 40 to 50 feet into the water.

WENT AFTER HER

Bell plunged into the water to help her and they clung to a floating platform for about 1½ hours before being picked up by the rescue ship Bahama Star.

Bell said that all the time they were in the water one crew member was with them and another sat nearby in the loop of a rope suspended about five feet above the water.

"Both had lifebelts on, but neither offered one to Stella although she kept slipping off the wooden raft and it was obvious she could not swim well."

Bell said the first lifeboat launched had only six or eight persons in it and he thought it must have contained crew members.

". . . An officer shouted to them three or four times, commanding them to return, but they didn't."

The Yarmouth Castle's owners flew all the survivors here from Nassau and put them up in hotels for a few days.

Two Flin Flon, Man., women, Irene Lengyel, 29, and Phyllis Watt, 27, told of climbing down ropes and dropping the last six feet or so into the water. They entered a lifeboat after swimming around for a while and were picked up eventually by the Bahama Star.

NO INSTRUCTIONS

Throughout it all, they said, there were no announcements or instructions broadcast. But Irene said she had been told the public address system was knocked out as soon as the fire started.

Both said the crew appeared to do all they could in the circumstances.

"There was no panic," said Phyllis. "But everyone was excited and it was all very disorganized."

Terry Wise of Markham, Ont. a third purser on the ship, also was picked up by the Bahama Star.

"I was lucky, I never even got wet," he said in Nassau.

Terry Eliseunson, a 22-year-old St. Paul, Minn., secretary, said she and a girl friend opened their stateroom doors to find the corridor so full of smoke that they despaired of leaving that way.

"I smashed the porthole with my fist," she said. "One crew member said we might as well give up hope and die because that was it.

"We were wearing our nightgowns. Some people jumped in without clothes," Miss Eliseunson said. "It was awful — you just can't imagine."

Officials Probe Cause of Sinking

MIAMI (CP-AP) — The fiery sinking of the cruise ship Yarmouth Castle with the apparent loss of 81 lives has posed a number of mysterious questions the U.S. Coast Guard hopes to have answered.

The toll from the sinking was revised downward Sunday to one known dead and 83 presumed lost as some passengers originally reported missing by Yarmouth Cruises Incorporated were found safe in hotels and homes.

Among those presumed lost are a Canadian honeymooning couple, Alan and Lynda Gillan of Mount Hope, Ont., who were married just a week ago in Hamilton, Ont.

Fourteen of the 466 survivors are Canadians—nine from Ontario, three from Quebec and two from Manitoba.

Nineteen persons were taken to hospital, five in critical condition. No Canadians were among the injured.

The cruise ship plunged 1,700 feet to the bottom of the Atlantic in the Bahamas Saturday morning after fire swept her so suddenly no disress call was heard.

The coast guard sent two officers to Nassau, Bahamas, to see if they could learn what caused the holocaust aboard the 385-foot vessel that left Miami Friday night for Nassau with 376 passengers and a crew of 174.

The coast guard investigators also are interested in learning what steps were taken to fight the fire and preserve life. Only four of her lifeboats were launched and some passengers complained of inadequate safety measures.

The Bahamas government also is considering investigating the fate of the white-hulled, 5,000 - ton steamship that had brought thousands of vacationers to the picturesque island capital.

It was to Nassau that rescue vessels brought survivors, some blanket-wrapped and bandaged, Saturday after breaking off a vigil 60 miles at sea for other survivors. Daylight showed only empty boats and debris.

PRESUME ALL GONE

"All the missing persons are presumed lost — drowned, burned or trapped on the ship when she went down," said Lieut. William Wilson, coast guard search and rescue coordinator in Miami.

Passengers' accounts indicated the blaze was first noticed forward about 1 a.m. as the vessel was about 60 miles from her Nassau destination. None could say what caused it.

There was no immediate statement from Capt. Byron Voutsinas and officers of the Yarmouth Castle.

Capt. Carl Brown of the cruise ship Bahama Star, which picked up most of the survivors, said authorities "think they know just where the fire started and who reported it first." He declined to elaborate.

Besides survivors brought ashore by Brown's ship, about 90 were picked up by the Finnish freighter Finnpulp.

Canadians Flee Blaze

NASSAU (CP) — At least 16 Canadians were aboard the cruise ship Yarmouth Castle.

An unofficial list of Canadian survivors, compiled by The Canadian Press, follows:

Murray and Stella Bell, Burlington, Ont.

Irene Langley, Flin Flon, Man.

Andrew and Gladys McPhail, Milliken, Ont.

William and Lavin Pudifin, Toronto.

Phyllis Watt, Flin Flon.

Christian J. Nelan, Toronto.

Norman Nelan, Toronto.

James and Winnifred Walter, Montreal.

Crew member Terrence Wise of Markham, Ont., a third purser.

A partial passenger list, issued earlier, also listed these other Canadians:

Simone Belyea, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Alan Gillens, Mount Hope, Ont., reported missing.

Oak Bay Fireman Retires To Prince George

Ernest Wells left here Sunday, only hours after retiring from his job as assistant chief of Oak Bay fire department.

After 26 years as a fireman, he has gone to Prince George, where he proposes to make his home and open a business.

Mr. Wells, 56, joined Oak Bay fire department in 1939, spent the war years in Naval Fire Services, returned to Oak Bay as lieutenant in the fire department, and was made assistant chief in 1953.

He was presented with a gold retirement badge and cheques from the firemen's union, the firemen's benevolent fund and the municipal employees' benevolent fund by Oak Bay Councillor Walter Dodsworth in a ceremony at Oak Bay Fire Hall Friday.

Vancouver Milk Hits 29 Cents

VANCOUVER (CP)—The retail price of milk jumps to 29 cents from 27 cents today for residential customers of Vancouver's biggest dairy.

Wholesale customers, including stores, restaurants and institutions, also will pay two cents a quart more to the Dairyland division of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association.

It was not immediately known whether the lower mainland's three other major producers will follow suit.

Spokesmen for Palm Dairies and the Safeway Supermarket chain, which has its own dairy, were unavailable for comment. An official of Jersey Farms Ltd. said the company would have an announcement one way or the other Tuesday or Wednesday.

Price of milk in Greater Victoria rose to 27 cents a quart from 25 cents two months ago.

Eskimos Flee Villages As Gale Pushes in Tides

ANCHORAGE (AP) — Hundreds fled low-lying villages on Alaska's northwest coast today to escape high waters pushed in by a storm with winds up to 92 miles an hour.

Four barges, one with 30,000 gallons of fuel oil aboard, were lost; a Vancouver-bound Soviet vessel, damaged in the storm, anchored near the Aleutians to ride it out; and six trappers were feared missing.

Some 650 residents of the low-lying Eskimo village of Unalakleet were evacuated for the second time in a week as high winds and tides pushed Norton Sound waters over a makeshift seawall.

The evacuees were taken to a U.S. Air Force radar station on a hill about six miles from the village which is about 400 miles northwest of Anchorage. Similar storm conditions had forced evacuation of the village Thursday night.

The village of Stebbins, about 50 miles southwest of Unalakleet, and a Federal Aviation Agency station at Moses Point to the north also were evacuated.

The 442-foot Russian vessel Ivan Kulibin, was reported anchored 50 miles from the Aleutian island port of Dutch Harbor to wait out the storm.

The U.S.-built Second World War lend-lease ship was en route from Siberia to Vancouver when it asked for and received permission to enter the harbor for repairs.

The ship radioed Saturday bow deck plates were cracked. The U.S. Coast Guard said the cutter Balsam was sent to Dutch Harbor in case it was needed.

The four barges were reported lost at St. Michael, southwest of Unalakleet.

State police said an air search was planned today if weather permitted for six trappers reported missing near the mouth of the Yukon River where the full force of the storm struck.

At Unalakleet, last week's storm had left 18 persons homeless. Supplies were airlifted to the radar site from Elmendorf air force base along with two U.S. public health service nurses to reinforce the infirmary staff and two practical nurses from the village.

Victoria Stay Expensive

An Edmonton man's stay in Victoria has been an expensive one.

Earl W. Brown, in Victoria to install machinery, pleaded guilty in central court Saturday to a charge of impaired driving.

He was fined $300 and his licence was suspended for four months by Magistrate J. A. Byers.

Driving south on Government Street Thursday evening, his car collided with a car stopped for traffic lights at Bay St.

Hawaii Drenched By Storm

HONOLULU (UPI) — Flood-weary residents held cautious hope today for relief from a torrential storm which drenched Hawaii with nearly 12 inches of rain since Thursday and forced more than 200 families to flee their homes.

The weather bureau predicted that the five-day storm would ease later today.

"That's what it said yesterday, too," one resident said, "and the rain's still coming down in bucketsful."

The rains created flood situations throughout the Island of Oahu and its principal city, Honolulu. Muddy water surged through the streets at depths as high as three feet, causing landslides which stranded residents and grounding out telephone and power lines.

There were no reports of death or serious injury, but officials said damage was expected to run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

SNOW IN DEVON

Winter Arrives Early in Europe

LONDON (AP) — Wintry weather spread across Europe today, blocking roads and snarling traffic from the Atlantic to Siberia and from the North Cape to the Riviera.

In many places the snow, ice and freezing temperatures came earlier in the year than ever before recorded.

Britain's official thermometer on the roof of the air ministry at 1 a.m. dropped to 29, the lowest temperature for Nov. 15 since recording began in 1940.

Moscow reported the coldest Nov. 15 in 80 years with a recording of four below zero.

Italy reported freezing temperatures with snow on the Italian Riviera. The Pyrenees already were blanketed with snow. The thermometer was just above freezing.

The unusual cold with resulting heavy use of electric heaters forced voltage cuts in power in the London area.

Many suburban trains were delayed by freezing switches.

Snow, ice or freezing fog covered most of Britain. Snowplows were out in Devon, southwestern England, clearing a six-inch weekend snowfall on Dartmoor.

Two trains from Scotland to London were blocked by snow as were a number of highways. Snow fell Sunday and during the night in most British coastal and mountain areas.

The weather bureau, reporting no relief in sight, said a high depression area over northern Norway and another off the coast of France were channelling the early winter in directly from Siberia.

NOW THE MEN HAVE HAIR 'DONE'

By JACQUES ROUSSEAUX

Well, we've done it again . . . once more Victoria is last to fall in step with a trend that has been sweeping the continent for months.

But perhaps it's just as well, for by now the new trend in barbering has proved itself not just a fad, but a needed change that is here to stay.

I think it is, now that I am possibly the first man in Victoria to sport . . . a hairstyle. Custom-styled hair is the newest look in personal grooming.

Sunday morning I volunteered as model for a Vancouver stylist, Alvin Hackworth, who was giving a demonstration "in the new art of barbering" to a group of pioneering Victoria barbers. The lesson was the first in a 10-week course designed to bring local barbers up to date.

With a sigh of relief I didn't have to expose myself to lippers while anxiously hoping not to look like a sheared amb.

Instead I watched in the mirrors the feather-cutting tyling razor shape my hair in a soft hairstyle fitted to the ontour of my head.

And that's the secret of the new barbering trend . . . to chieve a natural, casual, clean-cut look in a smooth line uited to the personality of the individual.

"This is the first change in the trade in 40 years," Mr. Iackworth says, "and it's bringing it to what it should be—n art."

"We're not going to fight nature any more," he says.

"And if styling your hair appears sissy to you, remember, being clean, healthy and well groomed is not feminine — it is natural."

Youths Charged In Two Attacks

Woman, Paper Boy Victims of Assault

Two juvenile escapers from Brannen Lake reformatory near Nanaimo have been charged in connection with two separate assaults and a car theft.

The pair were apprehended Sunday afternoon hitchhiking on the Patricia Bay Highway.

Police believe they are responsible for a purse-snatching attack on a woman Sunday morning and the attempted robbery of a Times newsboy Saturday.

The woman was accosted by one of the youths at 7:25 a.m. Sunday while she was walking to work in the 700 block on Humboldt Street.

JUMPED FROM CAR

Mrs. Vera Gatyshun, Churchill Hotel, told police the youth jumped from a car and made a grab at her purse.

She struck the youth on the head several times with her open umbrella, but in the ensuing struggle was knocked to the ground and kicked in the knee.

The youth then fled empty-handed in the car, later found to have been stolen.

The newsboy was attacked as he rode his bicycle on the Town and Country shopping centre parking lot.

He was carrying $70 in collections from his newspaper route.

The robbery was foiled when the occupants of two passing cars intervened.

MENTAL CASES

'Find Room At Jubilee' Says Martin

Health Minister Eric Martin today suggested Royal Jubilee Hospital administrators should try to find some space in the main hospital for temporary psychiatric beds.

He was commenting on criticisms at the weekend that three mentally-ill persons awaiting transfer to Riverview Hospital at Essondale had to be locked in jail cells here for lack of proper accommodation.

"We didn't put them there," Mr. Martin said.

"And we don't build hospital beds, either. That has to be done at the hospitals' own initiative."

He said some time ago he urged Royal Jubilee officials to increase their Bay Street psychiatric pavilion and offered government financial assistance.

DOUBLED

"They came up with doubling of the pavilion and that has been done. We figured everything was hunky-dory because we weren't asked for any more help.

"There has been no further application from the hospital for more of these grants."

Mr. Martin said it had been felt the pavilion enlargement would fill the gap between former bed capacity and the opening of a 176-bed intensive psychiatric treatment hospital planned by his department for construction behind Royal Jubilee.

TWO-YEAR WAIT

The provincial hospital will cost $6 million and will be six storeys high, but will not be in operation for at least two years.

"In the meantime, I would suggest to Royal Jubilee that if some temporary arrangement could be made in the hospital, we would be prepared to help financially in the usual way," Mr. Martin said.

He added it may be possible that St. Joseph's Hospital might embark on a program of developing a psychiatric pavilion but all hospital plans in this area currently are bogged down awaiting outcome of the hospital district proposal.

It involves a ratepayer vote at the civic elections next month to determine whether the local area will begin taxing property owners for a hospital construction fund.

"A colossal amount depends on that vote," said Mr. Martin.

STETTLER RETURNS FROM SCENE

Fishboat Skipper Refused Russians' Help

By RON SUDLOW
Marine Reporter

Russian seamen offered assistance to Capt. Oisten Hansen after the Vancouver fishboat was in collision with a Soviet trawler last Wednesday, it was learned today.

The aid was refused by the Canadian fisherman and his craft sank two hours later, claiming the life of its cook.

More details of the incident were revealed today by Lieut.-Cmdr. Tom Irvine, commanding officer of HMCS Stettler which returned to Esquimalt.

The Stettler was called to assist in conducting an investigation into the accident.

The Soviet trawler Mikalov was under tow to the Russian tug Bestraseny at the time of the collision.

At the time of the impact, Russian seamen shouted to the skipper of the Vancouver trawler.

They could see damage to her stern on the starboard side, Lieut.-Cmdr. Irvine said the Russians told him.

Then the tug made a circle and Soviet seamen again attempted to see if the Aleutian Queen was still seaworthy.

Mrs. Hansen, wife of the fishboat skipper, said in an interview on the weekend the Russians also ran up signal flags which meant they would help if needed.

"Oisten thought he could make it and didn't answer," she said.

OVER ON SIDE

"It was two hours later when the stern filled with water and the boat went over on its side and started to sink."

When it became evident the 68-foot craft would founder, a distress signal was flashed and the Hansens, Oisten and son Robert, 11, were picked up by the Western Maid.

However, the vessel's cook, Ode Gronlund, drowned.

"The Russians seemed very surprised the Aleutian Queen went down and were deeply concerned about the loss of life," Lieut.-Cmdr. Irvine said.

He added they were extremely co-operative throughout the entire investigation and made available their log book, charts and other notes.

"They are highly-professional people. Their log books were very well maintained," observed the Stettler commander.

The collision occurred outside the 12-mile fishing limit, about 20 miles off Cape Scott on the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

Weather at the time was good and visibility extended 12 miles. The Soviets first saw the Aleutian Queen when she was two miles away.

She approached the Soviet trawler on the port side and was not fishing at the time of the collision, the Russians told Lt.-Cmdr. Irvine.

Also conducting the investigation were Capt. Mitchell Gay of the fisheries department and Capt. Cyril Burrill of the department of transport.

SEAMAN HELPFUL

The investigation was conducted in Ukrainian translated by Stettler ordinary seaman Marshal Raymond Worobets, 21, of Andrew, Alberta.

Saturday the Stettler answered her seventh Mayday in six months when she assisted the Seattle fishboat Western Maid which was shipping water.

Her main bilge pump failed when its chain drive to the engine broke. The boat took on two feet of water.

She also had a full load of fish and wallowed in the heavy seas off the northern tip of the Island, reported Stettler engineer officer Lt. Lucien Voyager, 3841 Clarndon.

Sailors from Stettler hand-bailed the vessel for two hours until she was safely in port at Bull Harbor.

They repaired the pump but couldn't start the ship's engine because of the water in the hull.

The Western Maid was towed to safety by the Bremerton, Wash., fishboat Valiant Lady. She was escorted by the Stettler and the fisheries patrol vessel Laurier.

Three Homes Entered In Rockland District

A break-in artist is operating in the Rockland Avenue area.

Police believe the same culprit is responsible for three break-ins which occurred in the area at the weekend.

A total of $135 in cash and sets of keys were stolen in a break-in at 1726 Green Oak Terrace Saturday night.

Owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dawson, said they had been at the Memorial Arena in the evening and the house was vacant.

The same sneak thief was believed frightened away from the scene of his second break-in at 1632 Rockland when the gardener investigated noises in a darkened part of the house.

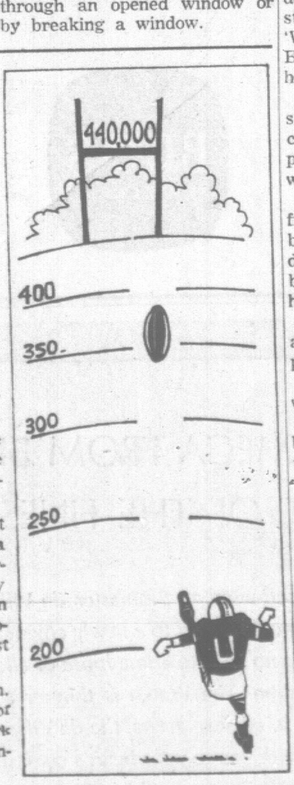
A window was later found broken.

The third break-in occurred Sunday afternoon while A. B. McKinnon was absent from his home at 1760 Rockland.

Two bedrooms were ransacked and $18 stolen from a wallet in a drawer.

In each case the break-ins occurred while the homes were either vacant or appeared vacant and in each case entry to the home was gained either through an opened window or by breaking a window.

Help Score 'Fair Share' Goal



The United Appeal total stood at $374,404 at noon today.

Inching slowly toward its $439,210 goal, it stood at 85.2 per cent at latest count.

An encouraging $1,306 from 102 employees of Northwestern Creamery Ltd. swelled the coffers from Saturday's total.

It also earned the donors the Appeal's plaque award for the sixth time for 80 per cent participation in the fund drive.

The United Appeal booth at Douglas and Yates yielded a less encouraging figure Saturday—$82—and is staffed today by members of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, a Community Chest agency.

The residential campaign, meanwhile, is within $10,000 of its $68,800 goal, thanks to work of hundreds of volunteer canvassers and organizers.

SUPPORT HOUSEWIFE'S VOTING PETITION

Student Blitz Hits Thursday

One hundred Uvic students will go to war next Thursday—armed with paper and pencil.

The students are taking up the fight started last week by housewife Judy Nyquist, 1849 Carnarvon.

They will petition for a change in election procedure to allow hospital patients to vote outside their own constituency.

Members of the Alma Mater Society, the students will stage a one-night blitz, knocking on doors to gather names for Mrs. Nyquist's petition.

Meanwhile, several people up-Island have offered to collect names in their own district.

When complete, the petitions will go to Ottawa.

Mrs. Nyquist would like to see mobile polling booths in each hospital on federal election nights.

These would be taken bed to bed. Patients registered in another polling district should be given an absentee vote, claims Mrs. Nyquist.

'BOTH GOING TO DIE'

A woman collapsed in court today after telling of a beating she received Saturday from her common-law husband.

Doris Cloke, 3945 Rainbow, collapsed at the courtroom door after testifying how she was dragged down her basement stairs at knifepoint while her life was threatened.

The husband, William J. Falconer, who pleaded guilty to the assault, was remanded in custody to Nov. 23 for sentence.

Before leaving the prisoner's box he said: "I'm thoroughly ashamed."

"And so you should be," added Magistrate J. A. Byers.

Mrs. Cloke testified that while she was watching the Jackie Gleason show on television she heard a commotion downstairs.

"But I didn't go down because I knew Bill was drinking.

'GOING TO DIE'

"Later, after the June Taylor dancers, Bill pulled me downstairs by the hair and said 'We're both going to die tonight.' Bill had the knife . . . he said he was going to kill me.

"My baby (six years old) was screaming so hard that my boys came down and tried to telephone the police, but the phone wires had been cut.

"I was trying to keep away from him and while he was breaking all the cupboards and dishes the knife fell, and my baby, she grabbed the knife and hid it."

When police finally arrived after the son notified them both parties had left the house.

Falconer was later arrested while driving his car.

Mrs. Cloke testified she has been living with Falconer for the the past six years.

Newspaper Hearing Promised

Greater Victoria School Board may be beset by eager students wanting their own inter-high newspaper—but board members are in the dark about it.

A student delegation planned to lay the case before the board some time this week.

The board meeting is tonight.

But if the students are coming, nobody has been told.

Asked if school trustees would receive the students tonight, district superintendent of schools John Gough said, "I don't know a thing about it."

"NOT EVASIVE"

"I'm not being evasive," he added. "But none has come to me officially."

A student spokesman said today a delegation, including representatives from the University of Victoria student council and the student newspaper The Martlett, is planning to attend the meeting.

SQUELCHED

They want to protest the school board's alleged squelching of an idea for an inter-high school newspaper.

But they had not informed the board they planned to attend the meeting.

Said school board secretary-treasurer Tom Christie, "I don't know a thing about it."

If they do appear at the meeting "I think they should have a hearing," said board chairman John Porteous.

New Pavilion At Windsor To Get Priority

Construction of a new pavillion and caretaker's quarters for Windsor Park will be high on Oak Bay's 1966 parks budget priority list.

This was decided Saturday by council's works, parks and traffic committee after looking at facilities.

Estimated cost of the project will be $40,000.

On their tour Couns. Bill Wade, Mrs. Frances Elford and Douglas Watts also looked at a proposed subdivision site on Midland Road, inspected a safety problem at the Elgin Street municipal yard and checked Oak Bay marina where a screen is to be erected to hide the marine railway.

TOP BAG THIS YEAR? Mead Hepworth thinks so. The 30-year-old truck driver of 5440 Fowler, Saanich, dropped this 198-pound buck with one shot from a .300 Weatherby magnum at the weekend. The majestic 10-pointer wasn't the only kill by Mead and his father, George, of 5412 Fowler. Hunting in the Port Renfrew area, they returned home with three deer to their credit. Although no official records are kept of deer weights, several from Vancouver Island have been weighed in at 220 pounds-plus. (Jim Ryan photo)

Safecracking Try At Victoria High

Several dollars in change were stolen from a teacher's desk in a break-in at Victoria Secondary School at the weekend.

The thieves also knocked the dial from the office safe but did not gain entry.

Innocence Plea In Baby's Death

An attractive 25-year-old mother pleaded not guilty in Victoria Law Courts today to killing her six-month-old daughter, Kimberlie.

The decomposed body of the baby was found in her mother's bedroom soon after midnight on July 3.

Before a 12-man Assize Court jury, Mrs. Mary Jean Bilton, 3128 Cook Street, sat demurely with hands folded in the dock while three charges were read.

The first was assault causing death; the second criminal negligence causing death; the third causing bodily harm.

Her counsel, Robert Weir, answered "not guilty" to all three.

Roger Walker, appearing for the B.C. attorney-general's department, told the jury the child had apparently been dead for two weeks when it was found in a cot, a few feet from where Mrs. Bilton slept.

The body was found by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bley, 3128 Cook Street, for whom Mrs. Bilton worked as housekeeper.

The Bleys noticed a strong odor coming from Mrs. Bilton's bedroom. They went into the room and found the baby under some blankets covering the cot.

Police were called and, while they were examining the cot, Mrs. Bilton returned home. She was taken into custody soon after.

Mr. Walker said Mrs. Bilton entered the service of the Bleys on May 12. She brought the baby with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Bley said the child appeared healthy and well cared for, and they found Mrs. Bilton a very satisfactory housekeeper.

'PERFORMED WELL'

"She performed her duties well. She kept the house neat and tidy and she looked after the baby very well," Mr. Walker said.

The Bleys went to San Francisco on vacation on June 19 and left Mrs. Bilton in charge of the house.

They reported that, on their return, everything in their home seemed normal. Mrs. Bilton carried out her housekeeping duties in the normal way and continued to sleep in her bedroom as usual.

"They had no suspicion anything was wrong until they noticed the peculiar odor emanating from Mrs. Bilton's bedroom," Mr. Walker said.

The hearing continues this afternoon. Louis Lindholm is crown prosecutor. Mr. Weir and Gerald Sinnott are appearing for the accused.

Funeral Held For Former Island Trustee

Funeral rites were held recently in Nelson for former Victoria and Long Beach resident Dundas Kerr.

The 80-year-old man had lived at 2630 Arbutus, in Saanich, for the past nine years.

Before that he lived at Long Beach on Vancouver Island's west coast.

While there, he was warden of All Saints Church and a school trustee for many years.

An active Conservative, he was also keen on yachting, golfing and cricket.

Born in Church-in-Oswaldtwistle, Lancashire, England, he pioneered the fruit growing industry in the Kootenay area before coming to Vancouver Island.

He is survived by the widow Dorothy, of Nelson, a daughter, Mrs. D. H. T. Mollison, of Victoria, and five sisters in England.

Frostbiters Foiled

Winds proved too strong for Royal Victoria Yacht Club frostbite sailors Saturday and racing was cancelled.

A new race, between the clubhouse and Oak Bay Marina, was to have been inaugurated.

Next weekend RVYC frostbiters will hold their club championship races for the month of November.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lowman

Anyone for instant exercise? We have instant coffee and instant foods. Who knows? Maybe we will soon have instant people! What about isometric exercise? What is it. How did it all start? What can it really do for a woman's figure?

In the first place isometric exercise is not new. It has been used in therapy in some form for many years. As early as in 1920s scientists were studying muscles and the effect activity and inactivity had on them. There is the very interesting story of the frog. I have read two versions, but maybe there were two different studies. In any event, the idea and the result were the same.

In one study the legs of some frogs were tied together for a fairly long time. When the restraining bindings were removed it was discovered that the legs of the frogs had developed amazingly. In another instance one leg was tied down while the other was left free. The muscles of the bound leg underwent much greater development than those of the leg which was free to kick. The straining against the binding, which was an immovable object, was an isometric exercise.

In 1953 Hettinger and Muller, two physiologists, applied this principle to humans. Their study showed that intense contraction of a muscle against a fixed object could increase the strength of the muscle five per cent in a week. Some investigators were even more enthusiastic. Anyway there seems to be no doubt that this is a rapid way to develop muscles and tone flabby tissue.

From then on isometrics have been used by champion swimmers and track stars, by Olympic stars, by pennant-winning teams and by marines in boot camp. They have been used extensively as therapy in physical rehabilitation and also have been used with success with geriatric patients. Too, they have been found to be valuable for those who have had to wear a cast for some time.

NOW ISOMETRICS ARE BEING USED TO BEAUTIFY THE FEMININE FORM DIVINE. This form of exercise has an exciting place in figure control. For the next two days I will be telling you more about that!

If you would like to have my new booklet which gives you isometric exercises I have selected especially for women, send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Not Guilty!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently read some advice in your column which just didn't sound like you, and it's bothered me ever since. A mother who signed "Out-maneuvred" asked what to do about her two little boys, ages four and five, who'd sneak out of their beds in search of "goodies" after the family had retired. They'd get into the cupboards and refrigerator and help themselves to whatever was available. You told that mother to take the door off the boys' room and install a metal gate, which could be opened only from the outside. Abby, I'm surprised at you. You should have told her it was time she started to discipline her boys. A mother can't lock up her kids until they leave for college.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: That advice didn't "sound like me," because I didn't write it. (It must have appeared in another column.) I wouldn't have told a mother to LOCK UP her kids because, if a fire should break out, it could be disastrous. There are some crimes for which people are sentenced to "burn"—but raiding the refrigerator is not one of them.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would say something to those merchants who start in with Christmas the day after Halloween. They should be ashamed of themselves for using the natal day of our Lord to boost their sales! Why, I haven't even started to plan my Thanksgiving when I have Christmas things shoved in front of me. With a two-month running start, Christmas is all worn out before it even gets here.

DISGUSTED.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard so many people complain that the merchants are starting so early to cash in on the Christmas season that Christmas has become just one big commercial sales promotion. Abby, I for one am so thankful that Christmas gifts, wrappings and ribbons are available in October because that's when I have to do my Christmas shopping. I have a son and daughter-in-law in Japan, and if they're to get their Christmas gifts in time, I must mail them no later than November. I couldn't enjoy my Christmas at home knowing my children were alone in a foreign country without their gifts. Please tell your readers not to think the merchants are trying to make all they can out of Christmas. They are making it possible for parents to give their children in faraway lands a merry Christmas.

AIR FORCE MOM.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PERPLEXED": No, it's not some newfangled custom: neither is it proper to send a gift with the price tag and sales slip enclosed. Had this occurred only once, I would assume it was a case of careless clerkmanship. But since you've received three such gifts from the same party on three separate occasions, you may assume that it was intentional. (Could the giver be trying to tell you something?)

If You Have Sense, Surprise With Scents

By Penny Saver

Around the Christmas season last year, a friend of mine was undergoing cobalt treatments. Unfortunately, one is not allowed to take a bath when taking these treatments, so my friend suffered silently. Her doctor set the date for the first bath for December 24. Hubby, patient and understanding, and very generous, purchased a series of perfumes, bath oils, talcum powders, and all other necessary luxury bath articles so that his dear wife would feel refreshed on Christmas morning. Then the doctor changed the date of my friend's first bath to December 26. C'est la vie.

I am hoping that none of you are undergoing cobalt treatments, or that you haven't had a bath for a long while, but the case in point is the fact that my friend's hubby had quite a time shopping for all these items. I shopped on my last excursion with people in the same predicament in mind.

A bath set of delicate English lavender sold in one store for $3.25. This includes rich, lavender soap, and soft, sweet-scented talcum powder.

Another lavender bath set, which sold for $8.50, contained cologne, two bars of soap, and talcum powder.

Red rose-scented cologne and soap sells at $1.85 the set. Any woman will love the soft scent, which is so reminiscent of moonlit gardens.

A box of three bars of red rose soap sells at $1.25 the box. All women like surprises. Why not bring her one tonight on the way home from work?

This shop also carries a large stock of vibrant perfumes. A flaming autumn scent sells for $5 the bottle. See the gypsy rise out of your lady when you present her with a majestic perfume selling at $4.50 the bottle.

Does your wife like surprises? Give Penny a call at 382-3131.

ARBUTUS TOASTMISTRESS CLUB

Education Theme for Meeting

The theme, "A Vital Issue, Education," was used when the Arbutus Toastmistress Club met in the Blue Room. Mrs. A. M. Reid gave the inspiration and Mrs. D. E. Pite was table topic mistress. She suggested four embarrassing social situations and asked Mrs. F. M. Dearman, Mrs. R. S. Butt, Mrs. G. L. Cook and Mrs. H. J. Wende to give the most tactful solutions to each of the problems involved.

Mrs. J. L. Brens introduced toastmistress Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge. Mrs. M. F. Dearman outlined the history of toastmistress activities in a speech, "Then and Now."

Giving speeches were Mrs. F. R. Pitcross, "First Things First"; Mrs. H. L. Clarkson, "A Means to All Ends"; Mrs. R. H. Doore, "A First Lesson," and Mrs. S. M. McCulloch, who gave an impromptu speech on "University Education Free for All Canadians."

General evaluator Mrs. W. A. Ludlow presented the Spur to Mrs. Doore and the Oscar to Mrs. Clarkson. Mrs. T. F. Howe gave the vote of thanks, while the closing thought was delivered by Mrs. Harry Winstone.

Toys and handy articles for household use will be among the featured items, Tuesday, when the Sandringham Private Hospital holds a tea sale in the hospital, 1650 Fort Street. Also featured will be taste-tempting home cooking, made by staff members. Proceeds from the event, beginning at 2 p.m., are earmarked for the United Appeal. Above, Mrs. J. A. Roberts, supervisor, admires some of the articles shown by patients who made the items to be sold.

Wears Groom's Gift For Service

LOIS NEUFELD MARRIED

A diamond and pearl pendant, gift of the groom, was the only jewelry worn by Lois Neufeld when she became the bride of Frederick Harding Reed in St. Michael's and All Angels Church.

The bridal gown, made by the bride's mother, was of pink-toned peau de soie, styled along empire lines. The bodice featured sleeves ending in lily points. A coronet of seed pearls and crystals held her shoulder-length veil of illusion net. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and ivy entwined.

Soloist Mrs. Helen Graham sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Chrysanthemums in white and mauve tones and white candles decorated the altar when Canon J. Rogers heard marriage vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Neufeld, 5427 Fowler Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. F. Reed, 740 Claremont Avenue. Mr. Neufeld gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's attendants, matron of honor, Mrs. M. Palfrey, and bridesmaid, Miss Rose-Marie Neufeld, sisters of the principals, wore floor-length gowns of mauve peau de charm, with matching wedding ring headpieces. They carried crescent bouquets of white chrysanthemums. Crystal necklaces, gifts of the bride, completed their ensembles.

Leighton Palfrey was best man at the ceremony, and guests were ushered by Nelson, Bryan and John Neufeld, brothers of the bride.

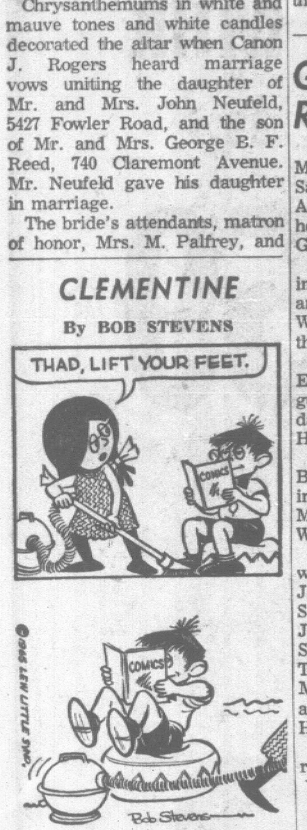
At the reception following in Holyrood House, George Robinson proposed the toast to the bride. A wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, centred the candle-lit bride's table.

An off-white suit with a turquoise hat and black patent accessories, and green cymbidium orchid en corsage, was chosen by the bride to travel on honeymoon to California.

When they return, the couple will live at 975 Dumac Road.

CLEMENTINE

By BOB STEVENS



Ganges Bazaar Raises $350

The sum of $350 was realized, Monday afternoon, when the Salt Spring Island branch, Old Age Pensioners' Organization, held a fall bazaar in St. George's Hall, Ganges.

A bouquet of chrysanthemums in the group's colors of gold and blue was presented to Mrs. Warren Hastings, who opened the affair, by Juanita Hogan.

General convener was Mrs. Elsie Thacker. Receiving the guests were president H. Goddard and Archdeacon G. H. Holmes.

Convening the tea was Mrs. B. L. Krebs, who was assisted in serving by Mrs. S. Kitchener, Mrs. Frank Hayward and Mrs. W. H. Van Buskirk.

In charge of the various stalls were Mrs. A. W. Barber, Mrs. J. Thompson and Mrs. W. H. Saunders, home baking; Mrs. Jean Proctor and Mrs. E. Sampson, needlework; Mrs. Thacker, Christmas novelties; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bostock, and Mrs. Nels Westin and Mrs. H. Ashby, tickets.

Mrs. R. Rutter convened the raffle.

Vancouver Pianist Wins Fame

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pianist Andrea Kalanj modestly declares she's just an "ordinary girl," and the Canada Council apparently believes her.

The council has twice turned down her applications for scholarships. But music authorities in the Soviet Union and Belgium like her kind of ordinariness. She has won scholarships in both countries, and it may be in Europe that she first scores as a concert pianist.

The 20-year-old beauty has been away from her Vancouver home for the last year, living on a shoestring in Brussels to attend the Belgium Royal Conservatory of Music.

A recent telegram informed her parents that she had won a Belgian government scholarship expected to provide living expenses and tuition until she wins her Diploma Superior in December, 1966.

Six years ago, as a performer at the International Youth Festival, she was invited to make a tour of the U.S.S.R. During the tour she played at the Kiev Conservatory. Delighted conservatory directors offered her a scholarship to undertake their five-year program. She did, in 1960, and graduated three years later.

LAKE COWICHAN

Woman Chairman Promises Fight

By DON DINGWALL

LAKE COWICHAN — There's going to be a municipal battle of the sexes here.

Nelson Laforge said Sunday he will contest chairmanship of the village commission.

And encumbent Mrs. Mildred Child said she will not give up the chair without a fight.

Mr. Laforge, a commissioner the past nine years, said: "There's been a lack of leadership on the commission and I'm prepared to tackle the job."

"OTHER PLANS"

There has been speculation about a contest since Mr. Laforge resigned in October.

At the time he only said: "I have other plans."

A construction foreman in the woods, Mr. Laforge has been chairman of public works during the whole time he has been on the commission.

Mrs. Child is being opposed for the first time in six years as chairman. She has served seven years on the commission.

Mrs. Child is senior clerk in Lake Cowichan School Board office.

★

Chemainus storekeeper Tommy Kay will have a second try for election to the municipal council.

Mr. Kay was an unsuccessful candidate two years ago.

Election interest is growing, and ex-councillor Stan Dyke of Crofton said today: "I'm still trying to make up my mind whether to run.

'OUT OF HAND'

"I think it's time to try and keep down the taxes which are getting out of hand in the Crofton district."

Another ex-councillor William Bowles of Chemainus took out nomination papers last week.

But this morning he said: "I've changed my mind. I will not be contesting the election."

Sitting members Mrs. Elaine Dobbyn, John Cannon and Reginald Clegg are all seeking re-election.

ISLAND DIGEST

Emergency Phone Staff Recommended

PORT ALBERNI—Fire Chief Maurice Smith has urged city council to support a full-time emergency telephone staff in the valley.

Mr. Smith told council the present system — all operator calls go through Nanaimo—can lead to waste of valuable minutes.

He suggested it may one day save a life to employ a staff to man an emergency telephone number.

The controversy was brought to the fore recently when a mother whose baby was choking called through to Nanaimo. Seconds were wasted when the Nanaimo inhalator was called out instead of the Alberni one.

Meanwhile, the mother had taken the baby to hospital herself.

B.C. Telephone Co. says it cannot install a national emergency number. But individual areas can have their own number if taxpayers pay the cost.

$7,000 Short

NANAIMO — This district's United Appeal campaign is still $7,000 short of its $67,000 target —and there's just one week to go.

The Nanaimo fund supports 18 member organizations.

WANTED: FIREMAN, FIRE

500 Chiefs, No Indians

By TERRY IZZARD

The world's smallest fire brigade at Sproat Lake is just one man short—a fireman.

Officials discovered the omission at the weekend when the brigade's first fire-fighting equipment arrived.

Now Sproat Lake, near Alberni, boasts more fire chiefs than the City of New York, and not a fire-fighter among them.

To be precise, there are 500 chiefs. Each paid $5 to lay claim to the title.

Head chief Bob McPherson admitted today: "We've not found a fireman yet. But we're working on it."

WELCOMED BY HUNDREDS

Mr. McPherson, 49, was among the hundreds who turned out Saturday to welcome Mabel — the brigade's first fire truck—when she arrived in downtown Alberni.

Also there was Port Alberni mayor Les Hammer and a representative from Alberni council.

In pouring rain, officials welcomed Mabel with the pomp and glory usually afforded distinguished visitors.

Mabel—a tiny four-wheeled jeep—hardly looked the part.

COST $500

But then what can you expect for $500.

Bought from Vancouver city, she will stand idle in Sproat Lake's new fire hall until someone can be found to drive her.

Meanwhile, the smallest fire brigade may soon lose claim to its title.

Mr. McPherson revealed plans for further expansion.

FIRE BOAT

A fire boat is already under construction and could be in action next spring.

The boat — cost as yet unknown — is needed to protect houses not easily reached by road.

After that, all that's needed is a fire.

THIEVES RAID FREEZER

DUNCAN — Charles Davis has a real "beef" about his weekend—or rather he has no beef.

On returning home from Victoria Sunday, Mr. Davis and his wife discovered their deep freeze had been cleaned out.

Stolen was 100 pounds of cut and wrapped beef.

The deep freeze sits on the Davis' back porch.

Mrs. Davis said today: "They took everything out of it, even the dog bones."

Janitors Alert, Two Face Charge

DUNCAN — Janitors Maurice Brenton and Bob Reader were working in a local cafe 3:15 Sunday morning when they saw two youths trying to jemmy open Hank's Hideaway men's wear store.

A quick call to RCMP and half-an-hour later two boys were in a cell.

Two youths were to appear in court later today charged with attempted breaking and entering.

DEEP-SEA SHIPS IN PORTS

(All cargo is lumber unless otherwise stated. Place names are destination and not port of registry.)

Conservation Measures Proposed by Indian Chief

A victorious Vancouver Island Indian chief today called on his people to establish conservation measures to protect wildlife.

Chief Wilson Bob Jr. was commenting on a Supreme Court of Canada decision that British Columbia game laws do not apply to Vancouver Island Indians.

Chief Bob, of the Nanoose tribe, is president of the South Vancouver Island Allied Tribes which financed the two years of litigation by two Indians that led to the court decision.

* * *

"The fact that we have made this great gain means the Indian people of B.C. will now have to perform in a manner that will be to their advantage with respect to hunting and fishing conservation," the chief said.

He said Indians basically hunt for food and are not interested in hunting for sport.

"Our people prefer venison and fish to domestic food.

"We sacrificed our lands for these rights. We will now appeal to the Indians of B.C. to get their heads together and establish conservation measures."

* * *

The Supreme Court ruled on the case of Clifford White and David Bob, both of the Sarlequin tribe near Nanaimo, convicted of illegal possession of six deer carcasses near Nanaimo two weeks after the close of the hunting season. David Bob is a cousin of Chief Bob.

The court said the game laws do not apply to V.I. Indians because of treaties with the Indians signed in 1854 by Sir James Douglas, factor of the Hudson's Bay Company and governor of Vancouver Island.

First Supermart For Tahsis Folk

TAHSIS — The age of the camp store will be gone forever with the opening of B.C.'s first backwoods supermarket here Tuesday.

B.C. Co-operative Wholesale Society, throws open the doors of its chromium-plated building to mark the end of an era.

For the first time, loggers and their wives will share the same conveniences enjoyed by city dwellers.

No longer will they have to make the trip to Campbell River to buy the little luxuries a camp store couldn't provide.

Instead they can pick up their trolley at the door and shop around the 9,000 square feet floor space provided by the new building.

Situated in the shopping centre complex being developed by Delta Properties Ltd., of Vancouver, the supermarket replaces the former cramped store it occupied in the town.

In addition to normal supermarket grocery facilities, the store will feature a hardware and dry goods department.

It will be staffed by about a dozen people under manager Russ Shortridge.

BOOKED!

DUNCAN—A thief left the Kokilah home of S. P. Deroche in such haste he left his books behind—school books.

The books led the the arrest of a 16-year-old boy who was in juvenile court here Saturday morning.

The youth admitted four charges of housebreaking and was remanded for a pre-sentence probation report.

A radio and some beer was stolen from the Deroche house.

DEATH PROBED

PORT HARDY—An Indian woman's body was being taken to Nanaimo for inspection by a pathologist today after police found her dead aboard her husband's boat.

RCMP have not ruled out foul play in the death of Alice Henderson, 42, of Tsulquate Indian reserve near Port Hardy.

Mrs. Henderson met her death Saturday night aboard her husband's gillnetter tied up at the government wharf.

Police, called to the scene by the woman's older daughter, said there had apparently been a party aboard the boat.

Self-Destruction Bid Gets Cheer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—As two dozen onlookers cheered him, a Nashville man set himself afire in what police later called an apparent protest "against those who protest against the war in Viet Nam."

Carl Lee Bibee, 25, who doused himself with gasoline Friday night, was admitted to hospital for psychiatric examination. Police said one of those identified as having cheered Bibee was charged with drunkeness.

Police said Bibee suffered only minor burns—apparently saved from more serious injury by a heavy sweater he was wearing. Two unidentified men used a fire extinguisher to douse the flames.

Police said Bibee, recently separated from his wife, stood on a parking lot and threatened to douse himself with a gallon of gasoline purchased from a nearby garage.

"Go ahead," shouted the onlookers. "Set it afire!"

Bibee upended the can of gasoline, officers said, soaked himself and touched a match to his clothing. Officers said part of the crowd gasped, the rest cheered—as the two unidentified men rushed up with fire extinguishers.

Officers charged Bibee with disorderly conduct.

INTERPRETED DREAMS

The Huron and Iroquois Indians interpreted dreams as secret desires 300 years before Sigmund Freud invented psychoanalysis.

IMMOLATION PRECAUTIONS TAKEN AT UN

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York City police department has taken precautionary steps to cope with any further protest immolations at the United Nations.

Fire extinguishers and blankets have been installed at a police booth across the street from the UN headquarters and a police emergency truck has been permanently assigned to a post in front of the building.

The precautionary steps were initiated after pacifist Roger la Porte set himself on fire last Tuesday in front of the United Nations as a protest against war. La Porte died Wednesday at Bellevue Hospital.

Tampering Charges Made At Quebec Vote Hearing

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — A charge of ballot-box tampering and threats of legal action were made today prior to an official count of votes in the Eastern Townships' riding of Shefford.

The charges were made by Paul Trepanier, mayor of Granby and Progressive Conservative candidate who won the seat Nov. 8 by nine votes and then lost it last Saturday to Liberal Louis-Paul Neveu when the service vote was counted.

In an interview Mr. Trepanier said he had evidence a number of ballot boxes had been tampered with and unless he stopped the counting today he would take "every legal action available to him up to and including the supreme court."

"If I do not win today then I will demand a recount—if I still do not win then I will do everything possible to have a byelection so that the true results will not be hidden by the shenanigans that have taken place with some of the boxes in this election."

Creditiste Gilbert Rondeau won the seat in 1962 with a majority of 2,851 and in 1963 with a majority of 276. He was third this time.

The Liberals, with Shefford, would have 56 Quebec seats, while the Conservative total in Quebec would be eight. The Creditistes had nine after Nov. 8 and there are two independents.

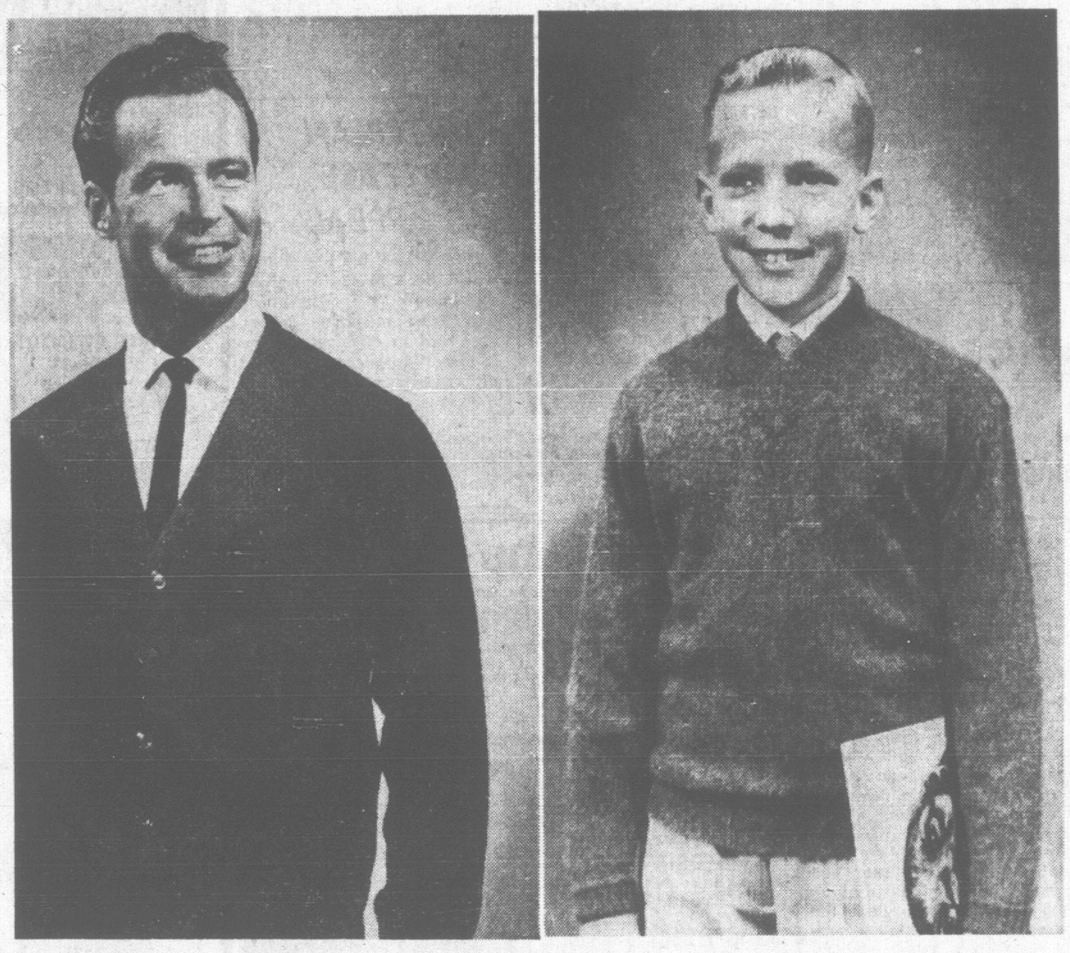
man to man talk about dry cleaning



Fashions Featured Are From the Bay Victoria and why it pays to go first class

A man well groomed is a man admired. He reflects good taste and, what is perhaps more important, good judgment. He is a man people like to meet.

Some men have as many as ten suits in their wardrobe. Others only have two or three. But there's no reason to suppose that the one can't always be as well groomed as the other.

The answer to keeping a suit, coat or jacket looking its best is regular dry cleaning. Not the ordinary kind but the skilled, knowledgeable, careful kind as practised by Nelsons-New Method.

This unique dry cleaning operation offers you many worthwhile advantages. For one thing Nelsons-New Method is the only firm in Victoria with Daisy-Fresh Dry Cleaning—a scientific process that protects the fabric as it cleans the garment. For another, Nelsons-New Method keeps up-to-date on all the many styles and materials, colors and patterns. Special solvents are formulated for special fabrics. Spots, stains, and repairs are given individual care and attention. No detail is overlooked. And no operator is allowed to skimp on time or material.

When your garment is returned, it will reflect not only unexcelled quality and workmanship but respect for your good judgment.

It's a service you can trust.

'Stupid' Hunters Shooting Swans

VANCOUVER (CP) — The curator of the Stanley Park Zoo here said Saturday that British Columbia hunters are shooting protected whistler swans.

Alan Best brought one wounded bird to the zoo Friday. The bird was wounded in the head and neck.

"I fear many more swans will be shot if hunters are not warned," he said.

He said the migrating whistler swans usually fly south on the east side of the Rockies, but this year a large number are coming down the west side of the mountains. He speculates that a storm may have blown them off course.

"They (hunters) shoot at the swans mainly through stupidity," he said. "They shoot at anything that flies . . . although this doesn't apply to all hunters."

The zoo is also caring for three other whistler swans found in an emaciated condition in various parts of the Fraser Valley. Mr. Best said the birds were not used to looking for food in this area.

53 ENTRIES

Veteran Trail Riders Continue Win Sweep

Only two of 53 entries let prospects of dirty weather keep them at the hitching post when Garden City Horsemen's Club held a competitive trail ride Sunday at Beaver Lake.

As it turned out, wet weather gear was not needed by the 17 juniors and 34 senior riders who headed into the bush, and the event was considered "tops."

After being judged for condition of horse and equipment being used, the riders started out from the Beaver Lake Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jewell to follow a marked trail and be judged individually at man-made and natural obstacles.

The course took about an hour and a half to ride and judging spots included stream crossings, mud-greasy gullies, log barriers, dead-end trail where backing was required and gates.

The riders started off at two-minute intervals, and when they got back to the starting point the condition of their horses was judged again.

VETERANS WIN

The first four top spots in the senior section of the ride went to veteran trail riders, the first three of whom were "in the money" a few weeks ago in a similar contest by Colwood Trail Riders at Metchosin Mountain.

In first place again was Heather Rimmer of Metchosin riding her old reliable Mickey. In second place was Dick Gook of Mount Douglas on Caesar; in third Merle Rimmer on Triggett and in fourth, Dave Johnson of West Saanich on King-Go-Boy.

There were 22 women and 12 men in the senior section.

JUNIOR SECTION

In the junior, 16 years and under, there were 10 girls and seven boys, and there were five awards:

First, Ricky Gook on Ginger; second, Greg Baker on Tarkie; third, Sharon Smith on Kitten; fourth, Karen Foyer on Max; fifth, Dave Adams on Chief Buttons.

In addition to trophies and prizes, the junior winners received passes to a two-day seminar on horse care to be held next weekend at the Union Centre, Quadra Street, under University of B.C. extension department and SPCA sponsorship.

Prize presentation took place during a hot picnic supper prepared and served by members of the Garden City club at a huge bonfire at the Jewell farm.

THE COLLECTOR
Adult Entertainment
Odeon Theatre

This rather morbid film is brilliantly directed by William Wyler, with superb acting by Semantha Eggar and Terence Stamp and a sinister musical score by Maurice Jarre which heightens the bizarre atmosphere.

It tells of an English municipal clerk whose warped dreams of conquest lead him to acquire feminine companionship on his own terms. He collects butterflies in his off-hours until he wins $200,000 in a football pool and is then able to indulge his wildest fancies.

He buys a remote country house, converts its basement into a kind of gilded cage and kidnaps Miranda, a London art student whose beauty has enraptured him from afar.

Imprisoned in the basement, Miranda tries desperately to gain her freedom and, eventually, he promises to release her if she will adopt a more friendly attitude towards him.

Terence Stamp successfully creates the impression of a demented man who seems intent on extinguishing living beauty, and Semantha Eggar is harrowingly realistic in the role of the terrified girl.

This is not everyone's choice of entertainment. But the suspenseful story holds interest on high and the rather distasteful theme is handled with sympathy and restraint.

SHIP OF FOOLS
Royal Theatre

Producer-director Stanley Kramer juggles a huge cast in the style of a master puppeteer. All the action takes place aboard a German liner in the fateful year of 1933, and Kramer skilfully manipulates his characters according to mood and circumstance.

His cameras flit from one set of character to another so that the viewer is never permitted to settle down with any one group for long, and the transitions are startlingly dramatic.

The whole sequence adds up to a revealing commentary on the personal problems of an oddly assorted company of passengers.

Vivien Leigh is a divorced Virginia belle, fleeing from middle age; Lee Marvin, a fading ball player from Texas; Elizabeth Ashley and George Segal, young American artists who occupy separate cabins in an effort to prove their attraction is more than physical.

Jose Ferrer plays an anti-semitic German publisher and Michael Dunn is delightful as a puckish dwarf who views the tangled lives of his fellow passengers with a kindly detachment.

His philosophy could well be that of Katherine Ann Porter, who wrote the novel on which the film is based.

Poet Says University Dangerous for Artist

CALGARY (CP)—A university education is a public necessity for anyone with the capacity to absorb it but it "carries real dangers for the artist," Dr. Alfred Earle Birney of Vancouver said at the University of Alberta, Calgary, convocation Saturday.

Dr. Birney, a professor of English at the University of British Columbia, said the English and literature honors program increased his knowledge of the literature written before his time "at the cost of keeping me ignorant of the rest of the world's literature."

The professor was given an honorary doctorate of laws.

He asked the crowd of more than 1,000 to be tolerant of his "skepticisms born of 20 years teachings in North American institutions."

In time to come, he said, there will be a demand "as never before" for the creative artist and entertainer who can enlarge rather than blunt the imaginations of the new leisure class which will be caused by the increasing numbers of the unskilled or less uneducatable.

The educated, he declared, won't be able to aid the upcoming uneducated leisure class if "your own creativity has been put to sleep."

HUNGARIAN STRIPTEASE HAS APPEAL

BUDAPEST (AP) — People would flock to see a reverse striptease "the Hungarian way," the magazine Logobo predicted in offering an idea it calls "dresstease." Instead of a stripper peeling down toward nudity in the grand finale, the girl would start "rather naked," Lobogo said, and end up clad in all the latest fashions.

RCN Officers' Group Tours Grilse, Ships

Executives of the Naval Officers' Associations of Canada today toured ships and establishments of HMC Dockyard.

The members of the association's board of directors arrived here on the weekend for their annual meeting.

The 10 delegates represent associations of RCN commissioned officers located across the country.

Their schedule included a tour of HMCS Grilse, now in refit, and a look through the ocean escort HMCS Antigonish and the destroyer escort HMCS Mackenzie.

They also toured HMC Dockyard, the Naden fleet school and had lunch in HMCS Naden wardroom.

Sunday the delegates attended a special service in Esquimalt Garrison Church to commemorate the Battle of Coronel.

The battle, fought between British and German navies off the coast of Chile in the First World War, claimed the lives of four Canadian midshipmen.

Ex-Uvic Man Gets Degree In Colorado

A former Victorian, Walter Thumm, has received a post-graduate degree in teaching from an American college.

He will receive his master of arts diploma from Colorado College, Colorado Springs, at the annual commencement exercises in May.

The degree was awarded for Mr. Thumm's work in physics, completed last August.

Mr. Thumm was an instructor in the education faculty of the University of Victoria from 1960 to 1964. On leaving he took a position with the B.C. Insctitute of Technology in Burnaby.

Apartment Decision Tonight

Oak Bay council is expected to decide tonight on an application to rezone the old Mountain View Home site to apartments.

Decision on the proposal has been deferred from the past two meetings.

But Reeve Allan Cox indicated at the last meeting a report was available from the citizens' zoning and planning advisory committee.

A public hearing was held on the issue in October when residents protested an apartment block would devaluate near-by properties.

Others spoke in favor of the idea as long as they would not be affected by the traffic increase by tenants.

The proposal would allow construction of apartments on the site not exceeding four storeys above the highest ground elevation.

The property is owned by the city of Victoria.

SQUARE-DANCERS GO HAWAIIAN

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Grass skirts replaced flounces and crinolines Saturday night, and leis hung around necks more used to string ties.

"Aloha, pardner!" was the greeting as the Squarecrows, one of the 22 active square dance groups here, held a Hawaiian night in St. Alban's Church Hall, complete with muu-muus and ukelele music.

Although promenades and do-si-do's didn't give way to the hula, caller Doug George brought a tropical touch to the dance with his mention of "cool breezes that blow on the beach at Waikiki."

BARE FEET

Dance garb for the evening included everything from beachcombers to bathing suits, with sandals instead of dancing slippers and several sets of bare feet.

A good sport award should have gone to dancer Robert McLaughlin, whose wife left the night before for a vacation in Hawaii.

"Some people just won't take a substitute," said Mr. McLaughlin, wearing sports shirt and lei.

For caller Doug George and his wife Joan, it was hardly the first unusual square dance in their experience.

"It's a healthy pastime," said Doug, watching the dancers whirl past below the stage where he sets up his records and calls.

"I move around more up here than I would down there," he added after a particularly lively dance.

ONE LESSON AHEAD

Doug, a caller now for about 10 years, learned square dancing first at Port Alberni, teaching the local group the ins and outs of it while he kept one lesson ahead of them.

Now, helped by wife Joan who circulates among the dancers and acts as hostess, he calls for the Squarecrows and the Broken Spokes, holds a round dance class alternate weeks, and teaches two beginners classes for adults and youngsters each week.

With the youngsters, says Joan, there's always the same problem—more girls than boys.

"Right now," says Doug, with a smile, "there are not enough nights in the week."

Enjoyment for both the Georges is taken from teaching people who "don't know their right foot from their left at first."

"And when it gets to be work," says Doug, "I'll quit."

Three Jailed For Theft Of Safe Here

Three men were sentenced to prison Saturday night after bing convicted in Assize Court of breaking into Fairfield Pharmacy, 301 Cook Street, and stealing a safe containing $345 and a quantity of narcotics.

A 12-man jury found them guilty after deliberating more than four hours. The court sat all day Saturday to conclude the four-day trial.

The men were sentenced by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton.

Sidney Travers was sent to jail for three years; Russell Bowcott for 18 months and Gerald Brune for 12 months.

All had pleaded not guilty.

Offers Battalion

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP)—Radio Conakry said in a broadcast here Monday that Guinea has put a battalion of troops at the disposal of the Organization of African Unity for use in possible military action in Rhodesia. The offer was made by President Sekou Toure in a message addressed to the organization's secretary-general, Diallo Telli of Guinea.

Cleric Fears Rhodesian 'Venom' May Spread

The "poison" of racialism in Rhodesia, following the country's unilateral declaration of independence, could spread to other parts of Africa, says Rev. Walter F. McLean of Victoria.

Mr. McLean, son of Rev. J. Lewis McLean, DD, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, made the statement in an address to the Canadian Union of Students meeting in Edmonton, Alta.

He said that, unless the Commonwealth handles the situation carefully "all the preaching about equal rights for all will be flushed down the drain.

"The poison and venom now breeding in Rhodesia can spread to West Africa and other east African nations where there are no racial feelings at the present time."

Mr. McLean returned to his home in Victoria last August after three years' mission work in Nigeria for the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

In an interview he said there was no feeling of white-man superiority in Nigeria.

"Independence has been achieved," he said, "and the government has begun to take its full responsibility in terms of social welfare."

As part of his mission work there, Mr. McLean helped to recruit and organize young missionaries for the Canadian University Service Overseas, and was chapel minister at the University of Nigeria.

He will preach in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Victoria, on Sunday, Dec. 5, before returning to Nigeria.

Before he was ordained to the ministry in 1962, Mr. McLean was president of the student body at the University of Toronto and president of the National Federation of Canadian University Students.

Jame Bay PTA Plans Bake, Sewing Sale

James Bay PTA last week planned a sale of home cooking and sewing at Niagara St. Anglican church hall March 17.

At the meeting, held in South Park School, PTA president Mrs. G. M. Hayhurst was presented with a special award certificate for increased membership.

The provincial government film, Power and the Peace, was screened for the group.

9 IN MEMORIAM

PEAKMAN—In loving memory of Jean James.

The face I loved is now laid low,
His loving voice is still.
The hand so often clasped in mine,
Lies now in death's cold chill.
I often sit and think of him,
When I am all alone;
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.

—Sadly missed by wife, Doris and children, Jamie and Shannon.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY and SON

Italy won the European bridge championship again, with The Netherlands finishing a close second. The bulletins from that tournament show many hands that are worthy of study. Here is one played by the late Johannes Brun of Norway in the 1933 championships.

Opening lead—♦ K.

North's opening club bid would meet with full approval of many modern players. After South responded with one heart and West overcalled with two diamonds, it was hard to stop short of game.

West opened the king of diamonds and shifted to a trump. If he had continued diamonds Brun would have had no trouble with the hand, but the trump lead, plus a trump return by East, left Brun with only nine apparent tricks.

He needed to set up a long suit trick in clubs or spades. He could do that easily enough but would then have no entry to make that last card. Nevertheless, Brun managed to work out a winning play.

He assumed that East's diamond queen had been a singleton, so that East would have started with nine black cards. Then he arbitrarily decided that they would consist of four spades and five clubs.

He pulled East's last trump and discarded a club from dummy. He led a spade to dummy's ace and discarded a diamond on the king. He ruffed a third spade, entered dummy with the ace of clubs, led out a fourth spade and discarded a second diamond when East won the trick.

East had to lead a club to dummy's ace and Brun had manufactured the entry for the fifth spade.

INVEST NOW

In my opinion, the following are good reasons to expect a very decided increase in value of revenue property: Changes in building code, a very decided tightening of mortgage funds plus higher interest rates, making new construction very difficult which naturally increases the value of existing property. Below are some of the samples of good opportunities:

OAK BAY AVE.

10-suite apartment with three extra lots, two fronting on Oak Bay Ave. Revenue from apartment in 1964 was $6,205 with expenses of $2,116.

PEMBERTON ROAD

Almost finished, 11-suite de luxe apartment. Existing financing approx. $90,000. Opportunity to purchase and choose your own tenants. $40,000 cash will handle nicely.

FORT STREET

36-suite apartment now under construction. Excellent location. Existing 78% mortgage at 7%, balance of $85,000. This apartment will not be on the market long.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

ABC-TV has announced some ambitious plans for next season for a regularly scheduled prime-time program to be called "ABC '66."

The network promises works by leading playwrights and musical comedy composers, as well as unusual documentaries and top stars, in its planned 26 original presentations and six repeats.

Among the planned projects are an original comedy about life in New York City by Murray Schisgal, author of the Broadway hit "Luv," and starring the headliner of that play, Alan Arkin. Also a musical comedy about football by Richard Adler, composer of "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees."

There will be a drama, "That First Easter," by Henry Denker, which tells the story of the crucifixion "as seen from the conflicting viewpoints of a rabbi and his son." And another Denker drama, "This Man Called Andros," about the aftermath of the 1956 Hungarian revolution.

Also an Anthony Newley hour of pantomime and music; a musical comedy, "The Flip Side," about today's music industry; a documentary about the wit of the late President Kennedy; a documentary entitled "An Essay on the American Jew"; a program that takes a humorous look at the world of noted director and comedian Mike Nichols.

And a drama, "The Cliff Dwellers," about "interrelated adventures in New York City of seven alumni of an eastern university."

Most of the programs will run an hour, nearly all will be in color at a regular weekly hour which has still to be announced.

We thus have something to look forward to other than the run of comedy drivel which will also fill the screen. ABC-TV is taking a $20-million-dollar plunge with ABC '66, but if only half a dozen of the programs are successful the hours spent watching their development will be worth it.

It is incongruous, therefore, that while it bares its grandiose plans on the one hand, on the other it will debut "Batman," an old comic book character, as a live-action series this January.

And don't think there is any end to that type of program in the works. Twentieth Century-Fox, which sold Batman to ABC-TV, has acquired TV rights to "The Green Hornet," an old radio perennial.

Tigers, King Ed Sparkle

Class will tell, they say, and it told in the Pacific Northwest Field Hockey Conference at Lansdowne on the weekend.

Britannia Tigers, unleashed a strong team including four All-Canada players, and romped through six friendly matches undefeated and unscored on.

Former Aussie halfback Gwen Brockman, goalie Joyce Harris, Margaret Peake and Betty Mantyla all sparkled as the Brits whitewashed Cowichan 4-0 and Mariners "A" 2-0 Sunday. On Saturday, the Tigers mistreated Grasshoppers 3-0, University of Victoria, 1-0, Greyhounds 1-0, and Portland 1-0.

King Edward was equally impressive, rattling off six victories without permitting a goal. The Eddies, with All-Canada players Madeline Gemmill and Elaine Callaghan prominent, blanked Seattle Sea Hawks 4-0 and Grasshoppers 6-0 Sunday. On Saturday the Eddies disposed of Grasshoppers 3-0, Greyhounds 1-0, University of Victoria 1-0, and Cowichan 5-0.

Sea Hawks I also went through the conference undefeated, but Greyhounds held them to a scoreless draw Sunday.

Officials said the conference was a great success despite "Arctic" temperatures and muddy playing fields. This was the first year Victoria was host.

Seattle is the site of the 1966 conference.

YOUR HEALTH

Restaurant Cook Was 'Typhoid Mary'

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

A cook in a restaurant writes that he has been found by health officers to be a sort of "Typhoid Mary," who has been giving paratyphoid fever to some of the people who ate the food he prepared. Now his relatives are afraid to associate with him—but this is foolish. He is likely to give the disease only to people who eat food that he prepares with unwashed hands. He wonders what he can do now to earn his living. Probably he will have to find some work which does not involve his handling of food that people are going to eat.

Alvarez

The health officers found a germ called a salmonella in his bowel, and now the question is, how to get rid of it. Because the germ often lives in the gallbladder, he ought to get himself X-rayed to see if his gallbladder does not work, or perhaps contains stones. If so, it would be well to have the organ removed. Also, the health officers will probably want to see if they can kill the germs with a powerful antibiotic. If they can clear up the infection, he can go back to cooking. He could probably cook safely if he would either never touch food with his hands, or else wear rubber gloves.

"Typhoid Mary" was a cook who, in New York State, would go to work in the summer home of a wealthy man. Within two weeks, several of the people in the home would be down with typhoid fever. When Mary heard that a health officer was on his way to investigate, she would disappear, and go to cook for someone else—and soon several people in the new place would be down with typhoid fever.

Eventually, the health officers caught up with Mary, and got her to promise never to cook again; but soon she broke this promise, and would not behave, and so the health officers built a nice little cottage for her on an island, and there she lived for the rest of her life.

* * *

One of the commonest complaints of children is earache. Many children never have an earache in their whole life, while others often have one with a cold. I have seen this tendency to earaches to run in a family.

Dr. G. Edward Tremble, of Montreal, says that earache should never be treated lightly; in every case the cause should be looked for. Even today, when mastoid infection has been almost wiped out with the help of penicillin, it must still be watched out for, especially in children.

REASONS FOR PAIN

An ache may be due to a boil, or an inflammation in the outer ear canal, and this can easily be seen by looking in. Such an infection should quickly be cleared up by the doctor. Occasionally, wax and foreign bodies in the external canal cause irritation or pain. Herpes (little blisters) or an infection of the ear canal with a mold, or, in older persons, a very rare skin cancer could cause trouble. Pain can be due to an inflamed ear drum, which should be treated. Sometimes there is an inflammation of the middle ear, the so-called otitis media. An earache might be due to an irritation of a nerve in the ear.

If the doctor finds the external canal and the ear drum normal, the source of the pain might be in the lower jaw — perhaps an unerupted wisdom tooth, or a diseased lower molar tooth, or an ill-fitting dental plate, or an inflammation of the salivary gland under the corner of the lower jaw, or a stone in one of the ducts leading out from a salivary gland.

Something wrong with the front of the tongue can sometimes cause pain in front of the ear, while something wrong with the back part of the tongue, can cause an ache in the ear itself. The cause could also be tonsillitis, or an abscess around the tonsil; or it could be something wrong with the palate, or the throat, or the back of the nose.

Pain can be due to arthritis in the joint between the lower jaw and the skull. Some earaches can arise even down in the side of the neck. Highly nervous women in the menopause will sometimes complain of earache, for no apparent reason.

Perjury Case To Be Heard By Top Court

OTTAWA (CP)—The perjury case involving Mr. Justice Adrien Meunier of Quebec Superior Court will be argued before the Supreme Court of Canada under a decision announced today.

The high court granted a motion by the Quebec government to appeal a decision by the Quebec Appeal Court, which quashed Judge Meunier's perjury conviction and ordered a new trial.

The appeal before the supreme court is expected to be heard at the winter term opening Jan. 25.

Judge Meunier, 59, is a former Liberal MP for Montreal Papineau who was convicted in October, 1964, on three counts of perjury arising from evidence he gave at a judicial inquiry into a $64,000 furniture bankruptcy fraud case.

He was sentenced to two years in penitentiary but remained free on $10,000 bail and continued to draw his salary as a judge, although he did not hear any cases after he was charged.

The Quebec Appeal Court ordered a new trial Oct. 22, ruling that the trial judge, Mr. Justice Benoit Turmel of Sherbrooke, made an error of law when he excluded Judge Meunier from the courtroom while the legality of a lawyer's question was being argued.

AOTS to Stage Variety Concert Wednesday Night

DUNCAN — The AOTS Club will stage a variety concert in Duncan United Church hall Wednesday evening at 8 p.m.

Proceeds will go toward furnishing the children's ward of the new Cowichan District Hospital.

Top feature of the program will be the 20-voice AOTS men's choir directed by Norman Duckworth.

Other artists will be folk singer Murray MacAlpine; tenor soloist Peter Yelland; soprano soloist Sylvia Furneau. (1965 Cowichan music festival aggregate prize winner); and the Elgar Choir trio of Laurel Gourlay, Donalee McDonald and Carol Daniels.

Coroner Still Waiting For Test Results

Decision on an inquest into the death of John Perry, 65, of 2623 Fifth Street, will not be made until the results of a post-mortem examination are known, Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said on the weekend.

Mr. Perry died shortly before midnight Friday when his car slammed into the rear of a truck parked on Erie Street.

At the present time experts in Vancouver are making tests in an attempt to determine if Mr. Perry suffered a heart attack prior to the accident.

When the tests are completed Coroner St. Jorre will decide on further action.

Stadium Grants To Be Sought On Tuesday

Formal application for provincial and federal centennial project grants to Greater Victoria probably will be made on Tuesday at a meeting of the B.C. projects committee.

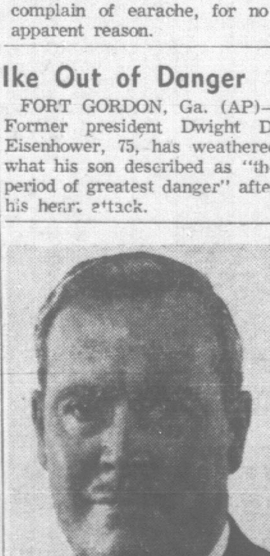
Members of the municipal-university centennial stadium committee met Friday and agreed to apply for $139,989 from the federal government and $87,917 from the provincial government.

To this will be added the local contributions, to bring total resources up to $430,000 for construction of a stadium at the university.

R. W. Siddall Associates has been instructed to prepare architectural drawings.

Ike Out of Danger

FORT GORDON, Ga. (AP)—Former president Dwight D. Eisenhower, 75, has weathered what his son described as "the period of greatest danger" after his heart attack.



EXPO '67 Deputy Commissioner Robert F. Shaw will speak on Centennial Fair Tuesday, Nov. 23, at noon to Men's Canadian Club of Victoria, and at 2:30 to Women's Canadian Club, in Empress Hotel. Engineer and industrialist Mr. Shaw has been promoting Montreal exposition since 1963.

BODEN
. . . 31 years in navy

Electronics Officer Retires

Lieut.-Cmdr. Arnold M. Boden is retiring from the navy after 31 years, the RCN announced Saturday.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Boden, 216 Regina Avenue.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Boden joined Calgary Half Company, RCNVR, as an ordinary seaman in 1934 and went into active service as a telegraphist in September, 1939.

At the outbreak of the Second World War, he manned the signal station on Discovery Island off Oak Bay.

He was on the original staff of the electronic workshop, HMC Dockyard.

He received the British Empire Medal for outstanding service at the naval radio station, Newport Corner, N.S., during the Battle of the Atlantic.

Lieut. - Cmdr. Boden also served aboard the destroyer Haida during the Korean War as electrical officer.

He plans to remain with the electronics industry during his retirement.

Last Night On Duty For Wells

This is Ernest Wells' last night on duty.

After 26 years with the Oak Bay fire department, assistant chief Wells is retiring.

He will leave Victoria Sunday for Prince George and proposes to make his home and go into business there.

Mr. Wells, 56, joined Oak Bay fire department in 1939, spent the war years in Naval Fire Services, returned to Oak Bay as lieutenant in the fire department, and was made assistant chief in 1953.

He was presented with a gold retirement badge and cheques from the firemen's union, the firemen's benevolent fund and the municipal employees' benevolent fund by Oak Bay Councillor Walter Dodsworth in a ceremony at Oak Bay Fire Hall Friday.

Donations Needed For Food Stall Saturday Morning

Donations for the Free Food Stall this Saturday are urgently needed, says convener Mrs. E. E. Harper.

Victorians with anything to spare, from canned goods to garden produce, are asked to contribute. The stall provides food monthly for 150 needy families.

Money donated is deductible from income taxes, says Mrs. Harper.

To have food or donations picked up, call Mrs. Harper, 5695 Pat Bay Highway, 658-8177.

Helping transport food Saturday morning will be members of the Victoria Labor Council.

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners of the Victoria Unit of the American Contract Bridge League played Saturday at the Broughton Building were: North-South, Joan Smith and Cam Walace, Anne and Earl Dye, Liliane Lebutt and Patricia Bishop, Leslie Stewart and Loe Lukas.

East-West winning pairs, Marianne Powell and John Bishop, Margaret and Jack McAvoy, Frances and William Champion, Louise Duncan and M. J. O'Brien.

AID SEEN IN RHODESIA CRISIS

Advice Flows From Queen To Wilson, Source Says

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth is described by a qualified source as a discerning, highly experienced person who, on occasion, has been able to tender advice to Prime Minister Wilson instead of receiving it from him.

This informant, who cannot be identified but who speaks from a position of knowledge, suggests also that occasionally Wilson has used Buckingham Palace as a sort of refuge, clothing himself in regal support as armament against dissident factions within his government.

This intimate glimpse of the Queen as more than a silent and compliant symbol of authority was disclosed to shed a more balanced light on a spate of British press reports suggesting there is a special working relationship between the once shy sovereign and her smooth-talking chief adviser, now moving into the second year of a still tenuous hold on the seat of power.

SOCIALIST MINISTER

Those engaged in the daily activities of the court wondered how the Queen, raised in an environment of conservatism and great wealth, would be able to relate her ideas with those of her first socialist prime minister, a grammar school product whose party preaches social revolution and industrial nationalization.

The fears of an ideological clash between court and government were, however, soon dispelled.

Wilson, a shrewd politician and a velvet-tongued orator, found the Queen a ready listener. She became even more interested and friendlier when Wilson showed he was no radical; that in fact he was moving politically from the left to the centre, maintaining a steady grip on the middle of the road, despite the outraged criticism of his vocal left wing.

SAME GENERATION

Age also helped make the two figures politically compatible.

Elizabeth was 38 when Wilson took over the helm of government at the relatively young age of 48. Ever since she ascended the throne in 1952, her prime ministers had been elderly Conservatives: Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden, Harold Macmillan and Alec Douglas-Home. Their approach generally had been one of father to daughter. Wilson could approach the Queen as one close to her own age group.

But the informant suggested there is more here than age and personality. Wilson was a fledgling prime minister; the Queen had been on the throne for almost 14 years. She had gained great insight in the affairs of state. Through her travels and her ability to absorb information, she had become politically astute. On occasion she provided Wilson with advice and the informant said Wilson was glad to act on her suggestions.

While details of the Queen's suggestions were not disclosed, it was intimated some of the steps Wilson took on Rhodesia resulted from his talks with Elizabeth. Usually talks between the Queen and the prime minister last about 30 minutes. On one occasion, when Wilson returned from Salisbury late in November, court aides were surprised to find the audience lasted for 70 minutes.

Another element in Wilson's unusual relationship with the Crown is that he does not always see eye to eye with his deputy, Economics Minister George Brown, the man Wilson beat in the 1963 Labor leadership fight.

ROYAL ALLY

Whatever subtle differences still remain between these two men, the Labor cabinet now is well aware that on some controversial issues which might split the cabinet, Wilson can call on the Queen for support. He has an ally at the palace.

The determination with which the Queen approaches the affairs of state were described as similar to that of Queen Victoria and Elizabeth's father, King George VI. Both Victoria and George VI held strong views and showed strong wills. After one encounter with his socialist prime minister, Clement Attlee, George VI wrote in his diary that he told Attlee he had to give the people confidence that this Labor government would not stifle private enterprise.

During the Second World War, when Churchill decided to cross the Channel on D-Day, the King put his foot down. Churchill did not go.

Among the published reports about the Elizabeth-Wilson relationship is one suggesting Wilson sees the Crown as a vital force in British politics, using it but being too shrewd to try to cheapen it.

SILVER TONGUE

Matthew Coady, writing in The New Statesman, says Wilson can be as great a flatterer as any of his predecessors, but he also is a dazzling expositor—a born teacher. He has been able to instruct the young Queen and convince her of the value of his ambitions for Britain. The Queen, industrious and intelligent, has been able to make full use of the elaborate arrangements to keep her informed.

The old royal inclination to restrain Labor politics is on the wane, Coady suggests. The royal guard had been changed at last. To which the Tory-supporting Evening Standard adds a postscript in a political cartoon showing that the Queen's trade mark has been firmly planted on Wilson's door.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

New York Cavalcade

By Louis Sobol

NEW YORK—Gerald Frank, who "collaborates" with gals who want to tell all in their life stories—(Lillian Roth, Zsa Zsa Gabor, the late Diana Barrymore, et al), has just completed his latest—this time a biog of a murderer who strangled 13 women in Boston (never nabbed), entitled "The Boston Strangler." . . . There was another party in Hollywood before Princess Meg and Tony arrived for the big bash in their honor. This one was at Warner's studio—a double birthday party for Richard Burton (actually it was not until next day) and for Mike Nichols. Liz Taylor cut the cake, kissed each of the birthday lads—and then all present dug into the cake.

* * *

Soupy Sales has taped 36 of his TV shows in advance to enable him to get off for Hollywood, Fla., to start his film chores in "Birds Do It." (Will he have any strength left?) . . . Mayor-elect John Lindsay caused quite a stir when he dropped in unexpectedly at the Brasserie—not to have a snack, but to thank the management and staff for the box lunches they put up daily for his entourage all through the final weeks of his campaign.

* * *

Bette Davis was at the Plaza 9 taking in the new Julius Monk revue (Pick a Number XV") and had something to say about her future plans. "Definitely—but definitely," she insisted, "no more of those horror roles for me. I want comedy now—I really do. In fact, they're getting a film ready for me and Lee Marvin—and that one I'm looking forward to. That one should really be fun." . . . Such a fickle memory. At Metro's commissary, according to a forthcoming Insider's Newsletter, the Jean Harlow salad is now the Debbie Reynolds salad, the Lionel Barrymore sandwich is now the Dick Chamberlain sandwich.

* * *

Hugh Downs has been in traction at Harkness Pavilion—spinal disc trouble . . . Ed Wynn welcomed his 79th birthday . . . Desi Arnaz, returning as a film producer ("Without Consent"), has moved onto the Desilu lot, now controlled by his ex, Lucille Ball Morton—as we reported last week—but this time he's really doing it up lavishly—having taken over the office once occupied by the late David O. Selznick and part of the office George Stevens used to occupy. And furnishing it up de luxe . . . The Arthur Murrays take off on the 15th for Honolulu where they will devote themselves to a TV show for syndication, to be labeled "The Kathryn Murray Party in Hawaii"—a variety show.

MOBILE TEST UNIT HERE SOON

The mobile testing unit of the motor vehicle branch will be in operation in Victoria Nov. 30 to Dec. 4.

The unit will be set up on the Safeway store parking lot, Quadra and Hillside.

Testing will be conducted during the following hours: Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Testing is strictly voluntary and free of charge, says Ray Hadfield, superintendent of motor vehicles for B.C.

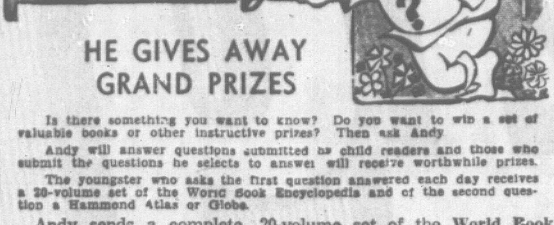
Machines Begin Gouging Earth at Drydock

Machines are gouging out the earth along the south side of the drydock in HMC Dockyard.

It's the start of a modernization of the 78-year-old graving dock.

The project includes extension of crane rails along the south side and a full-length tunnel along the same wall.

The tunnel will be rectangular, measuring six by eight feet, and will consolidate service outlets for steam, compressed air, water and acetylene gas.



HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Carl Walter, age 13, of Visalia, Calif., for his question:

Do we know what causes the northern lights?

In August, 1958, scientists aboard the Albemarle in the Atlantic waited for a man-made display of northern lights. Off Tristan de Cunda, 4,800 miles to the south, a missile lifted up 300 miles and exploded a huge bomb load. A minute later the men on the Albemarle had records of the artificial aurora, just as expected.

Scientists now can create man-made displays of the northern lights, and many experiments have been made and checked to show just how the trick is done, but this know-how is very recent. Nature's auroras have been dazzling mankind for ages. Many suggestions were made to explain them; some of them were sensible, and others were not. The real clues were gathered one by one through several centuries as mankind became interested in electricity and magnetism.

The shimmering auroras take place in a region between 70 and several hundred miles above the earth. On-the-spot checking began when high flying rockets were able to reach these lofty parade grounds. This research was pinned down during the IGY, when scientists proved that they could create their own auroras when and where they chose. There is, of course, more to be learned, but we know enough to copy nature's northern lights.

Sunspots Cause Solar Flares

Several cosmic forces of nature work together to produce the colorful aurora displays. One is the magnetic field of the earth. Another is the seething nuclear activity of the sun. The earth's metallic core acts like a monster magnet with an immense magnetic field extending miles into space. Its invisible lines of force loop up in giant curves between the two poles where the magnet attraction is strongest.

The seething sun sends forth speeding particles, some becoming trapped in the loops of our magnetic field. From time to time the sun has a rash of sunspots, blazing solar flares and magnetic upheavals. The output of electrically charged particles increases, and streams of them are attracted toward the earth's geomagnetic poles. Their collisions with lofty air molecules produce the energy that tints the heavens with the glowing northern and southern lights.

Scientific sun watchers record the sunspot cycles and announce the monstrous solar flares that tend to erupt at peak sunspot activity. A day or so after such an eruption the results are expected on earth. There are upsets in the earth's magnetic field and radio blackouts, and in the polar regions charged particles from the sun produce weaving and waving curtains of colorful auroras.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Joan Shamblin, age 13, of North Brunswick, N.J., for her question:

Why is an elephant called Jumbo?

One of the world's most famous elephants spent some years of his life in London. He was the first elephant that countless Britishers, young and old,, had ever seen. His name was Jumbo, and he was greatly admired and loved. In 1882 Jumbo was bought by P. T. Barnum, the American circus man. The price paid for this elephant was $10,000, and $20,000 more was paid to ship him to the United States.

In the U.S. Jumbo became the first elephant ever seen by more loving admirers. But his departure from England caused trouble of all kinds. Parents and children begged Barnum to give him back. Even Queen Victoria and the Prince of Wales pleaded for his return, and newspapers and even Parliament protested. Jumbo became famous indeed, so famous that all other elephants were given the nickname Jumbo in his honor.

Lunar Shockwaves Producing Diamonds

LONDON (Reuters) — The first men to land on the moon may find huge quantities of diamonds there, says Prof. Samuel Tolansky, a distinguished British physicist.

Prof. Tolansky believes the shockwaves of lunar explosions may have produced vast quantities of diamonds, or at least of diamond dust, like those found in meteorites which have hit the earth.

He explained in Optima, the quarterly review of the Anglo-American Corporation, the giant South African diamond firm, that synthetic micro-diamonds are factory produced by subjecting carbon to high temperature and pressure simultaneously.

But, says Prof. Tolansky, the same combination of high temperature and pressure, produced by the shock-wave of an explosion, can create diamonds rapidly. Diamonds, he adds, have been found in meteorites.

Earth is well protected against fierce collisions because of its atmosphere. But since there is virtually no atmosphere on the moon, all approaching meteorites are likely to arrive with violent impact.

The bigger collisions would lead to the familiar shockwave. If carbon was present micro-diamonds would be created in the crater's rim. The professor suggests three possible sources of diamonds: Round-the-rim meteoric space diamonds; internal lunar diamonds; and those created by impact conversion.

Gibbs Defies Smith

(Times News Services)

SALISBURY — Loyalist Governor-General Sir Humphrey Gibbs today defied rebel Premier Ian Smith in a face-to-face confrontation over who is legally in charge of the Rhodesian government.

Faced with growing internal opposition to the breakaway government, Smith and two aides drove to government house for a 70-minute meeting with Gibbs, who had refused orders Sunday night to step down.

A spokesman for the governor-general, who remains loyal to the orders of Queen Elizabeth and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, said Gibbs remained adamant in his position.

Gibbs, who settled in Rhodesia in 1923, dismissed Smith and his cabinet after last Thursday's unilateral declaration of independence. Smith in turn ordered Sir Humphrey to vacate Government House. Gibbs said Sunday night he would resign only if "asked by Her Majesty to do so."

100 SIGN BOOK

While Smith was inside Government House with Deputy Premier Clifford Dupont and Justice Minister Desmond Lardner, more than 100 visitors signed the guest book—a sign of solidarity with Gibbs.

In Bulawayo, 220 miles southwest of Salisbury, black Nationalist leaders failed today when they tried to organize a general strike by African workers. Police riding shotgun on buses told the workers not to be intimidated by the Nationalists, who were urging persons at bus stops not to board the vehicles.

Many workers who refused to use the buses later walked to work.

TRAIN STONED

A mail train from Salisbury to Bulawayo was stoned in the pre-dawn hours this morning. Several windows were smashed but no one was hurt.

Rhodesia's foremost Anglican prelate, the Right Rev. Cecil Alderson, Bishop of Masonaland, declared at a memorial service in Salisbury honoring Second World War dead the illegality of the Smith government was "quite clear."

Bishop Alderson declared Sunday to a crowd of several hundred persons at the service "there is a Christian rights and maybe a Christian duty to disobey" orders of the rebel government.

"I would be gravely insincere and cowardly if I did not state again here the united judgment of almost all Christian leaders of this land . . . I believe what has been done to be wrong."

He added Rhodesians have "the responsibility and the right to make up their own minds on great moral issues and be answerable to God in their own consciences."

White senior civil servants and army officers with close ties to Britain were also reported in dissent. Gloom fell over business circles in Salisbury.

Smith, however, appeared confident and firmly in control.

Informants said David Hall, chief of protocol and a former regular British officer, had resigned. Many others were believed to be also considering resignation.

Temporary restrictions on banking facilities and a general uncertainty of the country's future have caused commercial circles to delay transactions.

No positive reaction was expected before Britain and other countries made clear the actions they planned taking to counter Rhodesia's seizure of independence.

Tory Die-Hards Fight Sanctions

LONDON (AP) — Emergency legislation enabling the British government to clamp stiff economic sanctions on the white settler regime in Rhodesia began passage through Parliament today. Britain's chief legal official termed the bill "extremely urgent."

Debate began in the Commons and the House of Lords. The government is trying to rush the bill through in one day and Queen Elizabeth was expected to sign the measure after midnight tonight.

The Conservative party Commons leadership decided at a one-hour meeting before Parliament met to help the Labor government speed the legislation through.

But a handful of right-wing Conservative MPs planned to contest the legislative time limits in the Commons.

In the House of Lords, the Marquess of Salisbury, a former Conservative kingmaker and long a supporter of white Rhodesian interests, planned to introduce an amendment that would delay application of the sanctions—particularly a proposed ban on tobacco imports.

Opening the debate in the House of Lords was Lord Gardiner, the Lord Chancellor and head of the British judiciary.

He has been one of the government's chief legal advisers through the crisis that reached a climax last Thursday when Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia's independence from Britain.

He was the first of 40 speakers on the Lords' agenda.

Stressing the urgency of the bill, Lord Gardiner said Britain must act quickly against the Rhodesian regime. He said Smith appeared to have been acting under pressure—"He has a lot of extremists in his cabinet and I am afraid they have carried the day."

Armed Police Break Up Negro Strike

BULAWAYO (Reuters) — Police armed with shotguns today broke up an attempted strike by Negroes in this Rhodesian industrial centre.

Thousands of Negroes leaving the township for work had been ordered by African nationalists to get off their bicycles and not to use public transport.

Armed police in jeeps drove through the streets and ordered the Negroes back on to buses.

Some Negroes alleged to have intimidated others were arrested.

Factories and offices later reported little absenteeism although many Negroes turned up late.

A police spokesman said the mail and passenger train from Salisbury to Bulawayo was stoned Sunday night near Gwelo, about 100 miles north of here. Several windows were shattered but no one was injured.

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Wilson may agree to an oil embargo against Rhodesia because of pressure from the United Nations, British newspapers suggest today.

The Daily Teelgraph says there is a threat to government unity over Rhodesia because many Labor parliamentarians feel Wilson's administration has applied fewer bans and control than should have been exerted.

The Daily Mail reports: "Britain, opposed to the use of force, is ready to compromise by supporting a UN ban on oil supplies to Rhodesia, providing the major oil-producing countries can demonstrate it will be effective."

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — More than 100 Negro students smashed windows of the British embassy with stones and clashed with Israeli police here today in a protest over Britain's Rhodesia policy. At least one policeman was injured.

The hour long attack came suddenly during an address by a student spokesman who had just presented to the British charge d'affaires, Arthur Kellas, a resolution condemning Britain for not taking military action against Rhodesia.

NO RUSH FOR SESSION, HOUSE OPENS JAN. 18

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament will reassemble Tuesday, Jan. 18, the cabinet decided today.

The announcement was made by an aide to Prime Minister Pearson while the cabinet still was in session.

Mr. Pearson had indicated during the campaign that Parliament might be summoned for a week before Christmas when the eight-day throne speech debate could be completed but said no definite plans had been made.

This will be the first session of Canada's 27th Parliament, with the Liberals holding 131 seats, three short of a clear majority in the 265-seat House of Commons.

UN 'Presence' Bid Sidelined

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Uruguay suggested today that the Security Council establish a UN "presence" in rebellious Rhodesia but back-stage negotiations failed to produce a middle-road resolution.

Delegate' efforts to agree on a resolution on the issue of whether to give China's UN seat to the Peking regime also bogged down and it appeared that the General Assembly would move on to other business without voting on that question.

Sen. Hector Paysse Reyes of Uruguay told the council his proposal for a UN "presence" in Rhodesia would not conflict with moves being undertaken there by Britain to put down the white minority secession stemming from the territorial government's unilateral declaration of independence last week.

Paysse Reyes did not present a resolution but said the council should establish the "presence" as a means of underlining its concern for the Rhodesian situation and its competence to deal with the situation there.

The asesmbly was scheduled this afternoon to wind up its perennial debate on a seat for Red China. But sponsors of this year's move still had not agreed on a resolution strong enough to face the confidence of the United States and Nationalist China that the move would be defeated, even if by the narrowest margin in history.

Slaying In Colorado Traced to B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are investigating two men here in the shooting death of an unidentified youth in Colorado.

A Colorado prosecuting officer will arrive here tonight to interview the men, police said today.

The youth's body was found Oct. 23 under a tree half a mile off a highway 16 miles east of Durango, Colo.

Durango is a highway junction town about 180 miles southwest of Denver.

Sheriff Walter Conrad of Durango said in a telephone interview today it is believed the victim was soht in a Durango motel and taken to the spot where the body was found.

BLOOD IN MOTEL

Blood was found in the motel, which had been occupied the night before by the victim and two other persons.

The motel operator told police he believed the three men came from Canada.

The victim died of a bullet wound in the temple.

Investigators said a shirt manufactured in Edmonton was found near the body.

The men being investigated here were picked up recently in connection with another case.

Rail Workers Ask Pay Hike

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 53,000 non-operating railway workers presented new contract proposals to Canada's railways today calling for a general 55-cent hourly wage increase plus additional pay increases for skilled and night shift workers.

The non-ops' joint negotiating committee, speaking for members of seven unions, asked for a 20-per-cent wage increase for skilled workers to adjust what it called existing wage inequities and a 10-per-cent increase for regularly scheduled night workers.

Walkout Set For Midnight

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today made a last-ditch attempt to ward off a province-wide strike against all oil companies set for midnight.

He sent telegrams to all the parties urging them not to permit a total tie-up of the oil and gas industry.

PETERSON
. . . cancells trip

"This will confirm that my department has offered any assistance you may care to take advantage of to effect a settlement of the oil industry dispute," said the telegrams.

"Government considers the continued supply of oil and gas essential and urges you to settle your differences with employers (employees) and in any event to avoid the complete tie-up of this essential industry."

Union and management spokesmen were not available for comment on the telegrams.

Mr. Peterson released the texts without comment after declining to see reporters in the morning.

Mr. Peterson cancelled a trip to Washington, D.C., Tuesday. He was to attend a meeting of the International Conference of Government Labor Officials, of which he is president.

On Sunday, he repeated earlier comments saying "I am not prepared to tolerate any action which would result in a total shutdown of this industry."

There was speculation the government will use the emergency powers of the Civil Defence Act if the strike occurs. This was first used nine years ago to stop a ferry strike.

A regular meeting of the cabinet was being held this afternoon at which the ministers would likely discuss the next move.

Before the telegrams were sent, the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' International Union completed plans for its extended strike against Shell, Home, Texaco and Standard.

The union has been on strike against British American for two months and since Nov. 5 against Imperial's Port Moody refinery. BA operations on the Prairies and in Ontario have also been on strike since mid-September.

Sunday, 95 oil workers at Pacific Petroleums' McMahon Refinery in Taylor, B.C., were locked out. The company said this morning it had "relieved" the men to effect a more orderly takeover by supervisors.

Pickets were established at the refinery and at a nearby petro-

Jet Circling Globe Around Both Poles

HONOLULU (AP)—A Boeing 707 jet—crammed with instruments, scientists and observers—flew out of Honolulu today on an around-the-world flight over both the earth's poles.

The jet will cruise at between 30,000 and 41,000 feet to allow scientists to study high-altitude meteorology and clear-air turbulence. The plane was to land in London for its first refuelling stop.

Then, it is to speed on, passing Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Christchurch, N.Z., before returning to Honolulu in 52 to 56 hours.

The planned 26,203-mile flight over the poles never has been accomplished.

The battery of scientists aboard is headed by Dr. Serge A. Korff, professor of physics at New York University. Time-lapse cameras will photograph the weather at five-minute intervals. Studies also will be made on the jet stream, cosmic radiation, flight - crew fatigue and cockpit design.

CRASH KILLS AIRLINE CHIEF'S SON

INDIO, Calif. (UPI) — All eight passengers were found dead today in the wreckage of a twin-jet aircraft missing since Sunday on a flight from Palm Springs to Burbank, Calif.

The wreckage was found about six miles north of this desert community in a hilly area.

Among the dead were veteran flier Paul Kelly, the pilot, and 11-year-old Peter Prescott, son of Robert W. Prescott, president of Flying Tiger Lines.

The elder Prescott is aboard a jet transport on a polar circling of the earth.

'Gov't Robbing Hospitals' Of Promised Financial Aid

By PETE LOUDON

(Why is a rich city in a rich district in a rich province going without sufficient hospital beds? Why is this issue building into a controversy involving two layers of government instead of being quietly and efficiently solved? The Times asked reporter Pete Loudon to explore the issue. This is his second report in a four-part series.)

Loudon

A group of municipal leaders in the capital region has charged the provincial government with robbing community hospitals of their promised financial support.

They say the province has diverted to other purposes $44 million collected from the 5 per cent sales tax over the past seven years and earmarked for hospital use.

Now, they object, the property owners of the capital region are to be asked to raise $5.7 million dollars through a referendum on Dec. 11 toward a $13.5 million hospital program.

Three municipal leaders have so far openly condemned the proposed system of financing the needed beds for district hospitals. They charge it will be the province's responsibility if property-owners reject the hospital vote.

Dilemma

The figures backing the objections and cited in this article are now being studied by other municipal elected officials. Councils will be meeting in the next few weeks and coping with their dilemma.

Should they tell their voters to support the hospital vote and thus answer a vital need they all recognize?

Or should they urge defeat of the referendum to fight a principle—their belief that the province is loading more and more of the cost of public service on the property-owner?

Before going further into the municipal position of protest it should be pointed out that the provincial government, as represented in the issue by Health Minister Eric Martin, objects in turn to their contentions. In the next article in this series he gives reasons supporting the government position.

Higher Share

The municipal leaders who have so far expressed themselves, and those who will do so in the next few weeks, say

'Find a Guy Named Terry . . . That's the Real Hero'

(See also Page 17)

MIAMI (UPI)—"If you are looking for a real hero, find a purser on that ship named Terry Wise."

"He grabbed older people, who were just too shocked or afraid to jump, put life jackets on them and bodily threw them into the sea."

These were the words of General Motors executive Robert White describing the rescue of 466 passengers and crew members of the ill fated Caribbean cruise ship Yarmouth Castle.

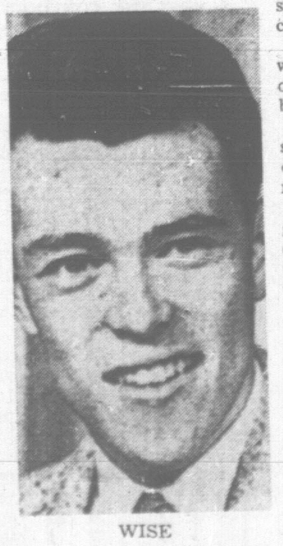
Mr. White, of Roanoke, Va., said he watched Wise (of Markham, Ont.) and Bahama Star Captain Carl L. Brown in action from the flying bridge of the burning cruiser.

He said "that's the only reason some of the passengers are alive today. Wise was among the last to leave the ship."

White, a former navy man, described the Bahama Star's captain as "one hell of a man —I never saw such marvelous seamanship."

At one point, White said, Capt. Brown manoeuvred the Bahama Star to within 250 yards of the flaming ship—"close enough to feel the heat and hear the people shouting and screaming for help."

"He kept repeating instructions over the bull horn: 'Put on your life jackets and jump into the sea. You'll be picked up immediately.



WISE
. . . among last to leave

"'Be careful. Don't jump into the lifeboats. Jump into the sea. Jump into the sea.'

"One man jumped into a lifeboat, fractured both his legs and his pelvis."

White said Brown ordered his own lifeboats to "move in close, the fire's on the top deck, the ship will not explode. Go in close and get them.

"And brother, that's exactly what they did," White said. "At one time I saw five or six lifeboats, right next to the hull."

Capt. Brown said the doomed ship's bridge and control centre collapsed in fiery rubble as the rescue vessel pulled alongside.

"The radio room would have gone before that," he said. "I definitely think the fire area was the reason no distress signal was sent."

Many passengers said no alarm was sounded aboard the Yarmouth Castle, but coast guard Capt. V. G. Niebergall said there were conflicting reports as to whether or not an alarm had been sounded.

Brown said he did not know what caused the fire but said "I think the officers of the Yarmouth Castle know where the fire started and who reported it."

. . . HOSPITALS

there should be a higher contribution by the province to hospital costs instead of a higher share by property-owners through their annual property taxes.

They say that in 1954 in his budget speech, Premier W. A. C. Bennett abolished hospital insurance premiums and increased the then 3 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent.

He made it clear that the additional tax, two-fifths of the tax total, would be for hospital purposes. These municipal spokesmen say Mr. Bennett anticipated this would be inadequate and said he would spend half the tax revenue if necessary, for hospitals.

'No Question'

The premier, in announcing the increase of the 3 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent, said, "An increase of 2 per cent in hte rate is anticipated to yield $23.5 million. This amount, supplemented by $8,375,000 from current revenue sources and by $990,000 from municipalities, will cover the cost of the hospital insurance service, as well as the provincial share of hospital construction, amounting in all to 32,865,000 . . ."

"There is no question that the people of B.C. were led to believe that B.C. hospitals would be financed by this means," says one reeve.

This table is going the rounds of municipal halls:

	5% tax		BCHIS
Year	Yield	2%	from B.C.
1959	$81.9 mil	$32 mil	$31.2 mil
1960	87.3	35	28.3
1961	84.9	34	31.1
1962	89.9	36	32.7
1963	96.9	39	32.4
1964	107.8	43	33.6
1965	125.2	50	36
		269	225.3

From these figures, taken from public accounts, it is apparent that the $225.3 million transferred to hospital use is $43.7 million less than the amount represented by two-fifths of the 5% sales tax.

The municipal protesters say they believe this makes up a major part of the $64 million over-all budget surplus attained by the Bennett budget last year.

They say if it went to hospitals there would be little need to come back to the property owner.

Federal Grants

At the same time, they point out, that BCHIS has been in receipt from the federal government of growing contributions.

In 1959	$12.7 million
1960	20.4
1961	22.5
1962	25.7
1963	30
1964	33.6
1965	36

They say these contributions have nearly trebled in the past seven years.

They say the sales tax revenues are obtained from people who buy goods—who can afford to buy goods—and who thus have an ability to pay. But property tax is charged equally against the property owner who has a small income as against those with large incomes.

People with investments in homes are hit—people with investments in stocks or bonds are not.

And they point out that Premier Bennett, in the same budget speech said:

Ability To Pay

"Any hospital insurance plan sponsored and operated by the government must fail or meet with acrimonious opposition if the benefits it provides are not universally and equitably distributed and if its cost to the people is not fairly distributed in accordance with the ability to pay of the individual."

Further . . . "The logical solution therefore is the abolition of premiums and the imposition of a tax levy with an incidence that reflects in the most equitable manner possible, the income currently available to the people."

The municipal people see this as a statement that sales tax should pay for hospital costs. And the province collects the sales tax.

Some of the municipal leaders say they want a municipal-provincial conference on this matter.

They agree that the hospital program here will suffer if they dig in and recommend a "no" vote.

One municipal spokesman says, "The government has put us in a position where we have to fight against the hospitals' best interest in order to pursue a principle.

"When we have a surplus we shouldn't have to have land taxes boosted."

He points out that area ratepayers already face a healthy boost for school costs with teachers requesting another raise — and in Saanich at least there is a 2 mill increase proposed for capital expenditures.

Boost Taxes

He said many residents in his area, living in modest homes on modest pensions can't afford the taxes now and many of them are forced to sell out and move into cheap downtown hotel rooms.

He says the provincial government hasn't had to increase taxes since 1954 and the federal government from time to time has cut taxes—but the municipalities have to boost taxes each year.

The municipal objectors also take issue with the contention by those who support the referendum that a two-mill tax rate boost will yield the needed $5.7 million before the district growth requires millions more. They say this levy would raise only $554,000 each year or $2½ million in five years, when new needs will be apparent.

The balance would have to come from borrowing with interest rates greatly increasing the amount needed.

They say too that a two-mill levy in the capital region means different amounts in different areas. They say it means about $5 a resident in Oak Bay but only $2.50 to $3 per resident in Saanich. Why should Oak Bay pay twice as much per head?

. . . RHODESIA

Gibbs, to be empowered to withdraw Rhodesian troops from their positions along the Zambian border, he told a national rally here.

"We expect Britain to act and act quickly," he said, "If the Queen's representative in Rhodesia (the governor) is going to be forced to make a dishonorable exit from Government House in Salisbury, chased out by a rebel government, it will go down in history that the British people failed all of mankind."

Kaunda then launched an attack on Rhodesia's Negro nationalist leaders based in Zambia with the most violent public criticism he has ever made against anyone—including the former colonial government in this erstwhile colony of Northern Rhodesia.

"They are not nationalists, they are stupid idiots," he declared.

Kaunda said it is stupid for exiled Rhodesian nationalists, the representatives of Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples' Union and Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole's Zimbabwe African National Union to shout from the comfort of Zambia: "We are going to kill all the whites in Rhodesia."

"Not all the whites are guilty," Kauda said.

HOME GARDEN

Watching Clock Helpful

By HILDA BEASTALL

The hobby greenhouses glimpsed in Victoria gardens need thoughtful treatment at this season, if they are to be successful.

Hilda

As custodians of living plants, the first essential is air. Ventilation is the word where greenhouses are concerned.

So far this season, artificial heat has not been required for the general run of hardy or near-hardy plants.

The shelter provided by the glass structure has been sufficient if close attention has been given to daily routines. Colder weather will require a different routine adapted to the conditions.

OPEN VENTILATOR

First thing in the morning, a ventilator should be opened, much or little, according to the wind and outside temperature.

As the temperature rises outdoors, more ventilation can be allowed. On sunny days with outside temperature between 45 and 50 deg. F., the greenhouse door may be left wide open without ill effects.

One needs to be a clock-watcher, or have a time instinct as some gardeners are blessed with, in order to begin closing the vents around three-thirty while the sun is still shining on the glass.

By four o'clock all vents and the door should be closed. This scheme prolongs the period of warmth around the plants by as much as two hours.

ACCURATE GUESS

A tested thermometer, preferably a maximum-minimum indicating type, is useful for the owner of a greenhouse during the first few years, but after several years' experience one can give a guess accurately before checking the instrument.

Watering before artificial heat is started has to be kept to a minimum, and given only to those plants in need of it.

Avoid Spilling water on benches and floor, since a surplus will lower the night temperature and raise the humidity—an undesirable condition at this time of year.

To be safe, do the small amount of necessary watering early in the day on the rising temperature.

If heat is used later, the routine has to be altered.

Fishermen Voting

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's herring fishermen held meetings along the coast this weekend to vote on a wage offer by the Fisheries Association of B.C. chemicals plant where 20 men refused to enter the building.

A Pacific Petroleums bulk plant in Dawson Creek and Pacific 66 service stations in Fort St. John also were picketed.

The extended strike was called after oil companies did not reply to an amended bargaining position submitted by the union.

The oil workers asked for an extra 50 cents an hour in a two-year contract, instead of 40 cents in one year. In the important job security field, they sought six months notification of new processes instead of 18 months.

A second reason is that, under the Labor Relations Act, a union that doesn't strike within three months of a strike vote loses the right to strike.

At the same time, officials of the province's major trade unions were meeting in Vancouver.

E. P. O'Neal, secretary of the 110,000-member B.C. Federation of Labour, said the talks were called "to state the seriousness of the situation and to map strategy to ensure 100 per cent support for the oil workers in their fight for job security."

Major unions have pledged support for the oil workers by agreeing that petroleum products from strike-bound companies will be considered "hot."

Widespread labor support for the oil workers could shut down massive sections of the B.C. economy, amounting, in effect, to a general strike.

This morning, Premier Bennett sent telegrams to the International Woodworkers of America and the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, which together represent 42,000 forest industry workers.

The unions, in a telegram to the premier, warned that complete disruption throughout the forest industry would result from a province-wide oil strike.

The premier said in reply: "You are requested to advise the membership of your unions to act in a lawful and responsible manner and help avoid a shutdown of this essential industry."

Locally, motorists needn't worry immediately about getting gasoline for their cars.

Service stations normally carry a week's reserve and tankers have been filling up company storage depots around the Inner Harbor for the last few days.

150 Cong Killed In Savage Battle

SAIGON (AP)—B-52 bombers pounded rear positions of a North Vietnamese regiment today as two U.S. infantry battalions continued to slug it out with them in heavy fighting near the Cambodian border.

The two U.S. battalions held their own through 36 hours of at times savage fighting. At least 129 enemy bodies were counted and as many as 150 were believed to litter the battlefield in front of U.S. lines.

U.S. casualties were termed "moderate," but it required more than a dozen helicopters to take out the American wounded. Most of the dead were still in the battle zone. It was too dangerous for helicopters to fly except on urgent missions.

In earlier air action, North Vietnamese gunners shot down an American A-1E Skyraider. A U.S. military spokesman reported the pilot was killed when the plane exploded near the battleground 200 miles north of Saigon in the central highlands.

Tree North Vietnamese battalions—about 2,000 men—were engaging the American troops and it was possible that others were waiting farther back.

The fighting broke out Sunday afternoon.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Clear skies overnight in the northern interior of B.C. produced fairly low temperatures in that area early this morning. Prince George was coldest with a reading of 8 above followed by Smithers with 13 above. Clearing was expected in south coastal areas this afternoon as the storm centre off the northern coast of California continues to weaken. A disturbance crossing the Gulf of Alaska however was to spread cloud over the north coast by noon today with rain beginning there this evening. Cloudiness from this system will reach the south coast Tuesday morning. Chilly Arctic air will continue to affect most interior sections of the province.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Dockyard Worker Has Dream

By JIM HUME
Times Business Editor

Tom Kirk is a man with a dream.

Hume

A dockyard worker by daily trade, Tom was bitten by the prospecting bug many years ago. He still works at the dockyard to earn his daily bread, but each year after carefully hoarding days off, he takes a leave of absence and heads for the hills and looks for his dream.

And now he thinks he's found that dream high in the mountains near Telsa Lake in the Omineca mining district.

I should say for the sake of accuracy that he feels he found his dream three years ago, but is now on the verge of making it come true.

The 34 claims Meteor Mining, that's the company Tom and his partners formed, grouped above the tree line, looks good on the surface and from the grab samples picked up after trenches were blasted this summer.

Now comes the time for the big test.

Late this summer the Meteor men purchased their own diamond drill, to find out how deep the rich surface ore goes. By helicopter it was flown to the campsite. But to diamond drill you need a plentiful supply of water, and by the time the crews were ready to start, the two creeks they were depending on for the water supply had dried up.

NEXT SPRING

The test now has to wait until next spring for the streams to be fed by mountain snow.

"We have quit for the winter months," Tom told me the other day. "But we'll be back in there as soon as the winter is over to get those close-spaced drill holes down. I'm sure we've got a good one, but of course we won't know until we get those drill cores out and assayed."

When talking mining it is usual to quote from an engineer's report. So here's a quote from the annual report of the department of mines, 1925, page A 144:

"A report has come to hand of the discovery of a high-grade mineral on Tesla Mountain south of Eutsuk Lake. Information is to the effect that the ore assays at $150 a ton."

LOGGING ROADS

Little could be done about the find in those days for Tesla Mountain, if not as remote as the moon was almost as inaccessible.

The advent of the helicopter and the building of logging roads have changed that picture.

A good logging road now runs from Kimsquit on the coast to within 10 miles of the Meteor property. If Tom Kirk and his associates find what they're looking for next May there will be no insurmountable problem to prevent them from hooking up with that road to tidewater.

But prospecting and proving up are, to say the least, chancy. Sometimes you hit, many times you don't.

FISHING SPOTS

Next spring when most of us are anticipating an early summer and a return to favorite fishing spots, Tom Kirk will be facing his moment of truth high in the hills.

"We think we have a rich property and the diamond drill will confirm our high hopes," says Tom.

And if it doesn't

"I'll have no regrets. I have seen some of the most wonderful country in the world and shared experiences I could never hope to have had.

"But I'm not worried. I know the ore is there."

Reservoir Low Bids Indicated

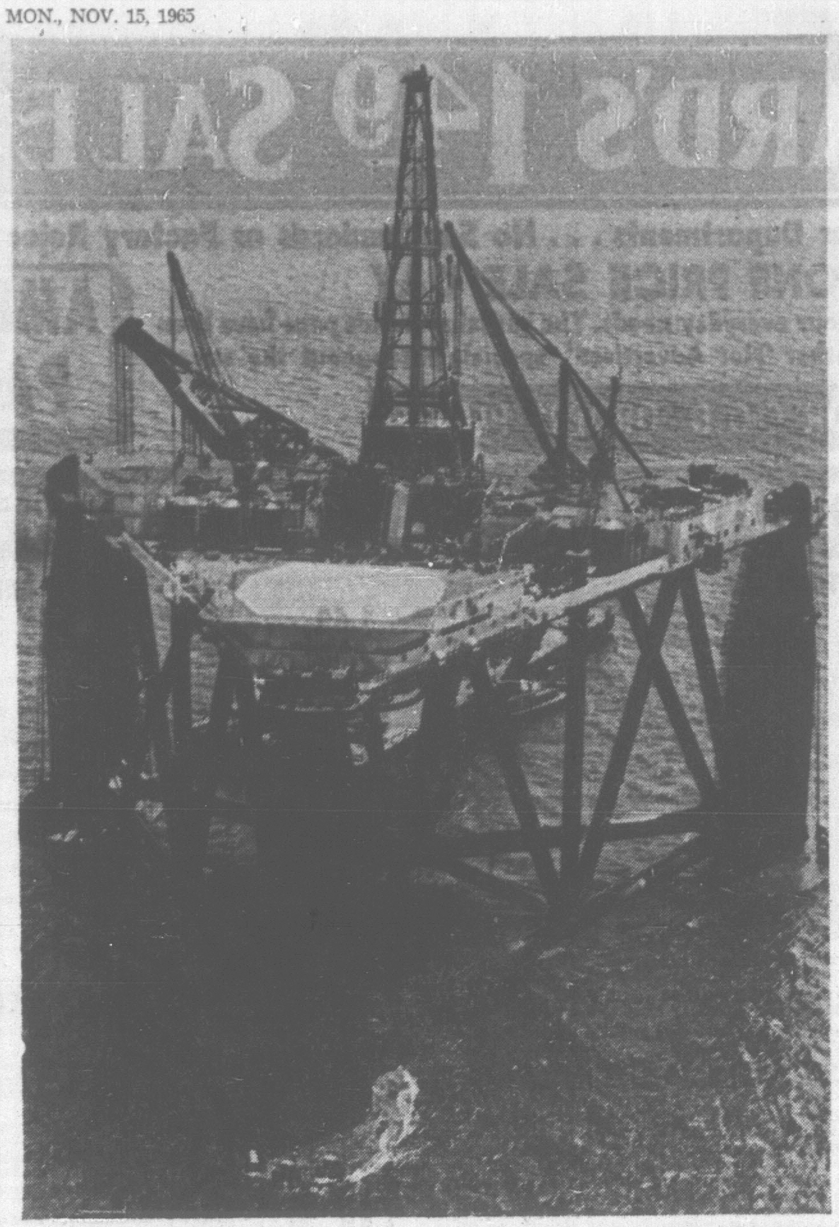
VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority announced today A. C. McEachern Ltd. of Vancouver has submitted apparent low bids on two of five contracts for clearing of nearly 2,000 acres in the reservoir behind the Arrow Dam.

The firm submitted a bid of $84,980 for clearing of 305 acres and a bid of $133,840 for the second contract to clear 580 acres. Both blocks of land are located on the west shore of Upper Arrow Lake, opposite Arrowhead.

On a third contract to clear approximately 450 acres in the same general area, Cattermole-Trethewey Contractors Ltd. of Vancouver submitted an apparent low bid of $130,500.

London Contracting Company and McArthur Construction of Prince George submitted apparent low bid of $127,750 for a contract to clear 365 acres south of Nakusp on the west side of Upper Arrow Lake.

Apparent low bid of $37,810 for the fifth contract, covering clearing of 95 acres on the opposite side of the lake, was submitted by Spatsum Lumber Company Ltd., of Vernon.



SUBMARINE DRILLING PLATFORM capable of reaching depth of more than 26,000 feet is on its way from Hiroshima, Japan, for the coast of Borneo. It was built by Mitsubishi Heavy Industries and is partly owned by Shell Petroleum Co.

BANK STOCKS EDGE UPWARDS

Election, Resignation Fail to Shake Market

By PHIL FORSYTH-SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock exchanges showed little reaction last week to the federal election, the gigantic power breakdown or the resignation of Finance Minister Gordon.

Volume on the Toronto Stock Exchange Friday was 3,790,000 shares compared with 6,617,000 the previous Friday and volume for the week was 19,856,000 shares compared with 23,190,000 the week before.

Many stocks moved sideways in price rather than up or down, although the general price trend was mixed with golds and western oils advancing on index while industrials, base metals and the TSE indices all declined.

Bank stocks, which were soft during the week on rumor of a tight money policy, showed their only strength Friday after Mr. Gordon's step-down from the finance portfolio was announced late Thursday.

Royal climbed ¾ to 73, Nova Scotia 1 to 72½ and Imperial-Commerce ¼ to 62¾. Montreal and Toronto-Dominion were both unchanged at 60¾ and 61¾.

ONLY TWO GAINED

However their improvement on the day still left most below last week's levels and Montreal and Nova Scotia were the only two to make fractional gains: Montreal ¼ and Nova Scotia ½.

A few individual issues in the main list did manage to capture investors' attention but they were quickly upstaged by the otherwise dull market or another stock.

Following news that American aluminium producers were increasing prices, Canadian companies announced they would do the same.

The United States government called the move inflationary and said they would release 300,000 tons from their stockpile. This caused a sell-off in aluminium stocks and aluminium dipped a point to 32. Later, American producers said they would drop the price increases but while aluminium traded actively Friday and tacked on ¼, it was still off a point on the week.

Aluminum Hike Falls Like House of Cards

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. aluminum price increase collapsed like a house of cards last week.

The aluminum industry wilted after the government said it would sell 300,000 tons of the metal from its stockpile.

Aluminum Company of America, the No. 1 producer, rescinded the increase Wednesday and other companies followed suit.

It was reminiscent of the late president Kennedy's victory in publicly forcing the steel industry to roll back a price boost in 1962. But this time, President Johnson remained silent, leaving it to Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler and government economists to carry the ball.

The government first met the price increase with an assertion that it would sell 200,000 tons of stockpiled aluminum. It said this had nothing to do with the price rise, but it labelled the boost as inflationary and unjustified. The producers declined to rescind.

Then the government played its trump card, announcing it would sell 300,000 tons of stockpiled aluminum, 100,000 tons of it immediately.

This was more than the industry could take, and it backed down.

The decision by Alcoa to withdraw the increase of one-half cent a pound for ingots and one cent a pound for fabricated metal was announced in a hurriedly called press conference by McNamara Wednesday night.

Even after rescinding the price increases, Alcoa and Reynolds Metals said that they still considered them justified and necessary to maintain adequate profits.

The government arranged with industry leaders to resume talks on disposal of stockpiled metal.

B.C. Tel Hearings Completed

VANCOUVER (CP)—A public hearing by the Board of Transport Commissioners into the financial affairs of the B.C. Telephone Co., ended here Friday.

The hearings began Oct. 25.

H. H. Griffin, assistant chief commissioner, said the judgment of the board would be handed down later in Ottawa. Mr. Griffin sat as chairman of the three-member panel during the three-week hearing.

He said the board will study the 13 volumes of testimony and the numerous exhibits placed before it during the 14 sitting days of the hearing It also will consider and make additional inquiries as necessary and, "as soon as other commitments permit, we will issue our judgment."

The board heard argument from three parties Friday. They were C. W. Brazier, counsel for the province of B.C.; E. P. O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Federation of Labor; and J. D. Taggart, counsel for the company.

NEW RIDE FOR PYRAMID

Good Test Sparks Rise

Most mining stocks pushed ahead on big volumes today as the Vancouver Stock Exchange reacted busily to more assay results from the Pint Point area of the Northwest Territories.

Pyramid Mines, with its news of three "very satisfactory" tests, opened at $20 and settled back at noon to $17.50, up .25 from Friday's close. It traded 97,800 hrase to noon.

Volume after five hours of trading was 4,386,636 shares, despite delays of up to 80 minutes in release of stocks for trading while buy and sell orders were being matched.

Ace, which opened .30 higher at $2, slipped back to $1.65 on 233,000 shares.

Prosper gained .25 to a new high of $1.05 on 545,000 shares and Chataway was up .25 to $1.75 on 7,100 shares.

Blue Star slipped .01 to .26, Croydon gained .06 to a new high of $1.49 and Orecan was up .13 to a new high of $1.40. Rodstrom gained .17 to .75 and Dynasty was unchanged at $13.

Lornex was a loser, off .60 at $2.30 and New Cronin dropped .05 to .40.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Electronics Feature Wall Street Trading

Strength in electronics and aerospace issues featured heavy trading on Wall Street this afternoon. Toronto prices were generally stronger in moderate mid-afternoon trading.

AT NEW YORK—Volume for the day was estimated at 8,400,000 shares compared with 7,790,000 Friday.

Three-point gains by Boeing and United Aircraft were outstanding in the aerospace section.

Up about two points were Radio Corp., Raytheon, IBM and SCM Corp.

AT TORONTO in the main list, Supertest was up 1⅛ to 24⅛, Dofasco ½ to 28½, Distillers Seagram ⅝ to 38, Massey-Ferguson ⅜ to 33⅞ and Simpsons ¼ to 30¼.

Among primary metals, Noranda advanced ½ to 54½, Inco ¼ to 101¾ and Falconbridge was unchanged at 110.

Companies with interests in the Northwest Territories Pine Point area were active and moved higher. Pine Point was ahead 1½ to 80, Cominco ⅛ to 51⅜, CPR ½ to 71, Conwest 25 cents to 8.10, Newconex 10 cents to 8.10 and Central Patricia 4 cents to 1.94.

Place, in the western oils group, pushed up 2 cents to 2.08.

AT MONTREAL metals and speculative mines were off but most other sections were fractionally higher in moderately active trading towards 2 p.m. today.

Industrial volume was 117,200 and mines and oils 774,900.

Utilities were higher with CPR climbing one point to 71½ and Trans-Canada Pipeline ¼ to 34⅞.

Among the industrials Moore Corp. added ¼ to 81½ and Asbestos ⅛ to 25.

AT LONDON the stock market was subdued today, with Rhodesia acting as a restraining influence, while there was little to encourage buyers.

However, there were few sellers and small selective demand produced a sprinkling of useful gains.

Gilt-edged issues were extremely quiet with prices hardly tested. Speculative buying of Rhodesia stocks produced gains of between 1 and 4 points.

Dept. Store Takeover Bid 'Defeated'

LONDON (AP)—Lewis' Investment Trust, a $154,000,000 concern that owns Selfridge's of Oxford Street, the famous London department store, claims it has beaten off a take-over attempt.

But the bid, made by Charles Clore, British store and real estate millionaire, is being kept open.

Clore made the bid last month through his British Shoe Corp. Lewis' chairman, Sir Rex Cohen, immediately advised his shareholders to turn it down.

Clore—veteran of take-over bids whose acquisitions have made him Britain's biggest purveyor of shoes and brought him interests in knitting machines, office blocks, gold mines and nuclear-power stations—later issued a statement through BSC declaring:

"It (BSC) does not intend to withdraw its offers for Lewis' Investment Trust . . ."

L.I.T. has been run by Cohen's family for 109 years. Though Selfridge's in London is its plum, the company also owns a chain of provincial stores and is based in Liverpool.

Clore's bid offers them about 16 shillings ($2.40) a share—a bid which more or less equalled the stock market value of Lewis shares when it was made last month.

Since then, however, Lewis shares have slid on the market, dropping Friday to around 14 shillings ($2.10). Some £9,000,000 ($27,000,000) has been lopped off the company's value.

It now stands in the market at a value just over £46,000,000.

GIANT SHIP AWAITS TIDE

SYDNEY (UPI)—The largest ship ever built in Australia will be launched next month.

The 49,000-ton bulk ore carrier Darling River is under construction at the Broken Hill Proprietary company's Whyalla Shipyard.

Because the ship is so big and the launching harbor so small launching will depend on weather and tidal conditions.

The ship cost $14 million and will be launched between Dec. 8 and 14.

Canadians In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Twenty-seven Canadian businessmen arrived here Saturday night to attend the third Canada-Japan Businessmen's Conference, beginning in Tokyo Nov. 16. The group is headed by Maj.-Gen. R. H. Keefler, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Banks buying cheques at 7½ premium, notes 7⅛ premium and buying silver at 5¼. Selling cheques at 8 premium, notes 8¼ premium.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar up 1/16 at 92 61/64 in terms of U.S. fund. Pound sterling up 1/64 at $2.80 23/64.

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a premium down 3/32 at $1.07 9/16 in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported near noon today. Pound sterling down ¼ at $3.01 9/16.

LAST MONTH DAVE HOLLAND OWNED TWO FACTORIES . . . AND ONE ULCER

Dave Holland's problem is shared by a great many senior businessmen. He didn't know how to retire. He was reluctant to make a complete break with his life's work; he was concerned for the future of his employees; he lacked the time and the specialized knowledge to find and appraise potential buyers. Hence the ulcer.

Corpex Services Limited solved the problem. We arranged financing for Dave's employees to buy the business, plus a part-time management contract for Dave to ease the shock of retirement for himself and his company.

If your business problem involves the sale or acquisition of a business, an amalgamation or merger, corporate financing, industrial or marketing studies, consult Corpex Services Limited for experienced and confidential advisory services on all facets of business.

Under the mane . . .

NOW THE MEN HAVE HAIR 'DONE'

By JACQUES ROUSSEAUX

Well, we've done it again . . . once more Victoria is last to fall in step with a trend that has been sweeping the continent for months.

But perhaps it's just as well, for by now the new trend in barbering has proved itself not just a fad, but a needed change that is here to stay.

I think it is, now that I am possibly the first man in Victoria to sport . . . a hairstyle. Custom-styled hair is the newest look in personal grooming.

Sunday morning I volunteered as model for a Vancouver stylist, Alvin Hackworth, who was giving a demonstration "in the new art of barbering" to a group of pioneering Victoria barbers. The lesson was the first in a 10-week course designed to bring local barbers up to date.

With a sigh of relief I didn't have to expose myself to clippers while anxiously hoping not to look like a sheared lamb.

Instead I watched in the mirrors the feather-cutting styling razor shape my hair in a soft hairstyle fitted to the contour of my head.

And that's the secret of the new barbering trend . . . to achieve a natural, casual, clean-cut look in a smooth line suited to the personality of the individual.

"This is the first change in the trade in 40 years," Mr. Hackworth says, "and it's bringing it to what it should be—an art."

"We're not going to fight nature any more," he says.

"And if styling your hair appears sissy to you, remember, being clean, healthy and well groomed is not feminine — it is natural."

'THOUGHT HE COULD MAKE IT'

STETTLER RETURNS FROM SCENE

Fishboat Skipper Refused Russians' Help

By RON SUDLOW
Marine Reporter

Russian seamen offered assistance to Capt. Oisten Hansen after the Vancouver fishboat was in collision with a Soviet trawler last Wednesday, it was learned today.

The aid was refused by the Canadian fisherman and his craft sank two hours later, claiming the life of its cook.

More details of the incident were revealed today by Lieut.-Cmdr. Tom Irvine, commanding officer of HMCS Stettler which returned to Esquimalt.

The Stettler was called to assist in conducting an investigation into the accident.

The Soviet trawler Mikalov was under tow to the Russian tug Bestraseny at the time of the collision.

At the time of the impact, Russian seamen shouted to the skipper of the Vancouver trawler.

They could see damage to her stern on the starboard side, Lieut.-Cmdr. Irvine said the Russians told him.

Then the tug made a circle and Soviet seamen again attempted to see if the Aleutian Queen was still seaworthy.

Mrs. Hansen, wife of the fishboat skipper, said in an interview on the weekend the Russians also ran up signal flags which meant they would help if needed.

"Oisten thought he could make it and didn't answer," she said.

OVER ON SIDE

"It was two hours later when the stern filled with water and the boat went over on its side and started to sink."

When it became evident the 68-foot craft would founder, a distress signal was flashed and the Hansens, Oisten and son Robert, 11, were picked up by the Western Maid.

However, the vessel's cook, Ode Gronlund, drowned.

"The Russians seemed very surprised the Aleutian Queen went down and were deeply concerned about the loss of life," Lieut.-Cmdr. Irvine said.

He added they were extremely co-operative throughout the entire investigation and made available their log book, charts and other notes.

"They are highly-professional people. Their log books were very well maintained," observed the Stettler commander.

The collision occurred outside the 12-mile fishing limit, about 20 miles off Cape Scott on the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

Weather at the time was good and visibility extended 12 miles. The Soviets first saw the Aleutian Queen when she was two miles away.

She approached the Soviet trawler on the port side and was not fishing at the time of the collision, the Russians told Lt.-Cmdr. Irvine.

Also conducting the investigation were Capt. Mitchell Gay of the fisheries department and Capt. Cyril Burrill of the department of transport.

SEAMAN HELPFUL

The investigation was conducted in Ukrainian translated by Stettler ordinary seaman Marshal Raymond Worobets, 21, of Andrew, Alberta.

Saturday the Stettler answered her seventh Mayday in six months when she assisted the Seattle fishboat Western Maid which was shipping water.

Her main bilge pump failed when its chain drive to the engine broke. The boat took on two feet of water.

She also had a full load of fish and wallowed in the heavy seas off the northern tip of the Island, reported Stettler engineer officer Lt. Lucien Voyager, 3841 Clarndon.

Sailors from Stettler hand-bailed the vessel for two hours until she was safely in port at Bull Harbor.

They repaired the pump but couldn't start the ship's engine because of the water in the hull.

The Western Maid was towed to safety by the Bremerton, Wash., fishboat Valiant Lady. She was escorted by the Stettler and the fisheries patrol vessel Laurier.

'BOTH GOING TO DIE'

A woman collapsed in court today after telling of a beating she received Saturday from her common-law husband.

Doris Cloke, 3945 Rainbow, collapsed at the courtroom door after testifying how she was dragged down her basement stairs at knifepoint while her life was threatened.

The husband, William J. Falconer, who pleaded guilty to the assault, was remanded in custody to Nov. 23 for sentence.

Before leaving the prisoner's box he said: "I'm thoroughly ashamed."

"And so you should be," added Magistrate J. A. Byers.

Mrs. Cloke testified that while she was watching the Jackie Gleason show on television she heard a commotion downstairs.

"But I didn't go down because I knew Bill was drinking.

'GOING TO DIE'

"Later, after the June Taylor dancers, Bill pulled me downstairs by the hair and said 'We're both going to die tonight.' Bill had the knife . . . he said he was going to kill me.

"My baby (six years old) was screaming so hard that my boys came down and tried to telephone the police, but the phone wires had been cut.

"I was trying to keep away from him and while he was breaking all the cupboards and dishes the knife fell, and my baby, she grabbed the knife and hid it."

When police finally arrived after the son notified them both parties had left the house.

Falconer was later arrested while driving his car.

Mrs. Cloke testified she has been living with Falconer for the the past six years.

NEW CHIEF PROSECUTOR for central magistrate's courts here, J. W. Anderson assumed duties today, although court appearances must wait for bar association qualification. Mr. Anderson was in private law practice in Edmonton, where he had been assistant to the deputy attorney-general of Alberta.

Three Homes Entered In Rockland District

A break-in artist is operating in the Rockland Avenue area.

Police believe the same culprit is responsible for three break-ins which occurred in the area at the weekend.

A total of $135 in cash and sets of keys were stolen in a break-in at 1726 Green Oak Terrace Saturday night.

Owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dawson, said they had been at the Memorial Arena in the evening and the house was vacant.

The same sneak thief was believed frightened away from the scene of his second break-in at 1632 Rockland when the gardener investigated noises in a darkened part of the house.

A window was later found broken.

The third break-in occurred Sunday afternoon while A. B. McKinnon was absent from his home at 1760 Rockland.

Two bedrooms were ransacked and $18 stolen from a wallet in a drawer.

In each case the break-ins occurred while the homes were either vacant or appeared vacant and in each case entry to the home was gained either through an opened window or by breaking a window.

Help Score 'Fair Share' Goal

The United Appeal total stood at $374,404 at noon today.

Inching slowly toward its $439,210 goal, it stood at 85.2 per cent at latest count.

An encouraging $1,306 from 102 employees of Northwestern Creamery Ltd. swelled the coffers from Saturday's total.

It also earned the donors the Appeal's plaque award for the sixth time for 80 per cent participation in the fund drive.

The United Appeal booth at Douglas and Yates yielded a less encouraging figure Saturday—$82—and is staffed today by members of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, a Community Chest agency.

The residential campaign, meanwhile, is within $10,000 of its $68,800 goal, thanks to work of hundreds of volunteer canvassers and organizers.

Newspaper Hearing Promised

Greater Victoria School Board may be beset by eager students wanting their own inter-high newspaper—but board members are in the dark about it.

A student delegation planned to lay the case before the board some time this week.

The board meeting is tonight.

But if the students are coming, nobody has been told.

Asked if school trustees would receive the students tonight, district superintendent of schools John Gough said, "I don't know a thing about it."

"NOT EVASIVE"

"I'm not being evasive," he added. "But none has come to me officially."

A student spokesman said today a delegation, including representatives from the University of Victoria student council and the student newspaper The Martlett, is planning to attend the meeting.

SQUELCHED

They want to protest the school board's alleged squelching of an idea for an inter-high school newspaper.

But they had not informed the board they planned to attend the meeting.

Said school board secretary-treasurer Tom Christie, "I don't know a thing about it."

If they do appear at the meeting "I think they should have a hearing," said board chairman John Porteous.

New Pavilion At Windsor To Get Priority

Construction of a new pavillion and caretaker's quarters for Windsor Park will be high on Oak Bay's 1966 parks budget priority list.

This was decided Saturday by council's works, parks and traffic committee after looking at facilities.

Estimated cost of the project will be $40,000.

On their tour Couns. Bill Wade, Mrs. Frances Elford and Douglas Watts also looked at a proposed subdivision site on Midland Road, inspected a safety problem at the Elgin Street municipal yard and checked Oak Bay marina where a screen is to be erected to hide the marine railway.

SUPPORT HOUSEWIFE'S VOTING PETITION

Student Blitz Hits Thursday

One hundred Uvic students will go to war next Thursday—armed with paper and pencil.

The students are taking up the fight started last week by housewife Judy Nyquist, 1849 Carnarvon.

They will petition for a change in election procedure to allow hospital patients to vote outside their own constituency.

Members of the Alma Mater Society, the students will stage a one-night blitz, knocking on doors to gather names for Mrs. Nyquist's petition.

Meanwhile, several people up-Island have offered to collect names in their own district.

When complete, the petitions will go to Ottawa.

Mrs. Nyquist would like to see mobile polling booths in each hospital on federal election nights.

These would be taken bed to bed. Patients registered in another polling district should be given an absentee vote, claims Mrs. Nyquist.

TOP BAG THIS YEAR? Mead Hepworth thinks so. The 30-year-old truck driver of 5440 Fowler, Saanich, dropped this 198-pound buck with one shot from a .300 Weatherby magnum at the weekend. The majestic 10-pointer wasn't the only kill by Mead and his father, George, of 5412 Fowler. Hunting in the Port Renfrew area, they returned home with three deer to their credit. Although no official records are kept of deer weights, several from Vancouver Island have been weighed in at 220 pounds-plus. (Jim Ryan photo)

Youths Charged In Two Attacks

MENTAL CASES

'Find Room At Jubilee' Says Martin

Health Minister Eric Martin today suggested Royal Jubilee Hospital administrators should try to find some space in the main hospital for temporary psychiatric beds.

He was commenting on criticisms at the weekend that three mentally-ill persons awaiting transfer to Riverview Hospital at Essondale had to be locked in jail cells here for lack of proper accommodation.

"We didn't put them there," Mr. Martin said.

"And we don't build hospital beds, either. That has to be done at the hospitals' own initiative."

He said some time ago he urged Royal Jubilee officials to increase their Bay Street psychiatric pavilion and offered government financial assistance.

DOUBLED

"They came up with doubling of the pavilion and that has been done. We figured everything was hunky-dory because we weren't asked for any more help.

"There has been no further application from the hospital for more of these grants."

Mr. Martin said it had been felt the pavilion enlargement would fill the gap between former bed capacity and the opening of a 176-bed intensive psychiatric treatment hospital planned by his department for construction behind Royal Jubilee.

TWO-YEAR WAIT

The provincial hospital will cost $6 million and will be six storeys high, but will not be in operation for at least two years.

"In the meantime, I would suggest to Royal Jubilee that if some temporary arrangement could be made in the hospital, we would be prepared to help financially in the usual way," Mr. Martin said.

He added it may be possible that St. Joseph's Hospital might embark on a program of developing a psychiatric pavilion but all hospital plans in this area currently are bogged down awaiting outcome of the hospital district proposal.

It involves a ratepayer vote at the civic elections next month to determine whether the local area will begin taxing property owners for a hospital construction fund.

"A colossal amount depends on that vote," said Mr. Martin.

Escapers Assault Woman, Paper Boy

Two juvenile escapees from Brannen Lake reformatory near Nanaimo have been charged in connection with two separate assaults and a car theft.

The pair were apprehended Sunday afternoon hitchhiking on the Patricia Bay Highway.

Police believe they are responsible for a purse-snatching attack on a woman Sunday morning and the attempted robbery of a Times newsboy Saturday.

The woman was accosted by one of the youths at 7:25 a.m. Sunday while she was walking to work in the 700 Block on Humboldt Street.

JUMPED FROM CAR

Mrs. Vera Gatyshun, Churchill Hotel, told police the youth jumped from a car and made a grab at her purse.

She struck the youth on the head several times with her open umbrella, but in the ensuing struggle was knocked to the ground and kicked in the knee.

The youth then fled empty-handed in the car, later found to have been stolen.

The newsboy was attacked as he rode his bicycle on the Town and Country shopping centre parking lot.

He was carrying $70 in collections from his newspaper route.

The robbery was foiled when the occupants of two passing cars intervened.

The thieves also knocked the dial from the office safe but did not gain entry.

Innocence Plea In Baby's Death

An attractive 25-year-old mother pleaded not guilty in Victoria Law Courts today to killing her six-month-old daughter, Kimberlie.

The decomposed body of the baby was found in her mother's bedroom soon after midnight on July 3.

Before a 12-man Assize Court jury, Mrs. Mary Jean Bilton, 3128 Cook Street, sat demurely with hands folded in the dock while three charges were read.

The first was assault causing death; the second criminal negligence causing death; the third causing bodily harm.

Her counsel, Robert Weir, answered "not guilty" to all three.

Roger Walker, appearing for the B.C. attorney-general's department, told the jury the child had apparently been dead for two weeks when it was found in a cot, a few feet from where Mrs. Bilton slept.

The body was found by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bley, 3128 Cook Street, for whom Mrs. Bilton worked as housekeeper.

The Bleys noticed a strong odor coming from Mrs. Bilton's bedroom. They went into the room and found the baby under some blankets covering the cot.

Police were called and, while they were examining the cot, Mrs. Bilton returned home. She was taken into custody soon after.

Mr. Walker said Mrs. Bilton entered the service of the Bleys on May 12. She brought the baby with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Bley said the child appeared healthy and well cared for, and they found Mrs. Bilton a very satisfactory housekeeper.

'PERFORMED WELL'

"She performed her duties well. She kept the house neat and tidy and she looked after the baby very well," Mr. Walker said.

The Bleys went to San Francisco on vacation on June 19 and left Mrs. Bilton in charge of the house.

They reported that, on their return, everything in their home seemed normal. Mrs. Bilton carried out her housekeeping duties in the normal way and continued to sleep in her bedroom as usual.

"They had no suspicion anything was wrong until they noticed the peculiar odor emanating from Mrs. Bilton's bedroom," Mr. Walker said.

The hearing continues this afternoon. Louis Lindholm is crown prosecutor. Mr. Weir and Gerald Sinnott are appearing for the accused.

Funeral Held For Former Island Trustee

Funeral rites were held recently in Nelson for former Victoria and Long Beach resident Dundas Kerr.

The 80-year-old man had lived at 2630 Arbutus, in Saanich, for the past nine years.

Before that he lived at Long Beach on Vancouver Island's west coast.

While there, he was warden of All Saints Church and a school trustee for many years.

An active Conservative, he was also keen on yachting, golfing and cricket.

Born in Church-in-Oswaldtwistle, Lancashire, England, he pioneered the fruit growing industry in the Kootenay area before coming to Vancouver Island.

He is survived by the widow Dorothy, of Nelson, a daughter, Mrs. D. H. T. Mollison, of Victoria, and five sisters in England.

Frostbiters Foiled

Winds proved too strong for Royal Victoria Yacht Club frostbite sailors Saturday and racing was cancelled.

A new race, between the clubhouse and Oak Bay Marina, was to have been inaugurated.

Next weekend RVYC frostbiters will hold their club championship races for the month of November.

Ask The Times

Q. In Canada, does the term prime minister correctly refer to the leader of the federal government and the term premier to the leader of the provincial government—or are the terms synonymous. C.O.S.

A. Premier was formerly interchangeable with prime minister but now chiefly used when referring to leaders of provincial cabinets, says the Encyclopedia Canadiana.

Q. How fast would an airplane have to fly to break the sound barrier? E.P.

A. More than 760 m.p.h., at sea level.

Gibbs Defies Smith

(Times News Services)

SALISBURY — Loyalist Governor-General Sir Humphrey Gibbs today defied rebel Premier Ian Smith in a face-to-face confrontation over who is legally in charge of the Rhodesian government.

Faced with growing internal opposition to the breakaway government, Smith and two aides drove to government house for a 70-minute meeting with Gibbs, who had refused orders Sunday night to step down.

A spokesman for the governor-general, who remains loyal to the orders of Queen Elizabeth and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, said Gibbs remained adamant in his position.

Gibbs, who settled in Rhodesia in 1923, dismissed Smith and his cabinet after last Thursday's unilateral declaration of independence. Smith in turn ordered Sir Humphrey to vacate Government House. Gibbs said Sunday night he would resign only if "asked by Her Majesty to do so."

100 SIGN BOOK

While Smith was inside Government House with Deputy Premier Clifford Dupont and Justice Minister Desmond Lardner, more than 100 visitors signed the guest book—a sign of solidarity with Gibbs.

In Bulawayo, 220 miles southwest of Salisbury, black Nationalist leaders failed today when they tried to organize a general strike by African workers. Police riding shotgun on buses told the workers not to be intimidated by the Nationalists, who were urging persons at bus stops not to board the vehicles.

Rhodesia's foremost Anglican prelate, the Right Rev. Cecil Alderson, Bishop of Masonaland, declared at a memorial service in Salisbury honoring Second World War dead the illegality of the Smith government was "quite clear."

Bishop Alderson declared Sunday to a crowd of several hundred persons at the service "there is a Christian rights and maybe a Christian duty to disobey" orders of the rebel government.

"I would be gravely insincere and cowardly if I did not state again here the united judgment of almost all Christian leaders of this land . . . I believe what has been done to be wrong."

He added Rhodesians have "the responsibility and the right to make up their own minds on great moral issues and be answerable to God in their own consciences."

White senior civil servants and army officers with close ties to Britain were also reported in dissent. Gloom fell over business circles in Salisbury.

Smith, however, appeared confident and firmly in control.

Informants said David Hall, chief of protocol and a former regular British officer, had resigned. Many others were believed to be also considering resignation.

Temporary restrictions on banking facilities and a general uncertainty of the country's future have caused commercial circles to delay transactions.

No positive reaction was expected before Britain and other countries made clear the actions they planned taking to counter Rhodesia's seizure of independence.

Tory Die-Hards Fight Sanctions

LONDON (AP) — Emergency legislation enabling the British government to clamp stiff economic sanctions on the white settler regime in Rhodesia began passage through Parliament today. Britain's chief legal official termed the bill "extremely urgent."

Debate began in the Commons and the House of Lords. The government is trying to rush the bill through in one day and Queen Elizabeth was expected to sign the measure after midnight tonight.

The Conservative party Commons leadership decided at a one-hour meeting before Parliament met to help the Labor government speed the legislation through.

But a handful of right-wing Conservative MPs planned to contest the legislative time limits in the Commons.

In the House of Lords, the Marquess of Salisbury, a former Conservative kingmaker and long a supporter of white Rhodesian interests, planned to introduce an amendment that would delay application of the sanctions—particularly a proposed ban on tobacco imports.

Opening the debate in the House of Lords was Lord Gardiner, the Lord Chancellor and head of the British judiciary.

He has been one of the government's chief legal advisers through the crisis that reached a climax last Thursday when Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia's independence from Britain.

He was the first of 40 speakers on the Lords' agenda.

Stressing the urgency of the bill, Lord Gardiner said Britain must act quickly against the Rhodesian regime. He said Smith appeared to have been acting under pressure—"He has a lot of extremists in his cabinet and I am afraid they have carried the day."

'Gov't Robbing Hospitals' Of Promised Financial Aid

By PETE LOUDON

Loudon

A group of municipal leaders in the capital region has charged the provincial government with robbing community hospitals of their promised financial support.

They say the province has diverted to other purposes $44 million collected from the 5 per cent sales tax over the past seven years and earmarked for hospital use.

Now, they object, the property owners of the capital region are to be asked to raise $5.7 million dollars through a referendum on Dec. 11 toward a $13.5 million hospital program

(Why is a rich city in a rich district in a rich province going without sufficient hospital beds? Why is this issue building into a controversy involving two layers of government instead of being quietly and efficiently solved? The Times asked reporter Pete Loudon to explore the issue. This is his second report in a four-part series.)

Three municipal leaders have so far openly condemned the proposed system of financing the needed beds for district hospitals. They charge it will be the province's responsibility if property-owners reject the hospital vote.

Dilemma

The figures backing the objections and cited in this article are now being studied by other municipal elected officials. Councils will be meeting in the next few weeks and coping with their dilemma.

Should they tell their voters to support the hospital vote and thus answer a vital need they all recognize?

Or should they urge defeat of the referendum to fight a principle—their belief that the province is loading more and more of the cost of public service on the property-owner?

Before going further into the municipal position of protest it should be pointed out that the provincial government, as represented in the issue by Health Minister Eric Martin, objects in turn to their contentions. In the next article in this series he gives reasons supporting the government position.

Higher Share

The municipal leaders who have so far expressed themselves, and those who will do so in the next few weeks, say

RHODESIA

Armed Police Break Up Negro Strike

BULAWAYO (Reuters) — Police armed with shotguns today broke up an attempted strike by Negroes in this Rhodesian industrial centre.

Thousands of Negroes leaving the township for work had been ordered by African nationalists to get off their bicycles and not to use public transport.

Armed police in jeeps drove through the streets and ordered the Negroes back on to buses.

Some Negroes alleged to have intimidated others were arrested.

Factories and offices later reported little absenteeism although many Negroes turned up late.

A police spokesman said the mail and passenger train from Salisbury to Bulawayo was stoned Sunday night near Gwelo, about 100 miles north of here. Several windows were shattered but no one was injured.

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Wilson may agree to an oil embargo against Rhodesia because of pressure from the United Nations, British newspapers suggest today.

The Daily Telegraph says there is a threat to government unity over Rhodesia because many Labor parliamentarians feel Wilson's administration has applied fewer bans and control than should have been exerted.

The Daily Mail reports: "Britain, opposed to the use of force, is ready to compromise by supporting a UN ban on oil supplies to Rhodesia, providing the major oil-producing countries can demonstrate it will be effective."

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — More than 100 Negro students smashed windows of the British embassy with stones and clashed with Israeli police here today in a protest over Britain's Rhodesia policy. At least one policeman was injured.

The hour long attack came suddenly during an address by a student spokesman who had just presented to the British charge d'affaires, Arthur Kellas, a resolution condemning Britain for not taking military action against Rhodesia.

NO RUSH FOR SESSION, HOUSE OPENS JAN. 18

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament will reassemble Tuesday, Jan. 18, the cabinet decided today.

The announcement was made by an aide to Prime Minister Pearson while the cabinet still was in session.

Mr. Pearson had indicated during the campaign that Parliament might be summoned for a week before Christmas when the eight-day throne speech debate could be completed but said no definite plans had been made.

This will be the first session of Canada's 27th Parliament, with the Liberals holding 131 seats, three short of a clear majority in the 265-seat House of Commons.

IN RHODESIA

UN 'Presence' Bid Sidelined

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Uruguay suggested today that the Security Council establish a UN "presence" in rebellious Rhodesia but back-stage negotiations failed to produce a middle-road resolution.

Delegates' efforts to agree on a resolution on the issue of whether to give China's UN seat to the Peking regime also bogged down and it appeared that the General Assembly would move on to other business without voting on that question.

Sen. Hector Paysse Reyes of Uruguay told the council his proposal for a UN "presence" in Rhodesia would not conflict with moves being undertaken there by Britain to put down the white minority secession stemming from the territorial government's unilateral declaration of independence last week.

Paysse Reyes did not present a resolution but said the council should establish the "presence" as a means of underlining its concern for the Rhodesian situation and its competence to deal with the situation there.

The asesmbly was scheduled this afternoon to wind up its perennial debate on a seat for Red China. But sponsors of this year's move still had not agreed on a resolution strong enough to face the confidence of the United States and Nationalist China that the move would be defeated, even if by the narrowest margin in history.

Slaying In Colorado Traced to B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are investigating two men here in the shooting death of an unidentified youth in Colorado.

A Colorado prosecuting officer will arrive here tonight to interview the men, police said today.

The youth's body was found Oct. 23 under a tree half a mile off a highway 16 miles east of Durango, Colo.

Durango is a highway junction town about 180 miles southwest of Denver.

Sheriff Walter Conrad of Durango said in a telephone interview today it is believed the victim was shot in a Durango motel and taken to the spot where the body was found.

BLOOD IN MOTEL

Blood was found in the motel, which had been occupied the night before by the victim and two other persons.

The motel operator told police he believed the three men came from Canada.

The victim died of a bullet wound in the temple.

Investigators said a shirt manufactured in Edmonton was found near the body.

The men being investigated here were picked up recently in connection with another case.

WIRE BRIEFS

Bid for Olympics

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse says Mayor Jean Drapeau will announce tonight that Montreal wants to be host to the 1972 summer Olympic games. The mayor has called a press conference which is to be attended by Premier Lesage and leading personalities from the sports world.

Ships Go Silent

TOKYO (AP) — Two Japanese ships with a total of 81 persons aboard went silent today after sending distress calls while sailing in stormy seas north of Japan, the maritime safety board reported.

Visit Advanced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House announced today that West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's state visit to this country has been moved up to Dec. 3 and 4 at the request of the German government.

Eight Indians Killed

RAWALPINDI (AP)—Eight Indian soldiers were killed in new clashes along the cease-fire, a Pakistani spokesman said today.

Rail Workers Ask Pay Hike

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 53,000 non-operating railway workers presented new contract proposals to Canada's railways today calling for a general 55-cent hourly wage increase plus additional pay increases for skilled and night shift workers.

The non-ops' joint negotiating committee, speaking for members of seven unions, asked for a 20-per-cent wage increase for skilled workers to adjust what it called existing wage inequities and a 10-per-cent increase for regularly scheduled night workers.

Walkout Set For Midnight

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today made a last-ditch attempt to ward off a province-wide strike against all oil companies set for midnight.

He sent telegrams to all the parties urging them not to permit a total tie-up of the oil and gas industry.

PETERSON
. . . cancels trip

"This will confirm that my department has offered any assistance you may care to take advantage of to effect a settlement of the oil industry dispute," said the telegrams.

"Government considers the continued supply of oil and gas essential and urges you to settle your differences with employers (employees) and in any event to avoid the complete tie-up of this essential industry."

Union and management spokesmen were not available for comment on the telegrams.

Mr. Peterson released the texts without comment after declining to see reporters in the morning.

Mr. Peterson cancelled a trip to Washington, D.C., Tuesday. He was to attend a meeting of the International Conference of Government Labor Officials, of which he is president.

On Sunday, he repeated earlier comments saying "I am not prepared to tolerate any action which would result in a total shutdown of this industry."

There was speculation the government will use the emergency powers of the Civil Defence Act if the strike occurs. This was first used nine years ago to stop a ferry strike.

A regular meeting of the cabinet was being held this afternoon at which the ministers would likely discuss the next move.

Before the telegrams were sent, the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' International Union completed plans for its extended strike against Shell, Home, Texaco and Standard.

The union has been on strike against British American for two months and since Nov. 5 against Imperial's Port Moody refinery. BA operations on the Prairies and in Ontario have also been on strike since mid-September.

Sunday, 95 oil workers at Pacific Petroleums' McMahon Refinery in Taylor, B.C., were locked out. The company said this morning it had "relieved" the men to effect a more orderly takeover by supervisors.

Pickets were established at the refinery and at a nearby petro-

Jet Circling Globe Around Both Poles

HONOLULU (AP)—A Boeing 707 jet—crammed with instruments, scientists and observers —flew out of Honolulu today on an around-the-world flight over both the earth's poles.

The jet will cruise at between 30,000 and 41,000 feet to allow scientists to study high-altitude meteorology and clear-air turbulence. The plane was to land in London for its first refuelling stop.

Then, it is to speed on, passing Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Christchurch, N.Z., before returning to Honolulu in 52 to 56 hours.

The planned 26,203-mile flight over the poles never has been accomplished.

The battery of scientists aboard is headed by Dr. Serge A. Korff, professor of physics at New York University. Time-lapse cameras will photograph the weather at five-minute intervals. Studies also will be made on the jet stream, cosmic radiation, flight-crew fatigue and cockpit design.

CRASH KILLS AIRLINE CHIEF'S SON

INDIO, Calif. (UPI) — All eight passengers were found dead today in the wreckage of a twin-jet aircraft missing since Sunday on a flight from Palm Springs to Burbank, Calif.

The wreckage was found about six miles north of this desert community in a hilly area.

Among the dead were veteran flier Paul Kelly, the pilot, and 11-year-old Peter Prescott, son of Robert W. Prescott, president of Flying Tiger Lines.

The elder Prescott is aboard a jet transport on a polar circling of the earth.

'Find a Guy Named Terry . . . That's the Real Hero'

(See also Page 17)

MIAMI (UPI)—"If you are looking for a real hero, find a purser on that ship named Terry Wise."

"He grabbed older people, who were just too shocked or afraid to jump, put life jackets on them and bodily threw them into the sea."

These were the words of General Motors executive Robert White describing the rescue of 466 passengers and crew members of the ill fated Caribbean cruise ship Yarmouth Castle.

Mr. White, of Roanoke, Va., said he watched Wise (of Markham, Ont.) and Bahama Star Captain Carl L. Brown in action from the flying bridge of the burning cruiser.

He said "that's the only reason some of the passengers are alive today. Wise was among the last to leave the ship."

White, a former navy man, described the Bahama Star's captain as "one hell of a man —I never saw such marvelous seamanship."

At one point, White said, Capt. Brown manoeuvred the Bahama Star to within 250 yards of the flaming ship—"close enough to feel the heat and hear the people shouting and screaming for help."

"He kept repeating instructions over the bull horn: 'Put on your life jackets and jump into the sea. You'll be picked up immediately.

WISE
. . . among last to leave

"'Be careful. Don't jump into the lifeboats. Jump into the sea. Jump into the sea.'

"One man jumped into a lifeboat, fractured both his legs and his pelvis."

White said Brown ordered his own lifeboats to "move in close, the fire's on the top deck, the ship will not explode. Go in close and get them.

"And brother, that's exactly what they did," White said. "At one time I saw five or six lifeboats, right next to the hull."

Capt. Brown said the doomed ship's bridge and control centre collapsed in fiery rubble as the rescue vessel pulled alongside.

"The radio room would have gone before that," he said. "I definitely think the fire area was the reason no distress signal was sent."

Many passengers said no alarm was sounded aboard the Yarmouth Castle, but coast guard Capt. V. G. Niebergall said there were conflicting reports as to whether or not an alarm had been sounded.

Brown said he did not know what caused the fire but said "I think the officers of the Yarmouth Castle know where the fire started and who reported it."

NEW RIDE FOR PYRAMID

Good Test Sparks Rise

Most mining stocks pushed ahead on big volumes today as the Vancouver Stock Exchange reacted busily to more assay results from the Pine Point area of the Northwest Territories.

Pyramid Mines, with its news of three "very satisfactory" tests, opened at $20 and settled back at noon to $17.50, up .25 from Friday's close. It traded 97,800 shares to noon.

Volume after five hours of trading was 4,386,636 shares, despite delays of up to 80 minutes in release of stocks for trading while buy and sell orders were being matched.

Ace, which opened .30 higher at $2, slipped back to $1.65 on 233,000 shares.

Prosper gained .25 to a new high of $1.05 on 545,000 shares and Chataway was up .25 to $1.75 on 7,100 shares.

Blue Star slipped .01 to .26, Croydon gained .06 to a new high of $1.49 and Orecan was up .13 to a new high of $1.40. Rodstrom gained .17 to .75 and Dynasty was unchanged at $13.

Lornex was a loser, off .60 at $2.30 and New Cronin dropped .05 to .40.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Electronics Feature Wall Street Trading

Strength in electronics and aerospace issues featured heavy trading on Wall Street this afternoon. Toronto prices were generally stronger in moderate mid-afternoon trading.

AT NEW YORK—Volume for the day was estimated at 8,400,000 shares compared with 7,790,000 Friday.

Three-point gains by Boeing and United Aircraft were outstanding in the aerospace section.

Up about two points were Radio Corp., Raytheon, IBM and SCM Corp.

AT TORONTO in the main list, Supertest was up 1⅛ to 24⅛, Dofasco ½ to 28½, Distillers Seagram ⅝ to 38, Massey-Ferguson ⅜ to 33⅞ and Simpsons ¼ to 30¼.

Among primary metals, Noranda advanced ½ to 54½, Inco ¼ to 101¾ and Falconbridge was unchanged at 110.

Companies with interests in the Northwest Territories Pine Point area were active and moved higher. Pine Point was ahead 1½ to 80, Cominco ⅛ to 51⅝, CPR ½ to 71, Conwest 25 cents to 8.10, Newconex 10 cents to 8.10 and Central Patricia 4 cents to 1.94.

Place, in the western oils group, pushed up 2 cents to 2.08.

AT MONTREAL metals and speculative mines were off but most other sections were fractionally higher in moderately active trading towards 2 p.m. today.

Industrial volume was 117,200 and mines and oils 774,900.

Utilities were higher with CPR climbing one point to 71½ and Trans-Canada Pipeline ¼ to 34⅞.

Among the industrials Moore Corp. added ¼ to 81½ and Asbestos ⅛ to 25.

AT LONDON the stock market was subdued today, with Rhodesia acting as a restraining influence, while there was little to encourage buyers.

However, there were few sellers and small selective demand produced a sprinkling of useful gains.

Gilt-edged issues were extremely quiet with prices hardly tested. Speculative buying of Rhodesia stocks produced gains of between 1 and 4 points.

Dept. Store Takeover Bid 'Defeated'

LONDON (AP)—Lewis' Investment Trust, a $154,000,000 concern that owns Selfridge's of Oxford Street, the famous London department store, claims it has beaten off a take-over attempt.

But the bid, made by Charles Clore, British store and real estate millionaire, is being kept open.

Clore made the bid last month through his British Shoe Corp. Lewis' chairman, Sir Rex Cohen, immediately advised his shareholders to turn it down.

Clore—veteran of take-over bids whose acquisitions have made him Britain's biggest purveyor of shoes and brought him interests in knitting machines, office blocks, gold mines and nuclear-power stations—later issued a statement through BSC declaring:

"It (BSC) does not intend to withdraw its offers for Lewis' Investment Trust . . ."

L.I.T. has been run by Cohen's family for 109 years. Though Selfridge's in London is its plum, the company also owns a chain of provincial stores and is based in Liverpool.

Clore's bid offers them about 16 shillings ($2.40) a share—a bid which more or less equalled the stock market value of Lewis shares when it was made last month.

Since then, however, Lewis shares have slid on the market, dropping Friday to around 14 shillings ($2.10). Some £9,000,000 ($27,000,000) has been lopped off the company's value.

It now stands in the market at a value just over £46,000,000.

GIANT SHIP AWAITS TIDE

SYDNEY (UPI)—The largest ship ever built in Australia will be launched next month.

The 49,000-ton bulk ore carrier Darling River is under construction at the Broken Hill Proprietary company's Whyalla Shipyard.

Because the ship is so big and the launching harbor so small launching will depend on weather and tidal conditions.

The ship cost $14 million and will be launched between Dec. 8 and 14.

Canadians In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Twenty-seven Canadian businessmen arrived here Saturday night to attend the third Canada-Japan Businessmen's Conference, beginning in Tokyo Nov. 16. The group is headed by Maj.-Gen. R. H. Keefler, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

LAST MONTH DAVE HOLLAND OWNED TWO FACTORIES . . . AND ONE ULCER

Dave Holland's problem is shared by a great many senior businessmen. He didn't know how to retire. He was reluctant to make a complete break with his life's work; he was concerned for the future of his employees; he lacked the time and the specialized knowledge to find and appraise potential buyers. Hence the ulcer.

Corpex Services Limited solved the problem. We arranged financing for Dave's employees to buy the business, plus a part-time management contract for Dave to ease the shock of retirement for himself and his company.

If your business problem involves the sale or acquisition of a business, an amalgamation or merger, corporate financing, industrial or marketing studies, consult Corpex Services Limited for experienced and confidential advisory services on all facets of business.

'Flu-Racked Millar Sparks Gallant Win

Portland 2, Victoria 5

By DOUG PEDEN

Courage can be many things.

It can be refusing to give up in disgust and continuing to give until it hurts when so many breaks go against you that people would find no fault if you yielded.

It can be defying physical ailments and fatigue to give your best—almost more than your best—when you feel your teammates need you most.

Or it can be merely getting yourself in the right frame of mind to whip your most formidable foe.

Courage can be many other things, but those three were the ones that served Victoria Maple Leafs best Saturday night at Memorial Arena.

They were going against Portland Buckaroos, who had knocked the Leafs out of the Western League lead by whipping them 6-0 in Portland Wednesday and following up with Friday night triumph in Seattle.

Largest Turnout

This was the first "must" game of the young season and the Leafs had themselves in a mood to wrestle tigers. Before the night was over they had turned in some superb hockey and delighted a packed house of 5,150 fans by manhandling the Bucks 5-2 and regaining a tie for the lead—until the Bucks beat Vancouver 5-1 Sunday night in Portland.

But before they could get around to the business of pounding the Portlanders, they had a struggle to survive a series of setbacks that might have crushed a lesser team.

These were in the form of a parade of Leafs to the penalty box and they left the Victorians playing shorthanded most of the first period.

Youthful referee Barry Ballance, following the fine print in the rule book as closely as a blind midget reading it in Braille, handed out 11 minor penalties in the opening 20 minutes. And somehow he managed to tag the Leafs with eight of them, including the last five.

Leafs Held Out

Playing two men short for almost four minutes of the first period, and one or more short for one stretch of more than seven minutes, the Leafs managed to hold out against the club with the league's most potent power play for almost 18 minutes.

They did it on the strength of coach Frank Mario's collection of eager penalty-killers and some remarkable acrobatics by goalie Al Millar.

Millar was the man who should have been under blankets instead of being wrapped in hockey pads.

Hit by an attack of 'flu early Saturday morning, Millar spent the day without food and developing a sizzling temperature. When he showed up for the game, few expected him to last one period. Probably none of the Leafs expected him to be around at the finish.

Holland Steps In

He wasn't around at the finish, but he stayed until there were only 10 minutes remaining and the Leafs were sitting pretty with a 5-1 lead.

Rookie Gary Holland stepped into the nets after Millar's empty stomach had complained too vigorously for the second time in the final session. Gary had only one chance as his mates continued their great defending but couldn't see the screened shot that produced Jim Hay's first goal of the season.

Temperature and all, Millar has probably never been more effective and at least five of his saves were almost unbelievable. The only shot that eluded him was a close-in flip by Gerry Goyer at 17:56 of the opening session while the Leafs were two men short.

They were at full strength a minute later and suddenly school was out for the Bucks.

Barlow Scores Two

Gordie Redahl evened the count on a play with Lou Jankowski and 13 seconds later defenceman Aut Erickson got his first goal of the season on a shot deflected past goalie Don Head by Portland rearguard Connie Madigan.

With Millar kicking out everything thrown his way, the Victorians wrapped it up in the second period on a goal by Milan Marcetta and a pair by Bob Barlow.

The first-period penalty parade could have wrecked Victoria and spoiled the evening for the largest Victoria crowd to watch the Leafs. However, the way things turned out, the fans found extra satisfaction in watching their club beat the breaks and then rout the Bucks with spectacular hockey.

As Mario later pointed out, there were many local heroes.

"It was," he said, "a tremendous team effort. They were all great."

Bucks Hold Sway

Vancouver Canucks won one and lost one for their new owners in two of the four games played during the weekend in the Western Hockey League.

Canucks, purchased by a syndicate from Fred Hume for $500,000 last week, defeated Los Angeles Blades 5-2 Saturday night, then fell 5-1 to Portland Buckaroos Sunday.

Los Angeles came out of the league basement with a 3-1 victory over Seattle Sunday.

BUCKS TAKE LEAD

Portland's Sunday victory moved the Buckaroos once again into the league lead with 20 points, two more than Victoria. Vancouver is third with 12 points.

Phil Maloney scored three times as Vancouver came from behind a 2-0 first-period deficit before 6,252 Los Angeles fans Saturday night. Maloney scored once in the second and he and Larry Popein and Howie Hughes scored four goals in the third. Howie Young and Brian Smith got the Los Angeles' goals.

Sunday the Canucks broke a four-game win streak as Portland, playing before more than 7,000 in their home town, scored their seventh win in eight games.

VEJPRAVA, BOONE SWITCH

The Vancouver goal was scored by Gordon Vejprava, acquired in a trade Saturday in which right-winger Buddy Boone went to Los Angeles. In another weekend change, the Blades sold defenceman Harley Hodgson to San Francisco.

Cliff Schmautz of Portland, moved into a tie with Bob Barlow of Victoria for the scoring lead when he got his 10th of the season Sunday.

The 6,000 fans in Seattle were treated to a rough contest. Jack Hendrickson of Los Angeles was assessed 20 minutes for fighting with Len Haley of Seattle in the third period.

Leo Labine, Willie O'Ree and Bill Orban scored for the Blades. Bill Dineen scored for Seattle in the second period to make the score 1-1.

There are no games tonight. Tuesday Los Angeles is at Vancouver.

Two-Under 68 Puts MacLeod In Top Spot

Professional Ron MacLeod fired a one-under-par 68 Sunday at Victoria Golf Club to jump into the lead after 36 holes of the 72-hole fall medal golf series.

Pro Dick Munn, who had started the day with a two-stroke advantage after a two-under 68 in the opening round at Uplands, skidded out of contention with an 83

Tom McIntyre followed MacLeod with 71 and his handicap gave him low-net honors at 65. Bill Wightman and Laurie Carroll each had a 72 and Wightman earned the second low-net award with a net 67.

The final round will be played next month.

Nixons Gain Ground On Cross-Town Rivals

Victoria Nixons climbed within one point of second-place Esquimalt McLarens in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Hockey League by trimming Port Alberni Legion 6-2 at Memorial Arena.

McLarens had dropped three points behind league-leading Nanaimo Saturday when they were bounced 8-2 by the Clippers at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Don Brown set the victory pace for the Clippers by scoring five goals. Wayne MacCauley and Greg Gow each counted twice and Terry Mitchell added the other Nanaimo tally. Dunston scored both Esquimalt goals.

Mike Derry and Dave Williams each scored two goals for Nixons, who also got singles from Lawrence Scott and Dunc McLean.

BLANKS LEAFS

Bruins' Parent The 'Right Guy'

By UP International

Boston Bruin fans finally have something to cheer about.

He's Bernie Parent, a 20-year-old netminder recently called up from Oklahoma City, who Sunday night turned in his first National Hockey League shutout, 2-0 over Toronto Maple Leafs.

"That was a great standup performance," Bruin coach Milt Schmidt said after the game. "He made some terrific saves and has given this club the lift it needs."

Third-period goals by veterans Forbes Kennedy and Al Langlois gave Parent his initial big league whitewash in only his sixth game with the Bruins.

In other NHL action, New York topped Chicago, 4-2, and Detroit and Montreal played to a 2-2 tie.

ANOTHER BRIMSEK

Schmidt admitted after the game that Parent has looked better than any goalie Boston has had since Frank Brimsek who starred for the New Englanders in the late 1930s and 1940s.

The victim of Parent's impressive showing in the opposing nets was Johnny Bower, who played his first game of professional hockey in 1945 — the year Parent was born. Bower matched his young colleague for two periods before faltering. He stopped 28 shots, two less than Parent.

HULL HANDCUFFED

First period goals by New York's Rod Seiling, Jean Ratelle and Rod Gilbert gave the Rangers and goalie Ed Giacomin all the cushion he needed. Garry Peters added one to the pot in the final period. Red Hay and Fred Stanfield talied for the Hawks. All-star winger Bobby Hull was held without a point for the second time in nine games.

Norm Ullman's two second-period goals lifted Detroit to its tie with the Canadiens. Montreal had taken a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Jacques Laperriere and Bobby Rousseau.

Ottawa Up In Arms; Stampeders Up In Air

Roughies' Clair Can't Buy Rulings As Ticats Prevail

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders are up in arms about the refereeing but Hamilton Tiger-Cats are up five points in their two-game, total-point Eastern Football Conference final after an 18-13 triumph Sunday.

Coach Frank Clair of the Riders not only was unhappy with a fourth - quarter ruling that gave the ball back to Hamilton after Ottawa had apparently recovered a fumble, but also was fuming about three first-quarter infractions that the officials missed completely.

Hamilton had 13 men on the field for each of Ottawa's first two punts, and had 14—12 on the line and two receivers—for the third Ottawa kick, Clair moaned.

The Ottawa bench and many of the 20,271 fans hollered that Hamilton had too many men on the field, but officials didn't notice it.

The crowd, chilled by the 31-degree temperature, really let loose in the fourth quarter on the apparent fumble that was nullified by a quick whistle.

The play started with Ottawa on the Hamilton 52-yard line when quarterback Russ Jackson tried to find end Ted Watkins with a long pass. Hamilton halfback Garney Henley intercepted the pass on his own 23 and ran the ball to the Ottawa 40 where he was tackled from behind by fullback Jim Dillard.

The ball popped loose and Rider flanker Whit Tucker dived on the ball near the sidelines. Field judge Jim King of Montreal signalled Ottawa had possession of the ball.

PLAY KILLED

But umpire Bob Shepherd of Toronto ran over to tell referee Seymour Wilson that he had whistled the play dead before the fumble, meaning Hamilton retained the ball.

"When they said it was Hamilton's ball I nearly dropped dead," Clair said after the game.

The play proved to be the turning point in the game. Hamilton trailed 13-10 at the time, but Willie Bethea scored a touchdown four plays later. That and a single on a wide 29-yard field goal attempt by Don Sutherin—who converted twice—gave the Ticats the five-point margin they will carry into the final game at Hamilton next Saturday.

A big factor in Hamilton's resurgence was their containment of Dillard's inside running in the second half.

The big fullback helped stake Ottawa to a 13-0 half-time lead with a sparkling display of running and pass-catching. Riders amassed 220 of their 273-yard net offence in the first half and Dillard accounted for 165 yards himself. He wound up with a total of 204 yards—116 rushing on 22 carries and 88 through the air on five pass receptions.

INTERCEPTION COSTLY

Rider's only touchdown of the game came in the second quarter after defensive halfback Joe Poirier intercepted a broken-play pass from Ticat halfback Dick Cohee giving Ottawa the ball on the Hamilton 28.

On the next play Jackson hit Dillard with a touchdown pass.

Moe Racine booted the convert and added two field goals—from 27 and 38 yards out—to raise the count to 13-0 at the half.

Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio (above) shouts disapproval at referee Seymour Wilson during Sunday's Eastern Conference playoff in Ottawa. Sazio's blood pressure, however, didn't rise as high as that of rival coach Frank Clair. Hamilton rallied for 18-13 victory after controversial play led to winning Ti-Cat touchdown. (CP Wirephoto)

Day-Harrison Combo Too Much For Grant's Men

CALGARY (CP)—Opposition coaches Jerry Williams and Bud Grant Saturday selected the same play as the key in Calgary Stampeders' 27-9 triumph over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the first game of a best-of-three Western Football Conference final.

Calgary has a chance to wrap it up when the clubs meet Wednesday in Winnipeg. The game, scheduled for 7 p.m., PST, will be televised on the CBC national network. If necessary, the third game will be played next Saturday in Calgary.

"I thought we had played well enough to win," Grant said, "until Herman Harrison made that fine catch."

The play started from the Calgary 18 on the first play of the fourth quarter. Quarterback Eagle Day lofted the toss just beyond the reach of defensive back Barrie Hansen, who had Harrison virtually smothered until the lanky tight end threw himself headlong for the ball and nabbed it inches from the ground.

The play moved the ball from deep in Stampeder territory and four plays later, Robinson missed an attempted field goal but the defence forced a punt and the Stamps took possession on their 35.

BROKE TWO TACKLES

After three plays, Harrison shook himself free behind Hansen to combine with Day on his 53-yard scoring play.

The same play was effective on two other occasions. The first time Day called it, Harrison was upset by Winnipeg backfielder Ed Ullmer and pass interference was called. The third time it was received. Harrison freed himself behind Hansen and rambled into the end zone for a 53-yard touchdown.

Day credited sound running by power-backs Lovell Coleman and Ted Woods for helping make the play work.

"You have to establish a sound inside running game to compensate for Winnipeg's blitz, Day said. "And that's what we did."

Woods and Coleman registered Calgary's other touchdowns. Robinson kicked two field goals, two converts and a single.

FUNSTON HIT PAY DIRT

End Farrell Funston took a 10-yard pass from quarterback Kenny Ploen in the third quarter for Winnipeg's only touchdown. Two punt singles by Ed Ulmer and a convert by tackle Norm Winton completed scoring.

Coleman's 58-yard touchdown run was a classic. He sprung into the clear on a delay and eluded three tackles before being confronted by Dick Thornton about the Winnipeg five. Thornton was sent sprawling into the end zone as Coleman blasted free.

"I guess he was a victim of circumstances," Coleman said. "I'd gone too far by that time to stop, even if I'd wanted to."

FIVE TD'S

Unitas' Shadow Sets Pass Mark

By The Canadian Press

Gary Cuozzo, who has spent three years in the lengthy shadow of the great Johnny Unitas, has his name in the record book today where Johnny's used to be.

With Unitas absent because of a back injury, Cuozzo was the starting quarterback for Baltimore Colts Sunday in their National Football League game against Minnesota Vikings and threw five touchdown passes as the Colts romped to a 41-21 victory.

The five scoring tosses set a team record. The brilliant Unitas has thrown touchdowns four times in 12 different games but has never managed five.

The victory, their seventh straight, kept the Colts one game in front of Green Bay Packers in the Western Conference.

PACKERS EDGE RAMS

In other NFL games, Green Bay edged Los Angeles Rams 6-3, Cleveland Browns thumped New York Giants 34-21, Chicago Bears trounced St. Louis Cardinals 34-13, San Francisco '49ers defeated Detroit Lions 27-21, Dallas Cowboys downed Pittsburgh Steelers 24-17 and Philadelphia Eagles topped Washinton Red Skins 21-14.

Cuozzo, recovering from a brutal Viking rush through most of the first half, passed 43 yards to Jimmy Orr for a touchdown with 23 seconds left in the half. He then threw scoring tosses of 22 yards to Orr, 29 to Lenny Moore, six to Ray Berry and 14 to Willie Richardson in the second half.

Jimmy Brown ran for 156 yards and scored three touchdowns while Ernie Green caught seven passes for 160 yards and one touchdown as Cleveland opened a two-game lead in the Eastern Conference. Earl Morrall passed for all three New York touchdowns.

STURROCK WINS

Boomhower Rink Takes Top Money

Arnold Boomhower, a University of Victoria student, skipped his rink to a victory over Keith Dagg's quartet at Allan's Curling Club Sunday to win the "A" event final of a cash bonspiel staged by the Sunny Commercial Curling Club.

Lyall Gordon captured "B" event honors.

In a mixed bonspiel at Duncan Curling Club, in which the ladies did the skipping, Marg Sturrock of Victoria defeated Duncan's Marg Harper to win the first event.

In the finals of the other events, Pat Williams beat Grace Deans, Betty Chessa of Vancouver defeated Betty Panzer and Vera Wilson downed Nancy Robertson.

NOW THE MEN HAVE HAIR 'DONE'

By JACQUES ROUSSEAUX

Well, we've done it again . . . once more Victoria is last to fall in step with a trend that has been sweeping the continent for months.

But perhaps it's just as well, for by now the new trend in barbering has proved itself not just a fad, but a needed change that is here to stay.

I think it is, now that I am possibly the first man in Victoria to sport . . . a hairstyle. Custom-styled hair is the newest look in personal grooming.

Sunday morning I volunteered as model for a Vancouver stylist, Alvin Hackworth, who was giving a demonstration "in the new art of barbering" to a group of pioneering Victoria barbers. The lesson was the first in a 10-week course designed to bring local barbers up to date.

With a sigh of relief I didn't have to expose myself to clippers while anxiously hoping not to look like a sheared lamb.

Instead I watched in the mirrors the feather-cutting styling razor shape my hair in a soft hairstyle fitted to the contour of my head.

And that's the secret of the new barbering trend . . . to achieve a natural, casual, clean-cut look in a smooth line suited to the personality of the individual.

"This is the first change in the trade in 40 years," Mr. Hackworth says, "and it's bringing it to what it should be—an art."

"We're not going to fight nature any more," he says.

"And if styling your hair appears sissy to you, remember, being clean, healthy and well groomed is not feminine — it is natural."

Youths Charged In Two Attacks

Woman, Paper Boy Victims of Assault

Two juvenile escapers from Brannen Lake reformatory near Nanaimo have been charged in connection with two separate assaults and a car theft.

The pair were apprehended Sunday afternoon hitchhiking on the Patricia Bay Highway.

Police believe they are responsible for a purse-snatching attack on a woman Sunday morning and the attempted robbery of a Times newsboy Saturday.

The woman was accosted by one of the youths at 7:25 a.m. Sunday while she was walking to work in the 700 block on Humboldt Street.

JUMPED FROM CAR

Mrs. Vera Gatyshun, Churchill Hotel, told police the youth jumped from a car and made a grab at her purse.

She struck the youth on the head several times with her open umbrella, but in the ensuing struggle was knocked to the ground and kicked in the knee.

The youth then fled empty-handed in the car, later found to have been stolen.

The newsboy was attacked as he rode his bicycle on the Town and Country shopping centre parking lot.

He was carrying $70 in collections from his newspaper route.

The robbery was foiled when the occupants of two passing cars intervened.

MENTAL CASES

'Find Room At Jubilee' Says Martin

Health Minister Eric Martin today suggested Royal Jubilee Hospital administrators should try to find some space in the main hospital for temporary psychiatric beds.

He was commenting on criticisms at the weekend that three mentally-ill persons awaiting transfer to Riverview Hospital at Essondale had to be locked in jail cells here for lack of proper accommodation.

"We didn't put them there," Mr. Martin said.

"And we don't build hospital beds, either. That has to be done at the hospitals' own initiative."

He said some time ago he urged Royal Jubilee officials to increase their Bay Street psychiatric pavilion and offered government financial assistance.

DOUBLED

"They came up with doubling of the pavilion and that has been done. We figured everything was hunky-dory because we weren't asked for any more help.

"There has been no further application from the hospital for more of these grants."

Mr. Martin said it had been felt the pavilion enlargement would fill the gap between former bed capacity and the opening of a 176-bed intensive psychiatric treatment hospital planned by his department for construction behind Royal Jubilee.

TWO-YEAR WAIT

The provincial hospital will cost $6 million and will be six storeys high, but will not be in operation for at least two years.

"In the meantime, I would suggest to Royal Jubilee that if some temporary arrangement could be made in the hospital, we would be prepared to help financially in the usual way," Mr. Martin said.

He added it may be possible that St. Joseph's Hospital might embark on a program of developing a psychiatric pavilion but all hospital plans in this area currently are bogged down awaiting outcome of the hospital district proposal.

It involves a ratepayer vote at the civic elections next month to determine whether the local area will begin taxing property owners for a hospital construction fund.

"A colossal amount depends on that vote," said Mr. Martin.

Safecracking Try At Victoria High

Several dollars in change were stolen from a teacher's desk in a break-in at Victoria Secondary School at the weekend.

The thieves also knocked the dial from the office safe but did not gain entry.

'THOUGHT HE COULD MAKE IT'

STETTLER RETURNS FROM SCENE

Fishboat Skipper Refused Russians' Help

By RON SUDLOW
Marine Reporter

Russian seamen offered assistance to Capt. Oisten Hansen after his Vancouver fishboat was in collision with a Soviet trawler last Wednesday, it was learned today.

The aid was refused by the Canadian fisherman and his craft sank two hours later, claiming the life of its cook.

More details of the incident were revealed today by Lieut.-Cmdr. Tom Irvine, commanding officer of HMCS Stettler which returned to Esquimalt.

The Stettler was called to assist in conducting an investigation into the accident.

The Soviet trawler Mikalov was under tow to the Russian tug Bestraseny at the time of the collision.

At the time of the impact, Russian seamen shouted to the skipper of the Vancouver trawler.

They could see damage to her stern on the starboard side, Lieut.-Cmdr. Irvine said the Russians told him.

Then the tug made a circle and Soviet seamen again attempted to see if the Aleutian Queen was still seaworthy.

Mrs. Hansen, wife of the fishboat skipper, said in an interview on the weekend the Russians also ran up signal flags which meant they would help if needed.

"Oisten thought he could make it and didn't answer," she said.

OVER ON SIDE

"It was two hours later when the stern filled with water and the boat went over on its side and started to sink."

When it became evident the 68-foot craft would founder, a distress signal was flashed and the Hansens, Oisten and son Robert, .1, were picked up by the Western Maid.

However, the vessel's cook, Ode Gronlund, drowned.

"The Russians seemed very surprised the Aleutian Queen went down and were deeply concerned about the loss of life," Lieut.-Cmdr. Irvine said.

He added they were extremely co-operative throughout the entire investigation and made available their log book, charts and other notes.

"They are highly-professional people. Their log books were very well maintained," observed the Stettler commander.

The collision occurred outside the 12-mile fishing limit, about 20 miles off Cape Scott on the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

Weather at the time was good and visibility extended 12 miles. The Soviets first saw the Aleutian Queen when she was two miles away.

She approached the Soviet trawler on the port side and was not fishing at the time of the collision, the Russians told Lt.-Cmdr. Irvine.

Also conducting the investigation were Capt. Mitchell Gay of the fisheries department and Capt. Cyril Burrill of the department of transport.

SEAMAN HELPFUL

The investigation was conducted in Ukrainian translated by Stettler ordinary seaman Marshal Raymond Worobets, 21, of Andrew, Alberta.

Saturday the Stettler answered her seventh Mayday in six months when she assisted the Seattle fishboat Western Maid which was shipping water.

Her main bilge pump failed when its chain drive to the engine broke. The boat took on two feet of water.

She also had a full load of fish and wallowed in the heavy seas off the northern tip of the Island, reported Stettler engineer officer Lt. Lucien Voyager, 3841 Clarndon.

Sailors from Stettler hand-bailed the vessel for two hours until she was safely in port at Bull Harbor.

They repaired the pump but couldn't start the ship's engine because of the water in the hull.

The Western Maid was towed to safety by the Bremerton, Wash., fishboat Valiant Lady. She was escorted by the Stettler and the fisheries patrol vessel Laurier.

Three Homes Entered In Rockland District

A break-in artist is operating in the Rockland Avenue area.

Police believe the same culprit is responsible for three break-ins which occurred in the area at the weekend.

A total of $135 in cash and sets of keys were stolen in a break-in at 1726 Green Oak Terrace Saturday night.

Owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dawson, said they had been at the Memorial Arena in the evening and the house was vacant.

The same sneak thief was believed frightened away from the scene of his second break-in at 1632 Rockland when the gardener investigated noises in a darkened part of the house.

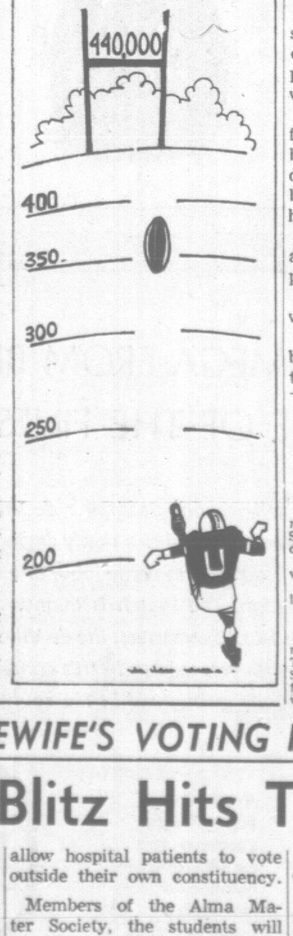
A window was later found broken.

The third break-in occurred Sunday afternoon while A. B. McKinnon was absent from his home at 1760 Rockland.

Two bedrooms were ransacked and $18 stolen from a wallet in a drawer.

In each case the break-ins occurred while the homes were either vacant or appeared vacant and in each case entry to the home was gained either through an opened window or by breaking a window.

Help Score 'Fair Share' Goal



The United Appeal total stood at $374,404 at noon today.

Inching slowly toward its $439,210 goal, it stood at 85.2 per cent at latest count.

An encouraging $1,306 from 102 employees of Northwestern Creamery Ltd. swelled the coffers from Saturday's total.

It also earned the donors the Appeal's plaque award for the sixth time for 80 per cent participation in the fund drive.

The United Appeal booth at Douglas and Yates yielded a less encouraging figure Saturday—$82—and is staffed today by members of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, a Community Chest agency.

The residential campaign, meanwhile, is within $10,000 of its $68,800 goal, thanks to work of hundreds of volunteer canvassers and organizers.

'BOTH GOING TO DIE'

A woman collapsed in court today after telling of a beating she received Saturday from her common-law husband.

Doris Cloke, 3945 Rainbow, collapsed at the courtroom door after testifying how she was dragged down her basement stairs at knifepoint while her life was threatened.

The husband, William J. Falconer, who pleaded guilty to the assault, was remanded in custody to Nov. 23 for sentence.

Before leaving the prisoner's box he said: "I'm thoroughly ashamed."

"And so you should be," added Magistrate J. A. Byers.

Mrs. Cloke testified that while she was watching the Jackie Gleason show on television she heard a commotion downstairs.

"But I didn't go down because I knew Bill was drinking.

'GOING TO DIE'

"Later, after the June Taylor dancers, Bill pulled me downstairs by the hair and said 'We're both going to die tonight.' Bill had the knife . . . he said he was going to kill me.

"My baby (six years old) was screaming so hard that my boys came down and tried to telephone the police, but the phone wires had been cut.

"I was trying to keep away from him and while he was breaking all the cupboards and dishes the knife fell, and my baby, she grabbed the knife and hid it."

When police finally arrived after the son notified them both parties had left the house.

Falconer was later arrested while driving his car.

Mrs. Cloke testified she has been living with Falconer for the the past six years.

Newspaper Hearing Promised

Greater Victoria School Board may be beset by eager students wanting their own inter-high newspaper—but board members are in the dark about it.

A student delegation planned to lay the case before the board some time this week.

The board meeting is tonight.

But if the students are coming, nobody has been told.

Asked if school trustees would receive the students tonight, district superintendent of schools John Gough said, "I don't know a thing about it."

"NOT EVASIVE"

"I'm not being evasive," he added. "But none has come to me officially."

A student spokesman said today a delegation, including representatives from the University of Victoria student council and the student newspaper The Martlett, is planning to attend the meeting.

SQUELCHED

They want to protest the school board's alleged squelching of an idea for an inter-high school newspaper.

But they had not informed the board they planned to attend the meeting.

Said school board secretary-treasurer Tom Christie, "I don't know a thing about it."

If they do appear at the meeting "I think they should have a hearing," said board chairman John Porteous.

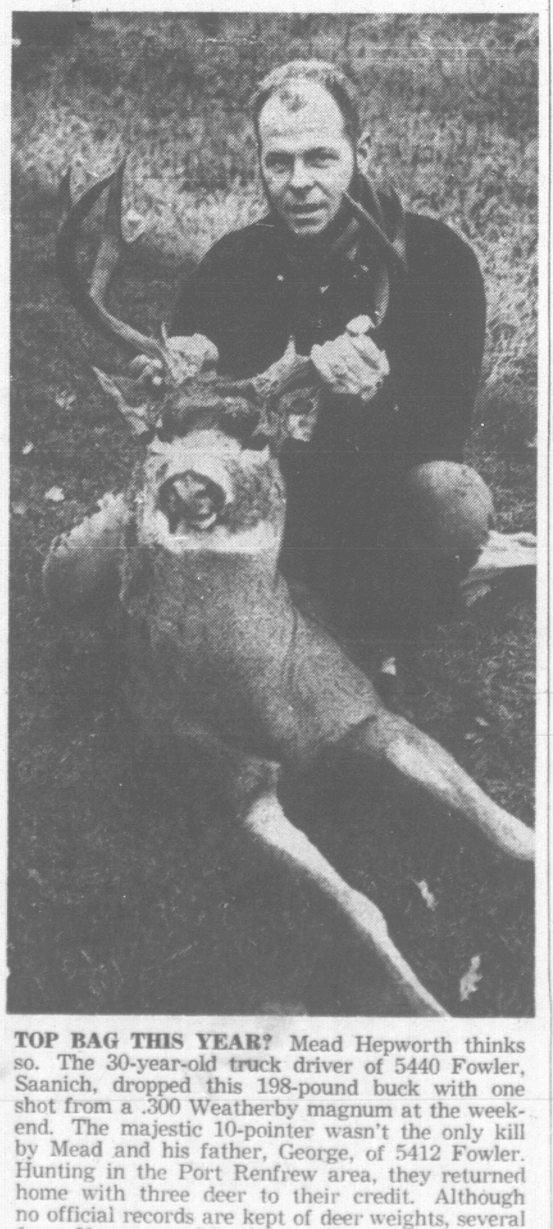
New Pavilion At Windsor To Get Priority

Construction of a new pavillion and caretaker's quarters for Windsor Park will be high on Oak Bay's 1966 parks budget priority list.

This was decided Saturday by council's works, parks and traffic committee after looking at facilities.

Estimated cost of the project will be $40,000.

On their tour Couns. Bill Wade, Mrs. Frances Elford and Douglas Watts also looked at a proposed subdivision site on Midland Road, inspected a safety problem at the Elgin Street municipal yard and checked Oak Bay marina where a screen is to be erected to hide the marine railway.



TOP BAG THIS YEAR? Mead Hepworth thinks so. The 30-year-old truck driver of 5440 Fowler, Saanich, dropped this 198-pound buck with one shot from a .300 Weatherby magnum at the weekend. The majestic 10-pointer wasn't the only kill by Mead and his father, George, of 5412 Fowler. Hunting in the Port Renfrew area, they returned home with three deer to their credit. Although no official records are kept of deer weights, several from Vancouver Island have been weighed in at 220 pounds-plus. (Jim Ryan photo)

SUPPORT HOUSEWIFE'S VOTING PETITION

Student Blitz Hits Thursday

One hundred Uvic students will go to war next Thursday—armed with paper and pencil.

The students are taking up the fight started last week by housewife Judy Nyquist, 1849 Carnarvon.

They will petition for a change in election procedure to allow hospital patients to vote outside their own constituency.

Members of the Alma Mater Society, the students will stage a one-night blitz, knocking on doors to gather names for Mrs. Nyquist's petition.

Meanwhile, several people up-Island have offered to collect names in their own district.

When complete, the petitions will go to Ottawa.

Mrs. Nyquist would like to see mobile polling booths in each hospital on federal election nights.

These would be taken bed to bed. Patients registered in another polling district should be given an absentee vote, claims Mrs. Nyquist.

Innocence Plea In Baby's Death

An attractive 25-year-old mother pleaded not guilty in Victoria Law Courts today to killing her six-month-old daughter, Kimberlie.

The decomposed body of the baby was found in her mother's bedroom soon after midnight on July 3.

Before a 12-man Assize Court jury, Mrs. Mary Jean Bilton, 3128 Cook Street, sat demurely with hands folded in the dock while three charges were read.

The first was assault causing death; the second criminal negligence causing death; the third causing bodily harm.

Her counsel, Robert Weir, answered "not guilty" to all three.

Roger Walker, appearing for the B.C. attorney-general's department, told the jury the child had apparently been dead for two weeks when it was found in a cot, a few feet from where Mrs. Bilton slept.

The body was found by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bley, 3128 Cook Street, for whom Mrs. Bilton worked as housekeeper.

The Bleys noticed a strong odor coming from Mrs. Bilton's bedroom. They went into the room and found the baby under some blankets covering the cot.

Police were called and, while they were examining the cot, Mrs. Bilton returned home. She was taken into custody soon after.

Mr. Walker said Mrs. Bilton entered the service of the Bleys on May 12. She brought the baby with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Bley said the child appeared healthy and well cared for, and they found Mrs. Bilton a very satisfactory housekeeper.

'PERFORMED WELL'

"She performed her duties well. She kept the house neat and tidy and she looked after the baby very well," Mr. Walker said.

The Bleys went to San Francisco on vacation on June 19 and left Mrs. Bilton in charge of the house.

They reported that, on their return, everything in their home seemed normal. Mrs. Bilton carried out her housekeeping duties in the normal way and continued to sleep in her bedroom as usual.

"They had no suspicion anything was wrong until they noticed the peculiar odor emanating from Mrs. Bilton's bedroom," Mr. Walker said.

The hearing continues this afternoon. Louis Lindholm is crown prosecutor. Mr. Weir and Gerald Sinnott are appearing for the accused.

Funeral Held For Former Island Trustee

Funeral rites were held recently in Nelson for former Victoria and Long Beach resident Dundas Kerr.

The 80-year-old man had lived at 2630 Arbutus, in Saanich, for the past nine years.

Before that he lived at Long Beach on Vancouver Island's west coast.

While there, he was warden of All Saints Church and a school trustee for many years.

An active Conservative, he was also keen on yachting, golfing and cricket.

Born in Church-in-Oswaldtwistle, Lancashire, England, he pioneered the fruit growing industry in the Kootenay area before coming to Vancouver Island.

He is survived by the widow Dorothy, of Nelson, a daughter, Mrs. D. H. T. Mollison, of Victoria, and five sisters in England.

Frostbiters Foiled

Winds proved too strong for Royal Victoria Yacht Club frostbite sailors Saturday and racing was cancelled.

A new race, between the clubhouse and Oak Bay Marina, was to have been inaugurated.

Next weekend RVYC frostbiters will hold their club championship races for the month of November.

Ask The Times

Q. In Canada, does the term prime minister correctly refer to the leader of the federal government and the term premier to the leader of the provincial government—or are the terms synonymous. C.O.S.

A. Premier was formerly interchangeable with prime minister but now chiefly used when referring to leaders of provincial cabinets, says the Encyclopedia Canadiana.

Q. How fast would an airplane have to fly to break the sound barrier? E.P.

A. More than 760 m.p.h., at sea level.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

DO-SI-DO EVENTS

SQUARE-DANCERS GO HAWAIIAN

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

Grass skirts replaced flounces and crinolines Saturday night, and leis hung around necks more used to string ties.

"Aloha, pardner!" was the greeting as the Squarecrows, one of the 22 active square dance groups here, held a Hawaiian night in St. Alban's Church Hall, complete with muu-muus and ukelele music.

Although promenades and do-si-do's didn't give way to the hula, caller Doug George brought a tropical touch to the dance with his mention of "cool breezes that blow on the beach at Walkiki."

BARE FEET

Dance garb for the evening included everything from beachcombers to bathing suits, with sandals instead of dancing slippers and several sets of bare feet.

A good sport award should have gone to dancer Robert McLaughlin, whose wife left the night before for a vacation in Hawaii.

"Some people just won't take a substitute," said Mr. McLaughlin, wearing sports shirt and lei.

For caller Doug George and his wife Joan, it was hardly the first unusual square dance in their experience.

"It's a healthy pastime," said Doug, watching the dancers whirl past below the stage where he sets up his records and calls.

"I move around more up here than I would down there," he added after a particularly lively dance.

ONE LESSON AHEAD

Doug, a caller now for about 10 years, learned square dancing first at Port Alberni, teaching the local group the ins and outs of it while he kept one lesson ahead of them.

Now, helped by wife Joan who circulates among the dancers and acts as hostess, he calls for the Squarecrows and the Broken Spokes, holds a round dance class alternate weeks, and teaches two beginners classes for adults and youngsters each week.

With the youngsters, says Joan, there's always the same problem—more girls than boys.

"Right now," says Doug, with a smile, "there are not enough nights in the week."

Enjoyment for both the Georges is taken from teaching people who "don't know their right foot from their left at first."

"And when it gets to be work," says Doug, "I'll quit."

Three Jailed For Theft Of Safe Here

Three men were sentenced to prison Saturday night after bing convicted in Assize Court of breaking into Fairfield Pharmacy, 301 Cook Street, and stealing a safe containing $345 and a quantity of narcotics.

A 12-man jury found them guilty after deliberating more than four hours. The court sat all day Saturday to conclude the four-day trial.

The men were sentenced by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton.

Sidney Travers was sent to jail for three years; Russell Bowcott for 18 months and Gerald Brune for 12 months.

All had pleaded not guilty.

Offers Battalion

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP)—Radio Conakry said in a broadcast here Monday that Guinea has put a battalion of troops at the disposal of the Organization of African Unity for use in possible military action in Rhodesia. The offer was made by President Sekou Toure in a message addressed to the organization's secretary-general, Diallo Telli of Guinea.

Cleric Fears Rhodesian 'Venom' May Spread

REV. WALTER F. McLEAN
. . . here Dec. 5

The "poison" of racialism in Rhodesia, following the country's unilateral declaration of independence, could spread to other parts of Africa, says Rev. Walter F. McLean of Victoria.

Mr. McLean, son of Rev. J. Lewis McLean, DD, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, made the statement in an address to the Canadian Union of Students meeting in Edmonton, Alta.

He said that, unless the Commonwealth handles the situation carefully "all the preaching about equal rights for all will be flushed down the drain.

"'The poison and venom now breeding in Rhodesia can spread to West Africa and other east African nations where there are no racial feelings at the present time."

Mr. McLean returned to his home in Victoria last August after three years' mission work in Nigeria for the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

In an interview he said there was no feeling of white-man superiority in Nigeria.

"Independence has been achieved," he said, "and the government has begun to take its full responsibility in terms of social welfare."

As part of his mission work there, Mr. McLean helped to recruit and organize young missionaries for the Canadian University Service Overseas, and was chapel minister at the University of Nigeria.

He will preach in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Victoria, on Sunday, Dec. 5, before returning to Nigeria.

Before he was ordained to the ministry in 1962, Mr. McLean was president of the student body at the University of Toronto and president of the National Federation of Canadian University Students.

Jame Bay PTA Plans Bake, Sewing Sale

James Bay PTA last week planned a sale of home cooking and sewing at Niagara St. Anglican church hall March 17.

At the meeting, held in South Park School, PTA president Mrs. G. M. Hayhurst was presented with a special award certificate for increased membership.

The provincial government film, Power and the Peace, was screened for the group.

Tigers, King Ed Sparkle

Class will tell, they say, and it told in the Pacific Northwest Field Hockey Conference at Lansdowne on the weekend.

Britannia Tigers, unleashed a strong team including four All-Canada players, and romped through six friendly matches undefeated and unscored on.

Former Aussie halfback Gwen Brockman, goalie Joyce Harris, Margaret Peake and Betty Mantyla all sparkled as the Brits whitewashed Cowichan 4-0 and Mariners "A" 2-0 Sunday. On Saturday, the Tigers mistreated Grasshoppers 3-0, University of Victoria, 1-0, Greyhounds 1-0, and Portland 1-0.

King Edward was equally impressive, rattling off six victories without permitting a goal. The Eddies, with All-Canada players Madeline Gemmill and Elaine Callaghan prominent, blanked Seattle Sea Hawks 4-0 and Grasshoppers 6-0 Sunday. On Saturday the Eddies disposed of Grasshoppers 3-0, Greyhounds 1-0, University of Victoria 1-0, and Cowichan 5-0.

Sea Hawks I also went through the conference undefeated, but Greyhounds held them to a scoreless draw Sunday.

Officials said the conference was a great success despite "Arctic" temperatures and muddy playing fields. This was the first year Victoria was host.

Seattle is the site of the 1966 conference.

YOUR HEALTH

Restaurant Cook Was 'Typhoid Mary'

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Alvarez

A cook in a restaurant writes that he has been found by health officers to be a sort of "Typhoid Mary," who has been giving paratyphoid fever to some of the people who ate the food he prepared. Now his relatives are afraid to associate with him—but this is foolish. He is likely to give the disease only to people who eat food that he prepares with unwashed hands. He wonders what he can do now to earn his living. Probably he will have to find some work which does not involve his handling of food that people are going to eat.

The health officers found a germ called a salmonella in his bowel, and now the question is, how to get rid of it. Because the germ often lives in the gallbladder, he ought to get himself X-rayed to see if his gallbladder does not work, or perhaps contains stones. If so, it would be well to have the organ removed. Also, the health officers will probably want to see if they can kill the germs with a powerful antibiotic. If they can clear up the infection, he can go back to cooking. He could probably cook safely if he would either never touch food with his hands, or else wear rubber gloves.

"Typhoid Mary" was a cook who, in New York State, would go to work in the summer home of a wealthy man. Within two weeks, several of the people in the home would be down with typhoid fever. When Mary heard that a health officer was on his way to investigate, she would disappear, and go to cook for someone else—and soon several people in the new place would be down with typhoid fever.

Eventually, the health officers caught up with Mary, and got her to promise never to cook again; but soon she broke this promise, and would not behave, and so the health officers built a nice little cottage for her on an island, and there she lived for the rest of her life.

* * *

One of the commonest complaints of children is earache. Many children never have an earache in their whole life, while others often have one with a cold. I have seen this tendency to earaches to run in a family.

Dr. G. Edward Tremble, of Montreal, says that earache should never be treated lightly; in every case the cause should be looked for. Even today, when mastoid infection has been almost wiped out with the help of penicillin, it must still be watched out for, especially in children.

REASONS FOR PAIN

An ache may be due to a boil, or an inflammation in the outer ear canal, and this can easily be seen by looking in. Such an infection should quickly be cleared up by the doctor. Occasionally, wax and foreign bodies in the external canal cause irritation or pain. Herpes (little blisters) or an infection of the ear canal with a mold, or, in older persons, a very rare skin cancer could cause trouble. Pain can be due to an inflamed ear drum, which should be treated. Sometimes there is an inflammation of the middle ear, the so-called otitis media. An earache might be due to an irritation of a nerve in the ear.

If the doctor finds the external canal and the ear drum normal, the source of the pain might be in the lower jaw — perhaps an unerupted wisdom tooth, or a diseased lower molar tooth, or an ill-fitting dental plate, or an inflammation of the salivary gland under the corner of the lower jaw, or a stone in one of the ducts leading out from a salivary gland.

Something wrong with the front of the tongue can sometimes cause pain in front of the ear, while something wrong with the back part of the tongue, can cause an ache in the ear itself. The cause could also be tonsillitis, or an abscess around the tonsil; or it could be something wrong with the palate, or the throat, or the back of the nose.

Pain can be due to arthritis in the joint between the lower jaw and the skull. Some earaches can arise even down in the side of the neck. Highly nervous women in the menopause will sometimes complain of earache, for no apparent reason.

Perjury Case To Be Heard By Top Court

OTTAWA (CP)—The perjury case involving Mr. Justice Adrien Meunier of Quebec Superior Court will be argued before the Supreme Court of Canada under a decision announced today.

The high court granted a motion by the Quebec government to appeal a decision by the Quebec Appeal Court, which quashed Judge Meunier's perjury conviction and ordered a new trial.

The appeal before the supreme court is expected to be heard at the winter term opening Jan. 25.

Judge Meunier, 59, is a former Liberal MP for Montreal Papineau who was convicted in October, 1964, on three counts of perjury arising from evidence he gave at a judicial inquiry into a $64,000 furniture bankruptcy fraud case.

He was sentenced to two years in penitentiary but remained free on $10,000 bail and continued to draw his salary as a judge, although he did not hear any cases after he was charged.

The Quebec Appeal Court ordered a new trial Oct. 22, ruling that the trial judge, Mr. Justice Benoit Turmel of Sherbrooke, made an error of law when he excluded Judge Meunier from the courtroom while the legality of a lawyer's question was being argued.

AOTS to Stage Variety Concert Wednesday Night

DUNCAN — The AOTS Club will stage a variety concert in Duncan United Church hall Wednesday evening at 8 p.m.

Proceeds will go toward furnishing the children's ward of the new Cowichan District Hospital.

Top feature of the program will be the 20-voice AOTS men's choir directed by Norman Duckworth.

Other artists will be folk singer Murray MacAlpine; tenor soloist Peter Yelland; soprano soloist Sylvia Furneau. (1965 Cowichan music festival aggregate prize winner); and the Elgar Choir trio of Laurel Gourlay, Donalee McDonald and Carol Daniels.

Coroner Still Waiting For Test Results

Decision on an inquest into the death of John Perry, 65, of 2623 Fifth Street, will not be made until the results of a post-mortem examination are known, Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said on the weekend.

Mr. Perry died shortly before midnight Friday when his car slammed into the rear of a truck parked on Erie Street.

At the present time experts in Vancouver are making tests in an attempt to determine if Mr. Perry suffered a heart attack prior to the accident.

When the tests are completed Coroner St. Jorre will decide on further action.

Stadium Grants To Be Sought On Tuesday

Formal application for provincial and federal centennial project grants to Greater Victoria probably will be made on Tuesday at a meeting of the B.C. projects committee.

Members of the municipal-university centennial stadium committee met Friday and agreed to apply for $139,989 from the federal government and $87,917 from the provincial government.

To this will be added the local contributions, to bring total resources up to $430,000 for construction of a stadium at the university.

R. W. Siddall Associates has been instructed to prepare architectural drawings.

Ike Out of Danger

FORT GORDON, Ga. (AP)—Former president Dwight D. Eisenhower, 75, has weathered what his son described as "the period of greatest danger" after his heart attack.

EXPO '67 Deputy Commissioner Robert F. Shaw will speak on Centennial Fair Tuesday, Nov. 23, at noon to Men's Canadian Club of Victoria, and at 2:30 to Women's Canadian Club, in Empress Hotel. Engineer and industrialist Mr. Shaw has been promoting Montreal exposition since 1963.

BODEN
. . . 31 years in navy

Electronics Officer Retires

Lieut.-Cmdr. Arnold M. Boden is retiring from the navy after 31 years, the RCN announced Saturday.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Boden, 216 Regina Avenue.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Boden joined Calgary Half Company, RCNVR, as an ordinary seaman in 1934 and went into active service as a telegraphist in September, 1939.

At the outbreak of the Second World War, he manned the signal station on Discovery Island off Oak Bay.

He was on the original staff of the electronic workshop, HMC Dockyard.

He received the British Empire Medal for outstanding service at the naval radio station, Newport Corner, N.S., during the Battle of the Atlantic.

Lieut.-Cmdr. Boden also served aboard the destroyer Haida during the Korean War as electrical officer.

He plans to remain with the electronics industry during his retirement.

Donations Needed For Food Stall Saturday Morning

Donations for the Free Food Stall this Saturday are urgently needed, says convener Mrs. E. E. Harper.

Victorians with anything to spare, from canned goods to garden produce, are asked to contribute. The stall provides food monthly for 150 needy families.

Money donated is deductible from income taxes, says Mrs. Harper.

To have food or donations picked up, call Mrs. Harper, 5695 Pat Bay Highway, 658-8177.

Helping transport food Saturday morning will be members of the Victoria Labor Council.

'Slur on U.S.' Says Archbishop

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Archbishop Philip M. Hannan of New Orleans today attacked the ecumenical council's proposed denunication of modern warfare as a slur on U.S. policy and action in Viet Nam.

American council sources reported the former auxiliary bishop of Washington, D.C., prepared an amendment to the assembly's peace statement in which he claims that war "is an apt and necessary" instrument for safeguarding the world equilibrium of power.

Disc Jockey Dies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gil Newsome, well-known radio announcer during the 1940s, died Saturday after a long illness. He was 48. Newsome was announcer for the Chesterfield Supper Club show which featured the band of the late Glenn Miller and the "Coca Cola spotlight bands" show. At one time during his career he was voted a top disc jockey in a popularity poll conducted by Variety magazine.

BRIDGE RESULTS

Winners of the Victoria Unit of the American Contract Bridge League played Saturday at the Broughton Building were: North-South, Joan Smith and Cam Walace, Anne and Earl Dye, Liliane Lebutt and Patricia Bishop, Leslie Stewart and Loe Lukas.

East-West winning pairs, Marianne Powell and John Bishop, Margaret and Jack McAvoy, Frances and William Champion, Louise Duncan and M. J. O'Brien.

AID SEEN IN RHODESIA CRISIS

Advice Flows From Queen To Wilson, Source Says

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP)—Queen Elizabeth is described by a qualified source as a discerning, highly experienced person who, on occasion, has been able to tender advice to Prime Minister Wilson instead of receiving it from him.

This informant, who cannot be identified but who speaks from a position of knowledge, suggests also that occasionally Wilson has used Buckingham Palace as a sort of refuge, clothing himself in regal support as armament against dissident factions within his government.

This intimate glimpse of the Queen as more than a silent and compliant symbol of authority was disclosed to shed a more balanced light on a spate of British press reports suggesting there is a special working relationship between the once shy sovereign and her smooth-talking chief adviser, now moving into the second year of a still tenuous hold on the seat of power.

SOCIALIST MINISTER

Those engaged in the daily activities of the court wondered how the Queen, raised in an environment of conservatism and great wealth, would be able to relate her ideas with those of her first socialist prime minister, a grammar school product whose party preaches social revolution and industrial nationalization.

The fears of an ideological clash between court and government were, however, soon dispelled.

Wilson, a shrewd politician and a velvet-tongued orator, found the Queen a ready listener. She became even more interested and friendlier when Wilson showed he was no radical; that in fact he was moving politically from the left to the centre, maintaining a steady grip on the middle of the road, despite the outraged criticism of his vocal left wing.

SAME GENERATION

Age also helped make the two figures politically compatible.

Elizabeth was 38 when Wilson took over the helm of government at the relatively young age of 48. Ever since she ascended the throne in 1952, her prime ministers had been elderly Conservatives: Winston Churchill, Anthony Eden, Harold Macmillan and Alec Douglas-Home. Their approach generally had been one of father to daughter. Wilson could approach the Queen as one close to her own age group.

But the informant suggested there is more here than age and personality. Wilson was a fledgling prime minister; the Queen had been on the throne for almost 14 years. She had gained great insight in the affairs of state. Through her travels and her ability to absorb information, she had become politically astute. On occasion she provided Wilson with advice and the informant said Wilson was glad to act on her suggestions.

While details of the Queen's suggestions were not disclosed, it was intimated some of the steps Wilson took on Rhodesia resulted from his talks with Elizabeth. Usually talks between the Queen and the prime minister last about 30 minutes. On one occasion, when Wilson returned from Salisbury late in November, court aides were surprised to find the audience lasted for 70 minutes.

Another element in Wilson's unusual relationship with the Crown is that he does not always see eye to eye with his deputy, Economics Minister George Brown, the man Wilson beat in the 1963 Labor leadership fight.

ROYAL ALLY

Whatever subtle differences still remain between these two men, the Labor cabinet now is well aware that on some controversial issues which might split the cabinet, Wilson can call on the Queen for support. He has an ally at the palace.

The determination with which the Queen approaches the affairs of state were described as similar to that of Queen Victoria and King George VI. Both Victoria and George VI held strong views and showed strong wills. After one encounter with his socialist prime minister, Clement Attlee, King George VI wrote in his diary that he told Attlee he had to give the people confidence that this Labor government would not stifle private enterprise.

CITY CELEBRATES

The East German city of Leipzig celebrates the 800th anniversary of its foundation in 1965.

During the Second World War, when Churchill decided to cross the Channel on D-Day, the King put his foot down. Churchill did not go.

Among the published reports about the Elizabeth-Wilson relationship is one suggesting Wilson sees the Crown as a vital force in British politics, using it but being too shrewd to try to cheapen it.

SILVER TONGUE

Matthew Coady, writing in The New Statesman, says Wilson can be as great a flatterer as any of his predecessors, but he also is a dazzling expositor—a born teacher. He has been able to instruct the young Queen and convince her of the value of his ambitions for Britain. The Queen, industrious and intelligent, has been able to make full use of the elaborate arrangements to keep her informed.

The old royal inclination to restrain Labor politics is on the wane, Coady suggests. The royal guard had been changed at last. To which the Tory-supporting Evening Standard adds a postscript in a political cartoon showing that the Queen's trade mark has been firmly planted on Wilson's door.

Armed Police Break Up Negro Strike

BULAWAYO (Reuters) — Police armed with shotguns today broke up an attempted strike by Negroes in this Rhodesian industrial centre.

Thousands of Negroes leaving the township for work had been ordered by African nationalists to get off their bicycles and not to use public transport.

Armed police in jeeps drove through the streets and ordered the Negroes back on to buses.

Some Negroes alleged to have intimidated others were arrested.

Factories and offices later reported little absenteeism although many Negroes turned up late.

A police spokesman said the mail and passenger train from Salisbury to Bulawayo was stoned Sunday night near Gwelo, about 100 miles north of here.

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Wilson may agree to an oil embargo against Rhodesia because of pressure from the United Nations, British newspapers suggest today.

The Daily Telegraph says there is a threat to government unity over Rhodesia because many Labor parliamentarians feel Wilson's administration has applied fewer bans and control than should have been exerted.

The Daily Mail reports: "Britain, opposed to the use of force, is ready to compromise by supporting a UN ban on oil supplies to Rhodesia, providing the major oil-producing countries can demonstrate it will be effective."

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — More than 100 Negro students smashed windows of the British embassy with stones and clashed with Israeli police here today in a protest over Britain's Rhodesia policy. At least one policeman was injured.

The hour long attack came suddenly during an address by a student spokesman who had just presented to the British charge d'affaires, Arthur Kellas, a resolution condemning Britain for not taking military action against Rhodesia.

WHO'S IN CHARGE?

Governor Defies Rhodesian PM

(Times News Services)

SALISBURY — Loyalist Governor-General Sir Humphrey Gibbs today defied rebel Premier Ian Smith in a face-to-face confrontation over who is legally in charge of the Rhodesian government.

Faced with growing internal opposition to the breakaway government, Smith and two aides drove to government house for a 70-minute meeting with Gibbs, who had refused orders Sunday night to step down.

A spokesman for the governor-general, who remains loyal to the orders of Queen Elizabeth and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, said Gibbs remained adamant in his position.

Gibbs, who settled in Rhodesia in 1923, dismissed Smith and his cabinet after last Thursday's unilateral declaration of independence. Smith in turn ordered Sir Humphrey to vacate Government House. Gibbs said Sunday night he would resign only if "asked by Her Majesty to do so."

100 SIGN BOOK

While Smith was inside Government House with Deputy Premier Clifford Dupont and Justice Minister Desmond Lardner, more than 100 visitors signed the guest book—a sign of solidarity with Gibbs.

In Bulawayo, 220 miles southwest of Salisbury, black Nationalist leaders failed today when they tried to organize a general strike by African workers. Police riding shotgun on buses told the workers not to be intimidated by the Nationalists, who were urging persons at bus stops not to board the vehicles.

Rhodesia's foremost Anglican prelate, the Right Rev. Cecil Alderson, Bishop of Masonaland, declared at a memorial service in Salisbury honoring Second World War dead the illegality of the Smith government was "quite clear."

Bishop Alderson declared Sunday to a crowd of several hundred persons at the service "there is a Christian rights and maybe a Christian duty to disobey" orders of the rebel government.

"I would be gravely insincere and cowardly if I did not state again here the united judgment of almost all Christian leaders of this land . . . I believe what has been done to be wrong."

He added Rhodesians have "the responsibility and the right to make up their own minds on great moral issues and be answerable to God in their own consciences."

White senior civil servants and army officers with close ties to Britain were also reported in dissent. Gloom fell over business circles in Salisbury.

Smith, however, appeared confident and firmly in control.

Informants said David Hall, chief of protocol and a former regular British officer, had resigned. Many others were believed to be also considering resignation.

Temporary restrictions on banking facilities and a general uncertainty of the country's future have caused commercial circles to delay transactions.

No positive reaction was expected before Britain and other countries made clear the actions they planned taking to counter Rhodesia's seizure of independence.

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament will reassemble Tuesday, Jan. 18, the cabinet decided today.

The announcement was made by an aide to Prime Minister Pearson while the cabinet still was in session.

Mr. Pearson had indicated during the campaign that Parliament might be summoned for a week before Christmas when the eight-day throne speech debate could be completed but said no definite plans had been made.

Jet Going Around Both Poles

HONOLULU (AP)—A Boeing 707 jet—crammed with instruments, scientists and observers—flew out of Honolulu today on an around-the-world flight over both the earth's poles.

The jet will cruise at between 30,000 and 41,000 feet to allow scientists to study high-altitude meteorology and clear-air turbulence. The plane was to land in London for its first refuelling stop.

Then, it is to speed on, passing Buenos Aires, Argentina, and Christchurch, N.Z., before returning to Honolulu in 52 to 56 hours.

The planned 26,203-mile flight over the poles never has been accomplished.

The battery of scientists aboard is headed by Dr. Serge A. Korff, professor of physics at New York University. Time-lapse cameras will photograph the weather at five-minute intervals. Studies also will be made on the jet stream, cosmic radiation, flight - crew fatigue and cockpit design.

Work Halts At Midnight

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today made a last-ditch attempt to ward off a province-wide strike against all oil companies set for midnight.

He sent telegrams to all the parties urging them not to permit a total tie-up of the oil and gas industry.

PETERSON
. . . cancels trip

"This will confirm that my department has offered any assistance you may care to take advantage of to effect a settlement of the oil industry dispute," said the telegrams.

"Government considers the continued supply of oil and gas essential and urges you to settle your differences with employers (employees) and in any event to avoid the complete tie-up of this essential industry."

Union and management spokesmen were not available for comment on the telegrams.

Mr. Peterson released the texts without comment after declining to see reporters in the morning.

Mr. Peterson cancelled a trip to Washington, D.C., Tuesday. He was to attend a meeting of the International Conference of Government Labor Officials, of which he is president.

On Sunday, he repeated earlier comments saying "I am not prepared to tolerate any action which would result in a total shutdown of this industry."

There was speculation the government will use the emergency powers of the Civil Defence Act if the strike occurs. This was first used nine years ago to stop a ferry strike.

A regular meeting of the cabinet was being held this afternoon at which the ministers would likely discuss the next move.

Before the telegrams were sent, the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' International Union completed plans for its extended strike against Shell, Home, Texaco and Standard.

The union has been on strike against British American for two months and since Nov. 5 against Imperial's Port Moody refinery. BA operations on the Prairies and in Ontario have also been on strike since mid-September.

Sunday, 95 oil workers at Pacific Petroleums' McMahon Refinery in Taylor, B.C., were locked out. The company said this morning it had "relieved" the men to effect a more orderly takeover by supervisors.

Slaying In Colorado Traced to B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are investigating two men here in the shooting death of an unidentified youth in Colorado.

A Colorado prosecuting officer will arrive here tonight to interview the men, police said today.

The youth's body was found Oct. 23 under a tree half a mile off a highway 16 miles east of Durango, Colo.

Durango is a highway junction town about 180 miles southwest of Denver.

Sheriff Walter Conrad of Durango said in a telephone interview today it is believed the victim was shot in a Durango motel and taken to the spot where the body was found.

BLOOD IN MOTEL

Blood was found in the motel, which had been occupied the night before by the victim and two other persons.

The motel operator told police he believed the three men came from Canada.

The victim died of a bullet wound in the temple.

Tory Die-Hards Fight Sanctions

LONDON (AP) — Emergency legislation enabling the British government to clamp stiff economic sanctions on the white settler regime in Rhodesia began passage through Parliament today. Britain's chief legal official termed the bill "extremely urgent."

Debate began in the Commons and the House of Lords. The government is trying to rush the bill through in one day and Queen Elizabeth was expected to sign the measure after midnight tonight.

The Conservative party Commons leadership decided at a one-hour meeting before Parliament met to help the Labor government speed the legislation through.

But a handful of right-wing Conservative MPs planned to contest the legislative time limits in the Commons.

In the House of Lords, the Marquess of Salisbury, a former Conservative kingmaker and long a supporter of white Rhodesian interests, planned to introduce an amendment that would delay application of the sanctions—particularly a proposed ban on tobacco imports.

Opening the debate in the House of Lords was Lord Gardiner, the Lord Chancellor and head of the British judiciary.

He has been one of the government's chief legal advisers through the crisis that reached a climax last Thursday when Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia's independence from Britain.

He was the first of 40 speakers on the Lords' agenda.

Stressing the urgency of the bill, Lord Gardiner said Britain must act quickly against the Rhodesian regime. He said Smith appeared to have been acting under pressure—"He has a lot of extremists in his cabinet and I am afraid they have carried the day."

FROM SALES TAX

'Gov't Robbing Hospitals' Of Promised Financial Aid

By PETE LOUDON

(Why is a rich city in a rich district in a rich province going without sufficient hospital beds? Why is this issue building into a controversy involving two layers of government instead of being quietly and efficiently solved? The Times asked reporter Pete Loudon to explore the issue. This is his second report in a four-part series.)

A group of municipal leaders in the capital region has charged the provincial government with robbing community hospitals of their promised financial support.

Loudon

They say the province has diverted to other purposes $44 million collected from the 5 per cent sales tax over the past seven years and earmarked for hospital use.

Now, they object, the property owners of the capital region are to be asked to raise $5.7 million dollars through a referendum on Dec. 11 toward a $13.5 million hospital program.

Three municipal leaders have so far openly condemned the proposed system of financing the needed beds for district hospitals. They charge it will be the province's responsibility if property-owners reject the hospital vote.

Dilemma

The figures backing the objections and cited in this article are now being studied by other municipal elected officials. Councils will be meeting in the next few weeks and coping with their dilemma.

Should they tell their voters to support the hospital vote and thus answer a vital need they all recognize?

Or should they urge defeat of the referendum to fight a principle—their belief that the province is loading more and more of the cost of public service on the property-owner?

Higher Share

Before going further into the municipal position of protest it should be pointed out that the provincial government, as represented in the issue by Health Minister Eric Martin, objects in turn to their contentions. In the next article in this series he gives reasons supporting the government position.

The municipal leaders who have so far expressed themselves, and those who will do so in the next few weeks, say

'Find a Guy Named Terry . . . That's the Real Hero'

(See also Page 17)

MIAMI (UPI)—"If you are looking for a real hero, find a purser on that ship named Terry Wise."

"He grabbed older people, who were just too shocked or afraid to jump, put life jackets on them and bodily threw them into the sea."

These were the words of General Motors executive Robert White describing the rescue of 466 passengers and crew members of the ill fated Caribbean cruise ship Yarmouth Castle.

Mr. White, of Roanoke, Va., said he watched Wise (of Markham, Ont.) and Bahama Star Captain Carl L. Brown in action from the flying bridge of the burning cruiser.

He said "that's the only reason some of the passengers are alive today. Wise was among the last to leave the ship."

White, a former navy man, described the Bahama Star's captain as "one hell of a man —I never saw such marvelous seamanship."

At one point, White said, Capt. Brown manoeuvred the Bahama Star to within 250 yards of the flaming ship—"close enough to feel the heat and hear the people shouting and screaming for help."

"He kept repeating instructions over the bull horn: 'Put on your life jackets and jump into the sea. You'll be picked up immediately.

WISE
. . . among last to leave

" 'Be careful. Don't jump into the lifeboats. Jump into the sea. Jump into the sea.'

"One man jumped into a lifeboat, fractured both his legs and his pelvis."

White said Brown ordered his own lifeboats to "move in close, the fire's on the top deck, the ship will not explode. Go in close and get them.

"And brother, that's exactly what they did," White said. "At one time I saw five or six lifeboats, right next to the hull."

Capt. Brown said the doomed ship's bridge and control centre collapsed in fiery rubble as the rescue vessel pulled alongside.

"The radio room would have gone before that," he said. "I definitely think the fire area was the reason no distress signal was sent."

Many passengers said no alarm was sounded aboard the Yarmouth Castle, but coast guard Capt. V. G. Niebergall said there were conflicting reports as to whether or not an alarm had been sounded.

Brown said he did not know what caused the fire but said "I think the officers of the Yarmouth Castle know where the fire started and who reported it."

there should be a higher contribution by the province to hospital costs instead of a higher share by property-owners through their annual property taxes.

They say that in 1954 in his budget speech, Premier W. A. C. Bennett abolished hospital insurance premiums and increased the then 3 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent.

He made it clear that the additional tax, two-fifths of the tax total, would be for hospital purposes. These municipal spokesmen say Mr. Bennett anticipated this would be inadequate and said he would spend half the tax revenue if necessary, for hospitals.

'No Question'

The premier, in announcing the increase of the 3 per cent sales tax to 5 per cent, said, "An increase of 2 per cent in the rate is anticipated to yield $23.5 million. This amount, supplemented by $8,375,000 from current revenue sources and by $990,000 from municipalities, will cover the cost of the hospital insurance service, as well as the provincial share of hospital construction, amounting in all to $32,865,000 . . ."

"There is no question that the people of B.C. were led to believe that B.C. hospitals would be financed by this means," says one reeve.

This table is going the rounds of municipal halls:

Year	5% tax Yield	2%	BCHIS from B.C.
1959	$81.9 mil	$32 mil	$31.2 mil
1960	87.3	35	28.3
1961	84.9	34	31.1
1962	89.9	36	32.7
1963	96.9	39	32.4
1964	107.8	43	33.6
1965	125.2	50	36
		269	225.3

From these figures, taken from public accounts, it is apparent that the $225.3 million transferred to hospital use is $43.7 million less than the amount represented by two-fifths of the 5% sales tax.

The municipal protesters say they believe this makes up a major part of the $64 million over-all budget surplus attained by the Bennett budget last year.

They say if it went to hospitals there would be little need to come back to the property owner.

Federal Grants

At the same time, they point out, that BCHIS has been in receipt from the federal government of growing contributions.

In 1959	$12.7 million
1960	20.4
1961	22.5
1962	25.7
1963	30
1964	33.6
1965	36

They say these contributions have nearly trebled in the past seven years.

They say the sales tax revenues are obtained from people who buy goods—who can afford to buy goods—and who thus have an ability to pay. But property tax is charged equally against the property owner who has a small income as against those with large incomes.

People with investments in homes are hit—people with investments in stocks or bonds are not.

And they point out that Premier Bennett, in the same budget speech said:

Ability To Pay

"Any hospital insurance plan sponsored and operated by the government must fail or meet with acrimonious opposition if the benefits it provides are not universally and equitably distributed and if its cost to the people is not fairly distributed in accordance with the ability to pay of the individual."

Further . . . "The logical solution therefore is the abolition of premiums and the imposition of a tax levy with an incidence that reflects in the most equitable manner possible, the income currently available to the people."

The municipal people see this as a statement that sales tax should pay for hospital costs. And the province collects the sales tax.

Some of the municipal leaders say they want a municipal-provincial conference on this matter.

They agree that the hospital program here will suffer if they dig in and recommend a "no" vote.

One municipal spokesman says, "The government has put us in a position where we have to fight against the hospitals' best interest in order to pursue a principle.

"When we have a surplus we shouldn't have to have land taxes boosted."

He points out that area ratepayers already face a healthy boost for school costs with teachers requesting another raise — and in Saanich at least there is a 2 mill increase proposed for capital expenditures.

Boost Taxes

He said many residents in his area, living in modest homes on modest pensions can't afford the taxes now and many of them are forced to sell out and move into cheap downtown hotel rooms.

He says the provincial government hasn't had to increase taxes since 1954 and the federal government from time to time has cut taxes—but the municipalities have to boost taxes each year.

The municipal objectors also take issue with the contention by those who support the referendum that a two-mill tax rate boost will yield the needed $5.7 million before the district growth requires millions more. They say this levy would raise only $554,000 each year or $2½ million in five years, when new needs will be apparent.

The balance would have to come from borrowing with interest rates greatly increasing the amount needed.

They say too that a two-mill levy in the capital region means different amounts in different areas. They say it means about $5 a resident in Oak Bay but only $2.50 to $3 per resident in Saanich. Why should Oak Bay pay twice as much per head?

. . . RHODESIA

Gibbs, to be empowered to withdraw Rhodesian troops from their positions along the Zambian border, he told a national rally here.

"We expect Britain to act and act quickly," he said. "If the Queen's representative in Rhodesia (the governor) is going to be forced to make a dishonorable exit from Government House in Salisbury, chased out by a rebel government, it will go down in history that the British people failed all of mankind."

Kaunda then launched an attack on Rhodesia's Negro nationalist leaders based in Zambia with the most violent public criticism he has ever made against anyone—including the former colonial government in this erstwhile colony of Northern Rhodesia.

"They are not nationalists, they are stupid idiots," he declared.

Kaunda said it is stupid for exiled Rhodesian nationalists, the representatives of Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples' Union and Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole's Zimbabwe African National Union to shout from the comfort of Zambia: "We are going to kill all the whites in Rhodesia."

"Not all the whites are guilty," Kauda said.

HOME GARDEN

Watching Clock Helpful

By HILDA BEASTALL

The hobby greenhouses glimpsed in Victoria gardens need thoughtful treatment at this season, if they are to be successful.

Hilda

As custodians of living plants, the first essential is air. Ventilation is the word where greenhouses are concerned.

So far this season, artificial heat has not been required for the general run of hardy or near-hardy plants.

The shelter provided by the glass structure has been sufficient if close attention has been given to daily routines. Colder weather will require a different routine adapted to the conditions.

OPEN VENTILATOR

First thing in the morning, a ventilator should be opened, much or little, according to the wind and outside temperature.

As the temperature rises outdoors, more ventilation can be allowed. On sunny days with outside temperature between 45 and 50 deg. F., the greenhouse door may be left wide open without ill effects.

One needs to be a clock-watcher, or have a time instinct as some gardeners are blessed with, in order to begin closing the vents around three-thirty while the sun is still shining on the glass.

By four o'clock all vents and the door should be closed. This scheme prolongs the period of warmth around the plants by as much as two hours.

ACCURATE GUESS

A tested thermometer, preferably a maximum-minimum indicating type, is useful for the owner of a greenhouse during the first few years, but after several years' experience one can give a guess accurately before checking the instrument.

Watering before artificial heat is started has to be kept to a minimum, and given only to those plants in need of it.

Avoid Spilling water on benches and floor, since a surplus will lower the night temperature and raise the humidity—an undesirable condition at this time of year.

To be safe, do the small amount of necessary watering early in the day on the rising temperature.

If heat is used later, the routine has to be altered.

Fishermen Voting

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's herring fishermen held meetings along the coast this weekend to vote on a wage offer by the Fisheries Association of B.C. The negotiating committee of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union is recommending that the striking fishermen reject the offer of a $1.52-per-ton increase in the price paid for herring.

chemicals plant where 20 men refused to enter the building.

A Pacific Petroleums bulk plant in Dawson Creek and Pacific 66 service stations in Fort St. John also were picketed.

The extended strike was called after oil companies did not reply to an amended bargaining position submitted by the union.

The oil workers asked for an extra 50 cents an hour in a two-year contract, instead of 40 cents in one year. In the important job security field, they sought six months notification of new processes instead of 18 months.

A second reason is that, under the Labor Relations Act, a union that doesn't strike within three months of a strike vote loses the right to strike.

At the same time, officials of the province's major trade unions were meeting in Vancouver.

E. P. O'Neal, secretary of the 110,000-member B.C. Federation of Labour, said the talks were called "to state the seriousness of the situation and to map strategy to ensure 100 per cent support for the oil workers in their fight for job security."

Major unions have pledged support for the oil workers by agreeing that petroleum products from strike-bound companies will be considered "hot."

Widespread labor support for the oil workers could shut down massive sections of the B.C. economy, amounting, in effect, to a general strike.

This morning, Premier Bennett sent telegrams to the International Woodworkers of America and the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, which together represent 42,000 forest industry workers.

The unions, in a telegram to the premier, warned that complete disruption throughout the forest industry would result from a province-wide oil strike.

The premier said in reply: "You are requested to advise the membership of your unions to act in a lawful and responsible manner and help avoid a shutdown of this essential industry."

Locally, motorists needn't worry immediately about getting gasoline for their cars.

Service stations normally carry a week's reserve and tankers have been filling up company storage depots around the Inner Harbor for the last few days.

150 Cong Killed In Savage Battle

SAIGON (AP)—B-52 bombers pounded rear positions of a North Vietnamese regiment today as two U.S. infantry battalions continued to slug it out with them in heavy fighting near the Cambodian border.

The two U.S. battalions held their own through 36 hours of at times savage fighting. At least 129 enemy bodies were counted and as many as 150 were believed to litter the battlefield in front of U.S. lines.

U.S. casualties were termed "moderate," but it required more than a dozen helicopters to take out the American wounded. Most of the dead were still in the battle zone. It was too dangerous for helicopters to fly except on urgent missions.

In earlier air action, North Vietnamese gunners shot down an American A-1E Skyraider. A U.S. military spokesman reported the pilot was killed when the plane exploded near the battleground 200 miles north of Saigon in the central highlands.

Three North Vietnamese battalions—about 2,000 men—were engaging the American troops and it was possible that others were waiting farther back.

The fighting broke out Sunday afternoon.

Come on over to smoothness with no letdown in taste

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Clear skies overnight in the northern interior of B.C. produced fairly low temperatures in that area early this morning. Prince George was coldest with a reading of 8 above followed by Smithers with 13 above. Clearing was expected in south coastal areas this afternoon as the storm centre off the northern coast of California continues to weaken. A disturbance crossing the Gulf of Alaska however was to spread cloud over the north coast by noon today with rain beginning there this evening. Cloudiness from this system will reach the south coast Tuesday morning. Chilly Arctic air will continue to affect most interior sections of the province.

Missing Moroccan Allegedly Kidnapped

PARIS (UPI) — The chief of the Paris narcotics squad and his assistant were in jail here today, charged with having kidnapped Moroccan opposition leader Mehdi Ben Barka "to do a favor" to one of their informers.

Chief Louis Souchon, 49, and detective Roger Voitot, 37, allegedly admitted after two days of questioning they were the men who showed police cards to Ben Barka on a crowded Paris street Oct. 29 and drove him away—allegedly in their official squad car.

Police sources said the two officers claimed they were doing a favor for Antoine Lopez, an airline official already charged with complicity in the kidnap, in return for valuable drug smuggling tips he picked up in his work at Paris Orly airport.

Ben Barka's whereabouts are unknown.

Meanwhile, reports from Morocco said Interior Minister Gen. Mohamed Oufkir has denied being involved in any way in the kidnap. The French press openly has charged him with instigating it for political reasons.

Judge Andre Zollinger, in charge of investigations, issued a request to Moroccan authorities to take evidence from Oufkir and his secret police chief on the affair. Oufkir reportedly said he would refuse to make any such statements.

Church Teachers To Attend Conference

Sunday school teachers at the Glad Tidings Tabernacle, 842 North Park Street, will attend a national Sunday school convention in New Westminster Nov. 23-25.

Delegates from 127 Pentecostal churches in British Columbia are expected at the convention, which is sponsored by the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada.

S. AFRICA SUPPRESSES PEACE STORY

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — "Finding Out," a British-published children's magazine, containing an article on Nobel Peace Prize winner Albert Luthili, has been banned by the South African government.

Ex-Chief Luthuli, a Zulu, is confined to his Natal Province farm as a banned person under the suppression of Communism laws.

The offending article is titled "The Chief Who Loves Peace" and is described by magazine sales representative F. A. Low as completely factual.

WON'T COMMIT MILITARY AID

Verwoerd 'Plays Cool' In Rhodesian Crisis

VERWOERD
. . . forces strong

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—A large crowd of white South Africans joined lustily at the weekend in singing "we are marching to Rhodesia."

They were government party supporters whose impromptu songs filled the hall while they waited for Premier Hendrik Verwoerd to make his first public speech since his Rhodesian neighbor, Ian Smith, seized independence from Britain.

But Verwoerd gave them no indication they would soon be marching, at least in the military sense, to the assistance of their white kinsfolk in Rhodesia.

Deep in their hearts, the bulk of white South Africans applaud Smith's seizure of independence, but meantime Verwoerd is playing it cool. Nothing he has said or done points to his permitting his country's powerful military forces to be used in a power struggle that might develop around Rhodesia.

FORCES READY

These forces are reputed to be the best-trained and equipped in Africa.

They have modern weapons, a powerful air force (its exact size is secret) equipped with jet fighters, bombers and long-range reconnaissance aircraft.

Their small navy is considered militarily adequate for effective coastal patrol. Behind the troops stands the continent's largest armed police force ready to take complete command of the home front if required.

Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster recently surveyed South Africa's military preparations, matched it against what black Africa might be able to muster and concluded, "We could finish these people off before breakfast" if it came to a showdown.

Defence Minister Jim Fouche is to open Monday what officials have called a new "deterrent to South Africa's potential enemies" from the north.

It is an early-warning radar system 100 miles southeast of the country's administrative capital, Pretoria, and effective over an area of 60,000 square miles. The system's major aim is to search for, locate and identify approaching aircraft and to intercept and destroy enemy planes.

INCLUDES FEW BLACKS

Unlike most African states South Africa's security forces are almost entirely white. Only a handful of non-whites are used in non-combatant duties.

While he is clearly, at least meantime, not considering military support for Rhodesia, Verwoerd has emphasized he envisages continued economic and friendly relations with Rhodesia.

He has publicly defined his policy as: He won't be dragged into a domestic struggle in Rhodesia between that country and Britain, he will not participate in any kind of boycott against Rhodesia and he will continue to be friendly with whatever government is chosen by the Rhodesian people.

"For us Rhodesia is our immediate neighbor with whom we have lived in good co-operation and great friendship for many years. We are bound by bonds of contiguity and blood."

Automation Action High On NDP List

VANCOUVER (CP) — NDP leader T. C. Douglas Sunday demanded legislative action by the Liberal government on the problems of automation.

He described automation's effects as "the greatest problem of our time."

"We will use whatever political influence we have, what leverage we have, to put good legislation on the statute books," he told a meeting of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC).

"There is one issue that is of paramount importance — that issue is automation."

The benefits of automation don't "just belong to the boss, to the shareholders, to the coupon clippers.

"The benefits belong to all the people. It is you and I who educated the scientists and workers who invented and made these new machines, educated them through our tax dollars.

"Human society made possible automation. The benefits must also go to society."

He called for legislation providing that profits accruing from automation be plowed back into retraining those replaced by it.

Mr. Douglas said the NDP would not enter a coalition with the Liberals or Conservatives. His party holds 21 seats in the 265-seat House of Commons. The Liberals have 131, the Conservatives 97.

TSHOMBE
. . . making comeback

New Congo PM Toppled

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Moise Tshombe's chances of ousting Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu next year were on the rise today after Parliament overthrew the premier Kasavubu named to replace Tshombe.

The month-old government of Premier Evariste Kimba was declared dismissed Sunday after Tshombe's forces defeated a confidence motion during a joint session of the Senate and the chamber of deputies. The vote was 121 for Kimba, 134 against and seven abstentions.

Kasavubu kicked out Tshombe Oct. 13 after 15 months as premier and replaced him five days later with Kimba.

Castro Blames U.S. For Havana Raid

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro has blamed the United States for a hit-and-run attack by two boats on a residential section of the Havana waterfront. One woman was reported slightly injured.

Meanwhile the U.S. government began a sealift of refugees from Matanzas, Cuba. The chartered excursion boat Skipper K took 108 Cubans to Key West, Fla., Saturday night and another 94 Sunday.

The state department had no comment on Castro's charge of U.S. responsibility for the strafing attack early Sunday. But Cuban exile sources in Miami said it was the work of RECE—the Cuban representation in exile—and that the two boats returned safely to their base "somewhere in the Caribbean."

Castro, in a televised speech, said gunfire from one of the boats was intended to hit the waterfront residence of President Osvaldo Dorticos but hit the nearby national aquarium instead.

Public Invited To University Psychology Panel

The psychology department heads from B.C.'s three public universities will meet at the University of Victoria Tuesday to discuss graduate studies in psychology.

The meeting will take the form of a panel discussion which the public is invited to attend in Room 210 of the Young Building on the Lansdowne campus.

Dr. William Gaddes of the University of Victoria, Dr. Douglas Kenny of the University of B.C. and Dr. Lorne Kendall of Simon Fraser University are meeting in an attempt to formulate graduate psychology programs in the province which will complement each other.

The discussions will begin at 3:30 p.m.
